NOTICE is hereby given, that on Monday, the 12th January 1857, at the hour of eleven o'Clock in the forenoon, will be put up to Sale at the Exchange Rooms at Calcutta, and sold by Public Auction, for exportation by Sea, the under-mentioned quantity of Opium, the provision of 1855-56, subject to the following Conditions, viz. :—

Produce of Behar Agency Chests ..	2,540
Ditto of Benares ditto ditto ...	1,115
Total Chests ...	3,655

Conditions of Sale.

1. The Opium will be sold for exportation by Sea only, and no Certificate will be granted except to cover such export.

2. The Opium will be ordinarily offered for Sale at an upset price of Rupees 400 per Chest, and sold to the highest bidder above that price, except under the circumstances for which provision is made by Clause 12 of the Conditions of Sale

3. The Sale shall commence at the hour of 11 A. M, and shall not be continued after the hour of 5 P. M., but if at that hour any of the lots advertized for Sale shall remain unsold, the Sale may, at the discretion of the Board of Revenue, be resumed on the next day following (not being Sunday or a public Holiday) at the hour of 11 A. M. and so on, until the whole of the remaining lots are disposed of, or if the quantity of 3,655 Chests shall not be sold on the day advertized, the Board may dispose of the lots which remain on hand at a future Sale.

4. Each lot to contain five chests

5 A deposit in a Promissory Note, either for 25 per cent. even money of the amount for which each lot is knocked down or for Rupees 1,000 at the discretion of the Officer superintending the Sale, shall be made by the purchaser in the Sale Room; and before the lot is registered in the Sale Book, and all such Promissory Notes shall be redeemed on the part of the purchasers at this Office by Sub-Treasurer's receipts, or by substitution of other public Securities of the Bengal Government on or before 4 o'clock of the afternoon of Saturday, the 17th January, or, on the other hand, failing such redemption by the time aforesaid, then the lot or lots for which no Sub-Treasurer's receipts or deposit of other public Securities as aforesaid shall have been delivered in, shall be re sold at such time or times and under such conditions of re-sale as the Board of Revenue shall see fit; and all losses and expenses whatsoever attending such re-sale shall be borne, and paid by the defaulters, whilst any profit accruing from such re-sale shall be forfeited to Government.

6 The Promissory Notes taken on the day of Sale, under the last-mentioned Condition, if remaining unredeemed on the said 17th January, will be placed in the hands of the Attorney to the Hon'ble Company for realization in such manner as to him shall seem fit.

7. No tender of money, Sub-Treasurer's receipts or public Securities on account of Opium upon which the prescribed deposit may not have been made before 4 o'clock of the 17th January will be afterwards accepted.

8. The Opium now advertized for Sale shall be paid for within 15 clear days from the day of Sale, that is to say, no Treasury receipt will be accepted in payment after 4 P. M of Tuesday, the 27th January 1857, and in case any lots of such Opium shall not be so paid for and adjusted, then the cash deposit of 25 per cent. even money of the amount for which each lot is knocked down, or Rupees 1,000 for each lot, or any public Securities that may have been deposited on account of such lots or chests, shall be forfeited, and the Opium be disposed of on account of Government at such time and in such manner as the Board of Revenue shall think fit, and the first purchaser shall further be required to make good any loss or difference of price between that obtained at the re-sale and the amount at which the Opium was first purchased, forfeiting all advantages that may arise from such re-sale.

9. Purchasers taking out Certificates or Orders for the delivery of Opium after making full payment as above prescribed, shall have the option of naming the number of lots of their purchase which they may desire to be included in each Certificate or Order, and it is to be clearly understood, that the Certificates or Orders so taken out shall be considered final, and not afterwards changeable for other Certificates or Orders authorizing the delivery of single lots or of a different number of lots or chests whether more or less, than the number of lots or chests originally required to be included in each Certificate or Order.

10. No Sub Treasurer's receipts or deposit of public Securities under the fifth of the present Conditions will be received in this Office except from the party recorded as the purchaser in the Sale Book or his authorized Agent. The receipt for deposit of public Securities will be granted only in the name of such purchaser, and the securities so deposited will be returned when payment in full has been made by the said purchaser or his order.

11. The Officer superintending the Sale on the part of the Board of Revenue is empowered to reject at his discretion the bid of any individual unless such individual shall, on demand, tender at the time a deposit either in Bank of Bengal Notes, Sub-Treasurer's receipts or other Government Securities equal to 25 per cent. even money of the amount so bid, or Rupees 1,000 for each lot.

12. With a view to prevent fictitious biddings designed to obstruct the Sale, it is hereby notified, that the Officer of Government superintending the Sale shall be competent at any time during the Sale to withdraw any unsold lot and immediately to put it up again for Sale at a maximum upset price, diminishing the same gradually until a bid is obtained; and the first bonâ fide bidder for a lot after it has been offered for sale in the mode here described, shall be held and declared to be the purchaser of the said lot; and the Officer of Government superintending the Sale shall also be competent to dispose in the same manner of as many of the subsequent lots as he may think proper, provided, always, that no lots shall be sold below the minimum price of 400 Rupees specified in the 2nd Clause of these Conditions.

13 The purchaser of any lot shall have the option of naming and purchasing in immediate succession, any number of lots of the same Agency. Opium to the extent of twenty-five lots, and for the lots so purchased, the purchaser shall deposit for each lot 25 per cent. even money of the amount bid by him for the first lot, or Rupees 1,000 for each lot, and pay the same price per chest as that for which he purchased his first lot provided, always, that there remain a sufficient number of lots of that Opium to complete the said twenty-five, but not otherwise.

14. In the event of any dispute or difference touching or concerning any matter or question arising out of the Sale of the Opium included in this Notification, or adjustment of the account there of, the same shall and may be tried and decided in the Supreme Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal, and all and every Plea and Pleas to the jurisdiction of the said Supreme Court shall be waived.

15. The following papers together with samples of the Opium for sale will be exhibited for inspection on the day of Sale, or may be seen previously to that date by application at the Office of the Junior Secretary to the Board of Revenue :—

No. 1—Certificate of the Opium now advertised for Sale.

No. 2—Report of the Examination of such Opium.

16. The public are hereby informed, that in providing the investment of the Behar and Benares Opium for the year 1855-56, the same precautions have been taken as those which have been observed during past years, to have the drug procured and sent down in a pure state, to have only the prescribed quantity of leaves used in forming the Cakes, and to have the due proportion of Opium put into each Cake. An Account of the weight of the drug when packed at Behar and Benares, and a Statement of the average weight of the Chests indiscriminately taken for the purpose of comparison, from the despatches on arrival at Calcutta, may be seen on application at the Office of the Junior Secretary to the Board of Revenue ; and further that four chests of Behar and Benares Opium which have been reserved from the provision of the two preceding years, will be also shown to the purchasers at the Exchange Rooms on the day of Sale, to enable them to judge of the state of preservation in which the drug has kept.

17. Any further information respecting weight or quality of the Opium advertized for Sale that may be desired by parties connected with the Trade will, as heretofore, be furnished to them on application at the Office of the Board of Revenue, but in accordance with established usage ; under no circumstances will the Board entertain or recognize any claim to compensation for loss from any alleged deficiency of weight, abstraction of Opium, or adulteration of the drug which may be preferred on reference to Chests after the Sale and delivery of the Opium for shipment.

18. The public are hereby informed that in addition to the quantity above-mentioned, the following quantities, more or less, of Behar and Benares Opium of 1855-56, will be brought to Sale in the year 1857, on or about the dates specified below. Article of the Convention above referred to.

Article 6th.—" With regard to the trade in Opium, it is agreed between the high contracting parties that at each of the periodical Sales of that article, there shall be reserved for the French Government, and delivered upon requisition duly made by the Agents of His Most Christian Majesty, or by the persons duly appointed by them, the number of Chests so applied for, provided that such supply shall not exceed Three hundred Chests in each year, and the price for the same shall be determined by the average rate at which Opium shall have been sold at every such periodical Sale, it being understood that if the quantity of Opium applied for at any one time shall not be taken on account of the French Government by the Agents of His Most Christian Majesty within the usual period of delivery, the quantity so applied for shall nevertheless be considered as so much on reduction of the Three hundred Chests herein before mentioned. The requisitions for Opium as aforesaid are to be addressed to the Governor General at Calcutta, with in thirty days after Notice of the intended Sales shall have been published in the Government Gazette."

PUBLISHED BY ORDER OF THE DIRECTORS OF THE BANK OF BENGAL.

To

J. B. PLUMB, ESQUIRE,
Secretary, Bank of Bengal.

SIR,

Letter from J. C. Schorn, H. Fraser, and others, Esqrs, dated the 11th December 1856, to C. H. Lushington, Esq., Chairman of the Meeting held on the 10th instant.
Letter from C. H. Lushington, Esq., to Messrs. J. C. Schorn and others, in reply, dated 20th December 1856.

I have the honor to forward, for submission to the Directors, the correspondence noted in the margin.

I have the honor to be,
Sir,
Your most obdt. Servant,
(Sd.) C. H. LUSHINGTON,
Chairman of the Meeting held on the 10th Dec. 1856.

CALCUTTA,
The 20th December 1856.

To

C. H. LUSHINGTON, ESQUIRE,
Chairman of the Meeting at the Bank of Bengal, on the 10th instant.

SIR,

As Shareholders of the Bank of Bengal present at the Meeting on the 10th instant, we beg to call your attention to the following circumstances:

Upon the 4th Resolution, for referring to the Shareholders at large, the question of a gratuity for the Directors, the Commercial Directors of the Bank repudiated, as a calumny, the assertion that they had voted in favor of a gratuity for themselves, on the 14th August last, but immediately afterwards, all of the Directors then present, who could vote, joined in the vote for paying themselves, and for rejecting the proposal to refer the question to the whole body of Shareholders.

The measure was thus carried by ten votes to nine, exclusive of proxies, and while some individuals who tendered their votes for the fairer proposition, viz. to refer to the whole body of Shareholders were rejected as inadmissible on formal grounds, at the suggestion of Mr. Plumb the Secretary; the vote of Mr. Cooke, the Accountant of the Bank, was taken to gain the majority of ten.

We beg to call your particular attention to this point, as a further instance of the interference of the chief Officers of the Bank in the elections of the Shareholders. Mr. Cooke, it seems, only became a Shareholder on the day before the Meeting. He was most active in voting throughout as a prin cipal, and not as a proxy, (having neither handed in, nor produced any proxies) and he was fully aware that he was voting improperly, as he had just seen Mr. Ashburner's vote rejected, though a proxy holder; and had himself, at the election of Directors, rejected that gentleman's vote as a Principal under Clause 16 of the Charter.

These practices on the part of the Officials of the Bank are now referred to the Directors for their investigation, and for such action as they may deem the occasion to require.

We need hardly add that a majority thus obtained by the Secretary and Accountant of the Bank, not to mention the indelicacy of the votes in their own favor given by the Directors, is not one which we can recognise as binding on the proprietors. We protest therefore against it, or against any vote for remunerating the Directors, unless fairly obtained, and after full notice and application to the Shareholders at large; and we request that this protest may be appended to the Proceedings of the day.

We have the honor to be, Sir,

Your most obedient Servants,

BANK OF BENGAL,

Calcutta, 30th December 1856.

To

C. HUGH LUSHINGTON, ESQ.,
Chairman of the Meeting of Proprietors of the Bank of Bengal, held on the 10th December 1856.

SIR,

I AM directed to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 20th instant with its enclosure, and in reply to inform you that the communication from Messrs. G. C. Hay, Hugh Fraser, and others, will be appended to the record of the Proceedings of the Meeting of the 10th instant, as requested, but as matter of favor only.

The Directors desire me to state, that the communication of Messrs. G. C. Hay, H. Fraser, and others, if intended to be a formal protest against the carrying of Mr. D. Cowie's amendment on the 4th Resolution, ought to have been given in before the dissolution of the Meeting—or at all events that their intention of giving it, ought then to have been announced, instead of its being delayed as appears from your letter to Messrs. G. C. Hay, H. Fraser, and others, to have been the case, for nine days, from the 11th to the 20th instant; and that it cannot, under the circumstances under which it has been presented, be held to be entitled to that weight which it might otherwise have had, or indeed to be treated as a formal protest at all.

I am further desired to intimate, that the Directors do not consider that there is anything in the communication of Messrs. Hay and others, that in any way affects the validity of the Proceedings.

They observe that it is quite unnecessary that such a question as that contained in Mr. D. Cowie's amendment on the 4th Resolution should be submitted to the Shareholders at large. All such questions have invariably been disposed of at General Meetings; and as the General Meeting of the 10th instant was called under the usual Notice prescribed by the Charter, the Proceedings of that Meeting must be looked upon as final, until they are reversed by the decision of another General Meeting.

The Directors also observe, that the carrying of Mr. D. Cowie's amendment on the 4th Resolution did not turn upon the vote of Mr. Cooke. If Mr. Cooke's vote had not been taken, and even if the votes of the Directors had not been taken, there would, nevertheless, have been a majority, including the special proxies, the only proxies offered, of eighteen to nine.*

* The majority entered in the proceedings was twenty-three to nine of the twenty-three votes, one was Mr. Cooke's, and four were given by Directors.

With reference to the circumstances under which the vote of Mr. Cooke was taken, neither the Directors, nor the Secretary, were aware at the time, that Mr. Cooke was otherwise than a Shareholder duly qualified to vote in right of his share; and although it would, doubtless, have been better had Mr. Cooke ascertained in the first instance that his vote could not have been received, they believe he was ignorant of the circumstances under which Mr. Ashburner's vote had been rejected, and they find excuse for his voting in the manner he did, in the fact that he held proxies from other Shareholders which he was prepared to produce, had they been called for, not being, as he says aware that their production at the time was necessary.

The Directors remark that Messrs. Hay and others are in error, if they intend to say, that all the Directors repudiated the assertion that they had voted in favor of a gratuity for themselves on the 4th August last. Mr. Stewart, the only one who did vote on the occasion, admitted that he had done so; and the other Directors merely asserted that Mr. Ashburner was incorrect, in saying that two or three Directors had voted instead of one.

In respect to the vote given at the last Meeting by certain of the Directors on Mr. Cowie's amendment, I am further desired to observe, that the Directors are not aware of any circumstances which can be held to debar them from the right of so voting. They consider it expedient that the Directors of a large Public Institution, like the Bank of Bengal, should be remunerated; they notice that such remuneration is admitted by most of the Joint Stock Banks and other Public Companies in Great Britain and in India; and while they believe that the practice is sound in principle, they consider that they would not have been doing their duty to themselves and to their constituents (all of whom that have been referred to, have approved of the measure) if they had, by refusing to vote, withheld the expression of their opinion, or risked the rejection of a measure which they look upon as advantageous to the interests of the Bank.

I have the honor to be,
Sir,
Your most obedient Servant,

Secy. and Treasurer.

NOTIFICATION.

No. 14.

FORT WILLIAM, FOREIGN DEPARTMENT,

THE 5TH JANUARY 1857.

THE Right Hon'ble the Governor General of India in Council has much gratification in publishing, for general information, the Despatches which have been received by the Government of Bombay, announcing the unresisted occupation of Karrack on the 4th, and the surrender of Bushire on the 10th ultimo, after an ineffectual opposition.

The Right Hon'ble the Governor General in Council desires to express his unqualified approbation of this important service, and his gratitude to those by whose joint exertions it has been accomplished.

The perfect concert, and good-feeling, which have marked the action of the Military and Naval Forces; the intrepidity with which the attack both by sea and land was conducted; and the cheerfulness with which hardships, inseparable from the disembarkation of Troops on an Enemy's shore, have been endured—claim alike the admiration and the cordial acknowledgements of the Government of India.

The Right Hon'ble the Governor General in Council has much satisfaction in publicly recording his obligations to Major General Stalker, C. B, and to Rear Admiral Sir H. Leeke, K. H., R. N., for the skill and the energy which have guided their operations, and in tendering to them, as well as to the Officers and men under their command, his warmest thanks for the complete success in which these operations have resulted.

To Commander Jones, Political Agent with the Field Force, whose local knowledge and experience were eminently useful to the Major General Commanding the Expeditionary Force, and who, after the occupation of the City, used his best exertions to re-assure the Town people, to provide for the subsistence and comfort of the Troops, and to secure the public safety, the Right Hon'ble the Governor General in Council desires to give the assurance of his entire approbation.

While thus congratulating the Military and Naval Forces on the important result which has been achieved, the Right Hon'ble the Governor General in Council laments to know that it has been purchased with the sacrifice of valuable lives. He deplores the loss of Brigadier Stopford and Lieutenant-Colonel Malet, who nobly perished while leading their men to the attack, and of Lieutenants Utterson and Warren, who subsequently died of wounds received in the performance of their duty.

The Right Hon'ble the Governor General in Council is pleased to direct that a Royal Salute shall be fired from the Ramparts of Fort William, and at every principal Military Station, in honor of the signal success which has attended the first operations of the British Forces on the Coast of Persia.

By order of the Right Hon'ble the Governor General of India in Council,

G. F. EDMONSTONE,
Secretary to the Government of India.

From Major General F. STALKER, C. B., Commanding Expeditionary Field Force,

To H. L. ANDERSON, Esq., Secretary to Government, Political Department, Bombay.

Head Quarters, Field Force;
Bushire, 12th December 1856.

SIR,—I have the satisfaction of reporting to you, for the information of the Right Honorable the Governor in Council, that the British Flag has been hoisted on the walls of Bushire, which, as well as the Island of Karrack, is garrisoned by our Troops.

I have the honor at the same time to forward copy of my letter of this day's date to the Adjutant General, and I trust that the amount of duty of all kinds with which I am overwhelmed will plead my excuse for any deficiency of detail.

I have the honor to be, &c.,

(Signed) FOSTER STALKER, Major General,
Commanding Expeditionary Field Force.

To the ADJUTANT GENERAL of the Army, Bombay.

Head Quarters, Field Force;
Bushire, 12th December 1856.

SIR,—I have the honor to report, for the information of His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief, the complete success which, under the protection of Almighty God, has attended our Arms. The British Flag waives over the walls of Bushire. The place, infinitely stronger than I had any reason to believe from the information I had received, surrendered on the appearance of our Troops before it on the 10th instant. The previous day we had a smart affair in dislodging the enemy from a strong position they occupied in the old Dutch Fort of Reshire. The casualties on this occasion, though numerically small, were principally among the Officers, and, I regret to say, included Brigadier Stopford and Lieutenant Colonel Malet, 3rd Light Cavalry, killed; Captain Wood, Lieutenants Utterson and Warren, 20th Regiment, wounded, the two latter since dead, (Captain Wood, though severely wounded, is doing well). The lesson the enemy received on this occasion together with the bombarding of the works, the imposing appearance of the Troops in line, and of the Fleet, was doubtless the cause of their want of spirit in surrendering the strongly fortified town of Bushire, in which we have found 59 guns,* with large quantities of ammunition and warlike stores. The Governor of the place, and the Commander of the Troops, came out and gave up their swords. They and one of the principal officials are now in my Camp, and will be sent to Bombay. The garrison, to the number of 1,500 or 2,000 men (a large number having previously effected their escape, and very many others having been drowned in attempting to do so) grounded their arms in front of our line, and were next morning escorted by the Cavalry some distance into the country and set free. Every assistance and co-operation has been rendered by the Fleet; a heavy fire was opened in the early morning and kept up spiritedly for some hours, till the place surrendered. At Reshire also, the previous day, all the co-operation possible was rendered by the Fleet. And my very best thanks are due to Sir Henry Loeke, the Officers and Seamen, for their unwearied exertions in landing the Troops, which, owing to the absence of any other boats than those of the Fleet, was a work of much labor, occupying the greater part of three days and two nights. The Force landed at Hallila Bay, about 12 or 13 miles south of Bushire, without any serious opposition—a body of 300 or 400 men, who appeared, being scattered by the fire of the gun-boats. There being no carriage cattle, the Troops were landed without tents or baggage of any description—three days' rations being carried in the havresacks. The hardships which the men have been called upon to undergo have been endured most cheerfully, and I cannot say too much in their praise. Being still without our baggage, I have been unable as yet to obtain the Reports called for from the several Officers Commanding Brigades, Regiments, and Detachments; but I shall do myself the honor to enclose them for the information of His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief.

* Six others have since been discovered.

I ought to have mentioned that on approaching Bushire the enemy were observed to occupy in some force an entrenched position, with a strong Redoubt about a mile and a half from the walls, and commanding the wells from which the main supply of water for the town is derived. This position was precipitately abandoned on my line being formed. It also had sustained a bombardment from the Fleet.

I would beg especially to mention the unwearied exertions and valuable aid rendered to me, from the landing at Hallila Bay to the taking of Bushire, by my Assistant Adjutant General, Lieutenant Colonel Younghusband; Captain Wray, the Assistant Quarter-master General; Major Hill, Commanding Engineers; Captain Dunsterville, Assistant Commissary General; and Dr. Mackenzie, the Superintending Surgeon.

Brigadier Stopford and Lieutenant Colonel Malet died leading on their men in the most gallant style. Brigadier Honner, Commanding 2nd Infantry Brigade; Lieutenant Colonel Shepheard, who succeeded to the Command of the 1st Infantry Brigade; Lieutenant Colonel Trevelyan, Commanding the Artillery Brigade; and Lieutenant Colonel Tapp, Commanding the Cavalry Brigade, have earned my warmest thanks for the manner in which their arduous duties have been carried; as also Captain Pottinger, Brigade Major of Artillery, whose exertions were conspicuous; and my best thanks are equally due to Major Sterling, Commanding H. M.'s 64th Regiment; to Captain Macleod, who succeeded to the Command of the 20th Regiment; to Lieutenant Colonel Ramsay, Commanding 2nd European L. I.; to Major Manson, Commanding 4th Rifles; to Captain Hough, Commanding 2nd Belooch Battalion; to Captain Forbes, who succeeded to the Command of the 3rd Light Cavalry; to Major Blake, Commanding 4th Troop H. A.; to Captain Hatch, Commanding No. 3 Light Field Battery; to Captain Gibbard; Commanding No. 5 Light Field Battery; and to Captain Dickinson, Commanding the Sappers and Miners.

I have also derived every possible assistance from my Aide-de-Camp, Captain Hunter; Major Ballard, Head of the Intelligence Department; Major Boyé, the Deputy Judge Advocate General; Captain Rigby, who has acted as my Persian Interpreter; Captain Finnimore, Commissary of Ordnance; Captain Collier, Deputy Assistant Adjutant General ; Captain Shewell, and Lieutenant Holland, Deputy Assistant Quarter-master General ; Major Barr, Paymaster ; and Lieutenant Willoughby, Sub-Assistant Commissary General.

Lord Dunkellin, of the Coldstream Guards ; Major Taylor, of the Persian Embassy ; and Mr. Johnstone, of the Indian Navy, also rendered most efficient service (having attached themselves to my personal Staff)[?]; and to Mr. Johnstone's knowledge of the country and its inhabitants, with the unwearied zeal he has exhibited, I am much indebted.

In fine, nothing could have surpassed the admirable spirit exhibited by the Officers and men of all ranks, and the utmost praise is due for their zeal, devotion, and gallantry.

I have the honor to be, &c.,

From Rear Admiral Sir HENRY J. LEEKE, K. H., R. N., Commanding Naval Force, Persian Gulf Expedition,

To the Right Honorable LORD ELPHINSTONE, G. C. H., Governor of Bombay.

Honorable Company's Steam Frigate "Assaye," at anchor off Bushire, 10th December 1856.

MY LORD,—It becomes my pleasing duty to report to your Lordship in Council, that after a bombardment, which commenced this morning at 8 o'clock between the Persian batteries and the Men-of-War of the Indian Navy, and lasted on both sides until nearly an hour after noon, that the town of Bushire has been taken, and the Flag of our Sovereign is now flying on the citadel.

It was determined that the disembarkation of the Troops should take place in Hallila Bay, about 10 miles south of the town. All was ready on the morning of the 7th instant, and the gun-boats in advance to cover the landing, when a number of the enemy were discovered in a date-grove about 200 yards to the left of the beach ; the boats opened fire, and after the exchange of a few shots, the enemy retired. Here the famous Chief, the son of Baucher Khan, was killed by a shell from one of the advanced boats, and, I trust, gave a check to, and prevented the approach of, a large number of Persian Troops, who would have very much harassed the Army while landing.

On the following day I paid a visit to General Stalker at the Camp, and on parting I promised him that I would keep close to the shore in this ship, and support the left of the Army, on its approach to the Fort of Reshire (about 4 miles from this place), where it was supposed, from the information we had received, the enemy, in number from 1,500 to 2,000, would receive our Troops, and make a powerful resistance. On my nearing the Fort, this information was confirmed, and we saw it perfectly full of Persian soldiers who were drawn up ready for the attack. At this moment, I was about 1,700 yards from them, when we commenced firing shell,—many dropping within the trenches and committing much slaughter, obliged the Persian Troops to fly, with the exception of about 800, who made a resolute stand, and were driven out by the Troops in one of the most brilliant and gallant charges I ever witnessed. Here the Troops halted for the night.

I then pushed on for this roadstead, and at daylight this morning, seeing the Persian Army drawn up near the wells (their centre supported by a high fortified Tower and Redoubt), it was my duty to dislodge them ; and for this service I ordered the vessels named in the margin, under the command of Lieutenants Tronson, Worsley, Chitty, and Giles, and eight heavy-armed gun-boats under Lieutenant Stradling, to place their ships in position to attack it. This was done in a most gallant way and in the course of an hour I had the satisfaction to see the whole of the Persian Troops in full retreat to the town, but in perfect order and with great coolness, supported by their Artillery. A boat, with a white flag, was now seen approaching the ship, and on one of the Chiefs arriving on board, a request was made by the Governor of the town for a delay of operations for twenty-four hours, to offer terms. This I instantly refused, in consequence of his having fired on one of our small steamers, bearing a flag of truce the day before. Half an hour was given him to get out of the way of our shot ; and the ships having been placed in line of battle, my Flag Ship in the centre, the action commenced, and continued on both sides for two hours, when, observing two batteries outside the town, one a kind of miniature Malakhoff, harassing the "Semiramis" and "Feroze," I directed our fire towards them, and in three hours they were perfectly silenced, and the guns dismounted. A Tower on the N. W. angle of the fort, and a masked battery below the Residency Flagstaff outside the walls, kept up a constant and steady fire upon the "Semiramis" and "Feroze." It was necessary to silence them also ; and seeing that both ships were much damaged by their steady aim, the foremost guns of this ship were ordered to be directed towards them, and in the course of an hour both batteries ceased firing.

"Victoria," Steam Sloop.

I was now anxious to make an opening in the wall of the town, that the Troops might have nothing in their way, if General Stalker, on his arrival, determined upon carrying the place by assault. Our fire was therefore directed to the S. W. angle, and the breach commenced by knocking down a part of the Tower and the embrasure, in which a gun was mounted, as well as the lower part of the wall. The fire from their batteries at this time gradually slackened, and at this moment the Flagstaff in the town was hauled down in token of submission, and the place surrendered.

The Army was by this time close to the town, and it was a source of the greatest pleasure to me to feel that we had cleared away every obstacle that presented itself on their onward march, the more so as they had lost so many gallant fellows the day before when storming the Fort of Reshire.

The ships of the Fleet have suffered considerably in their hulls, masts, and rigging, from the fire of the enemy's guns : the "Semiramis" and "Feroze" have some shot through them, but nothing to prevent all being ready for sea in a day or two. I am most happy to add, that no person has been touched, nor has any casualty occurred during the four hours and a half we were under fire; how this has happened is miraculous, for the grape shot, which fell at every instant around and abreast the gun-boats, and the round shot over and about our ships, was very severe, and proved that our enemy were more formidable than they were supposed to be even by those who had known the town years before, there being 59 guns mounted on the batteries.

It now becomes a pleasing part of my duty to bring to the notice of your Lordship in Council the very great assistance I have received from Commodore Ethersey (who met me off the Island of Kishm, and from his knowledge of this place gave me much valuable information), Captain Jenkins and Young, Commanders Macdonald (in charge of all the Transports) and Rennie, and Acting Commanders Foulerton and Adams, the latter the Captain of this ship, the Officers, Petty Officers, and seamen of the Fleet under my Command; nor can I ever forget their gallant conduct in this day's battle, or their cheerfulness and activity in carrying out my orders, and in moving their ships into position abreast of the batteries, and I am sure the Government will think with me that this was no easy task to perform, for most of the vessels drew from 15 to 16 feet water, and we had to take them (at high water) some way through soft mud to get near enough to the Forts, and this under a heavy fire.

Where all have so ably and gallantly performed their duty, it is difficult to particularise individuals, but I desire to express my warm thanks to Captain Griffith Jenkins, the First Captain of this ship, for the very great assistance he has afforded me throughout the whole of the operations, and particularly during the action. He was the first Officer, assisted by Major Hill, of the Engineers, and Lieutenant Clarkson, the first Lieutenant of my Flag Ship, to enter the town and hoist the British flag.

I trust, my Lord, it will not be taking too much upon myself to express my admiration of the gallant conduct of General Stalker and his brave army, the more so as I have had the honor of being associated with them for many weeks, and have been an eye-witness of all their proceedings from the day of landing, as well as on their advance to the town. In doing so I offer the humble tribute of a British Admiral to the brave General, his Officers, and Soldiers, whose dashing conduct on the day of storming the Fort of Reshire can never be forgotten.

I cannot deny myself the satisfaction of bringing to the notice of your Lordship in Council the excellent manner in which the Commanders and Officers and Crews of the Peninsular and Oriental Company's ships, named in the margin, have conducted their ships during the time they have been with the Fleet. They are at all times ready for any hard work, and have rendered me very essential service, and I beg to express my sincere thanks to them collectively and individually.

To the Masters commanding the Merchant ships (named in the margin) and their Officers and crews, especially to the Commander of the "Result," Captain Cow, whose kind and considerate conduct in bringing off the wounded did him honor, I tender my best thanks for their active exertions. All did their duty, and vied with each other, day and night, which ship should do the most in landing the Troops, horses, and stores.

In conclusion, may I again request your Lordship's notice of the gallant Officers who have given me so much assistance and support during the time I have been fitting out the Persian Gulf Expedition;—by their exertions nearly 10,000 persons, with all their Camp equipage, provisions, guns, and stores, and 1,100 horses have been landed on the shores of Persia, without the slightost accident, and, with the exception of 5 horses, without a casualty of any sort; and by to-morrow evening the Troops will have their tents pitched, cooking things ready, and every arrangement to give them comfort and shelter from the cold weather and rains of the winter. The Indian Navy being a service of seniority, precludes promotion, and, unlike their brethren of the Army, they can gain nothing of advancement to a higher Rank, but if, in bringing to the notice of your Lordship in Council their good and meritorious conduct upon this as well as every other occasion, I have the good fortune to render a service to those who have so thoroughly done their duty, it will be a source of the greatest gratification to me.

I have the honor to be,

My Lord,

Your Lordship's humble and obedient servant,

Rear Admiral R. N., Commander-in-Chief I. N., and Commanding the Naval Force, Persian Gulf Expedition.

From Commander FELIX JONES, I. N., Political Agent with the Forces, and Resident in the Persian Gulf,

To H. L. ANDERSON, Esq., Secy. to Government, Bombay.

Residency in the Persian Gulf; Bushire, 13th Dec. 1856.

SIR,—My last despatch made known my retirement from Bushire. I now continue the report of my proceedings to the present date, in connection with the Expeditionary Force in this Gulf.

2. On the 29th November a detachment of the Fleet, as per margin, first hove in sight of Bushire, and dispelled the prevailing idea that the Force would not quit the shores of India. This illusion I had been able to maintain perfect to the last moment, though the object I had contemplated of an immediate descent on the Coast failed, from the Fleet being scattered in various parts of the Gulf. It was not indeed until the 6th instant that they were sufficiently collected to admit of direct operations being commenced; but, in the mean time, the Island of Karrack was occupied and formed into a Military depôt, as reported in my despatch to Major General Stalker, under date 4th instant.

3. The day subsequent to the arrival of the first ships the Governor of Bushire wrote to me officially on the subject of the display before the town; but, as I was then about proceeding to meet the General some miles off at sea, an answer to his inquiries was delayed, as shown in the accompanying letters. On the 3rd December, the Governor General's Proclamations were sent to him officially, with the sanction of the Major General Commanding the Force. To these there was no reply.

4. On the 6th instant the Fleet moved down to Hallila Bay, which Commodore Ethersey had pronounced the best suited for the debarkation of the Force, and no spot could have been better selected. Dispositions were made for landing the Force on the following morning, when it was effected in admirable order, though not unobserved by the enemy, small parties of whom were driven from their lurking places in the date groves by the fire of the gun-boats and well directed shot from the steam frigate "Ajdaha."*

* Commanded by Lieut. Worsley.

5. Shortly after noon the Force was enabled to advance from the beach, and take up an extended front before the enemy, seen at intervals watching our movements, a few miles in advance. Great difficulties, however, had to be contended with in landing the Cavalry horses and Artillery equipage, from a paucity of Native boats, which I had failed in procuring from the Arab Coasts, owing to the impracticability of dealing with the people in moments of emergency and need. These difficulties were, however, readily surmounted by the skill and activity of the Indian Naval Officers and men, whose exertions on this occasion merit the highest praise. These exertions were fully appreciated by their associates in arms, not less active in their endeavours to get at the enemy with the least possible delay.

6. Forty-eight hours sufficed to put the Troops in motion northward; the ships of war, led by the Admiral, advancing along the Coast to their support. This was on the morning of the 9th, and by noon the enemy were observed to be in some force in the village of Reshire. Here, amid the ruins of old houses, garden-walls, and steep ravines, they occupied a formidable position. But, notwithstanding their firmness, wall after wall was surmounted, and finally they were driven from their last defence (the old Fort of Reshire), bordering on the cliffs at the margin of the sea. This was carried at the point of the bayonet, the enemy then only flying in despair down the cliffs, where many met their death in their endeavours to escape through the ravines of the south. The nature of the ground, however, rendered pursuit difficult to the horse, though many were cut up in a chase of some distance. Details of this spirited affair will be given by the proper Officers. I shall therefore merely observe, that the enemy received at first a lesson he will not readily forget, for the tribe families of Dashti and Tungestoon comprising its ranks are regarded as the most brave as well as the most skilled in the defence of posts like Reshire, where regular Troops cannot work with full effect. Brigadier Stopford, C. B., met his death here, and other loss was experienced. The wounded were received into the ships the same evening, and provisions were thrown into the camp from seaward during the night.

7. It had been agreed upon that I should proceed in person to the town of Bushire in a small steamer with a flag of truce, bearing the accompanying copy of a Summons to surrender, with the terms offered to the garrison. While the above was enacting, I proceeded on this errand with the humane object also of receiving such of the merchants and towns-people as might be desirous of shelter in the Fleet. This was quite in accordance with the wishes of the Government of India in regard to the inhabitants of Bushire; and the Major General, the Admiral, and myself were induced to believe that my presence near them might tend to avert much bloodshed. In this, however, we were disappointed, for, on passing through the intricate channel leading to the town, two batteries, at a distance of 500 yards, opened upon the "Assyria," bearing the flag of truce, in defiance, of all usage of war. Deeming it might be a mistake, I caused the vessel to stop, but a second and a third shot passing close to us, I was compelled to retrace my steps, and, even then, two more guns were discharged. I could scarcely account for this conduct, having taken some pains to explain the meaning of a flag of truce, in the event of warfare, before quitting the town; but, while relating the circumstance to Rear Admiral Sir Henry Leeke, a flag of truce from the shore was reported, and the bearer (Mirza Ismail, Collector of Customs in the town), came off with a written apology from the Governor, who, with the Chief Officers of the garrison, were stated to have been outside of the walls examining into the condition of the exterior defences at the time: every regret was expressed, the act was attributed to the ignorance of an Artillery-man, with hopes that it would be overlooked. To this the Admiral and self replied, that so far as we were personally concerned, we were willing to credit the statements of the Governor and accept the apology, though the act itself, in whatever way originating, must stigmatise the Persian Government and its Officers in the eyes of all civilized States. Mirza Ismail returned with a Summons to the shore.

8. While this was going on, a note from the Major General Commanding announced his intentions of advancing on the town the following morning, and the Admiral disposed his Fleet in order of battle, for first dismantling the newly-erected outworks, and then moving with the view to breaching the south wall of the town. The following morning, as the tide served, the ships were in the positions assigned them. A second flag of truce had come off, begging twenty-four hours' delay, but this was promptly rejected, and at near 8 o'clock the signal was hoisted to engage. Shot and Shell were aimed at the Redoubt south of the town, but with little effect, owing to the great range, though eventually the enemy, assembled there to oppose the troops, were dislodged, and beat a retreat with their guns into the town. The ships, in the meantime, had moved upon the town, and such was the ardour displayed to get close in to the works, that every ship was laid aground at the turn of high water, and for four hours continued to cannonade the defences, which were active in replying the whole time. Many of their guns, however, were not of sufficient calibre to reach the ships, but the perseverance of the Persian gunners in firing from the more heavy pieces was admired by every one. Their shot told very often on the hulls of the "Victoria," "Falkland," "Semiramis," and "Feroze," which latter vessels, under Captain John Young and Commander James Rennie (if comparisons are admissible where all exerted themselves alike), had the posts of honor for the day. Details of the affair, it is unnecessary for me to enter upon It will suffice for me to report that some of the guns being silenced, on the approach of the Army under Major General Stalker, C. B, to breach the wall on the gate side before assault, the Persian Flagstaff was felled in token of submission. This was at noon. The Persian flag has since been recovered by myself, and presented as a joint trophy to the Chiefs conducting the combined operations in this Expedition, who, with every Officer and man in it, whether soldier or sailor, have certainly won for themselves an honorable name

9 After surrender, some little hesitation was shown on the part of the Governor and garrison to come out of the town; an assuring note, coupled with the threat of an assault in half an hour, was, however, sent in by a freed captive; and on the expiration of the time that Officer was seen issuing with his suite from the gate. I moved forward with a party to receive and conduct him to Head Quarters, where after tendering his sword, he met with a gracious reception from the Major General and Rear Admiral Commanding the Forces. Shortly afterwards, the Sirhang, or Lieutenant Colonel and Commandant, submitted, the entire garrison at the same time laying down their arms on my proceeding into the town with assurances of safety from the Major General Commanding in Chief. The British Colors were then hoisted at 4-30 P. M. on the Residency Flagstaff by Lieutenant Clarkson of the Indian Navy, the Troops under orders to garrison the town moving at sunset into the place.

10 Since the occupation I have been engaged with my Assistant, Lieutenant Disbrowe, in giving confidence to the towns-people, securing the magazines, granaries, and other public stores, endeavouring to re-open the bazars, and in adopting measures for the public safety, as well as in taking steps for obtaining supplies. Owing to the distrust naturally prevailing amongst suspicious people quite new to us, and generally ignorant as to our usages and institutions, we have some difficulty to contend with. Time, however, will aid to dispel fears, to restore confidence, and eventually, I hope, secure to us all we require. I must not conceal, however, that our chief local supplies of fresh meat, grain, &c., must be drawn from Busreh and Bagdad, and boats are not readily procurable. A large quantity of coal should therefore be stored both here and at Busreh, for the use of steamers, those of small size being best adapted for this service; they should not fail us, for, in any case to ensure cattle living, the voyage should be shortened as much as possible by their taking boats in tow

11 No intelligence of any kind has come in from the interior; but I may be able to glean some in a few days. All is, however, quiet in the town and districts at the present time

12 I beg to enclose copy of a Proclamation, with appended Articles, which forms the basis of our future administration in these tracts. These will doubtless require emendation as we progress in the government of a strange people, but they seem to me at present best adapted to work upon and have accordingly received the sanction of the Major General Commanding in Chief of the Force.

I have the honor to be, &c.,

A C—A number of vessels, both steam and sailing, have arrived, and anchored abreast of Bushire; others, too, keep making their appearance. Never before have so many ships, pertaining to the British Government, visited these parts. I have deemed it, therefore, my duty to inquire from you on what errand, and to what Port, the said vessels are bound. If their destination be the Persian Gulf, I beg to be apprised of the object of their visit. I trust you will be pleased to acquaint me of the true cause of their coming.

A. To all GOVERNORS and AUTHORITIES in the TOWNS and DISTRICTS bordering up the SHORES of the PERSIAN GULF.

Be it known to you that the Sirdar General Foster Stalker Sahib Bahadoor, decorated with the Order of the Bath, has been entrusted with the supreme Command of a powerful Fleet and Army sent by the exalted Government of Great Britain to these shores. The motives of his coming it is unnecessary for himself to explain, as the enclosed Proclamations from the Most Noble the Governor General of India in Council are sufficiently explicit and clear.

By order of the Sirdar General Sahib Bahadoor,

Political Agent with the Persian Expeditionary Force.

Dated from on board H. C. Steam Frigate "Assaye," bearing the Flag of Rear Admiral Sir Henry J. Leeke, Kt, K. H., in Bushire Roads, December 3rd, 1856.

To the GOVERNOR of the TOWN and DISTRICTS of BUSHIRE.

Anxious to save Bushire from the horrors of war, and to give to its non-combatants, women, and children ample time to escape from its walls, the Sirdar General Sahib and the Sirdar Admiral Sahib, Commanding the English combined Military and Naval Forces before the town, have, to the present time, refrained from bombarding it, otherwise the powerful ships of the British Government could have laid it in ashes in the short space of two hours. The dictates of humanity having therefore been complied with, they will no longer delay, unless the Governor, seeing the inutility of opposition, prudently surrender the town into their hands.

The Governor is given until to-morrow morning at sunrise, to consider his position, when, should he determine on surrender, the top-mast of the Persian Government Flagstaff at the Chetar Boorj must be struck as the signal of submission.

The Sirdar General Sahib and the Sirdar Admiral Sahib, Commanding, &c., offer the following conditions, in case of non-resistance and honorable capitulation :—

Private property of all descriptions, including dwelling-houses, will be scrupulously respected, but public property of every kind, with the contents of granaries, magazines, and public buildings, including arms, ammunition, and public treasure, must be transferred, with the official lists, into their hands.

The worship of Almighty God, according to the dictates of conscience, is tolerated by English law. All sects and denominations, therefore, will be free in the exercise of their religious rites, and will be protected against the least molestation.

The Troops forming the garrison, and all other armed retainers of the Persian Government, will be allowed to march out of the town gate with the full honors of war—that is, with drums beating, flags flying, &c., after which they will pile arms immediately under the wall, left and right of the gate, and deposit all Military equipments, before becoming prisoners of war. The superior Officers will then approach, and surrender their swords in token of submission. All captives of war, if not set free, will receive honorable treatment, clothing, and food, agreeably to the usages of civilized nations, which admit of the superior Officers being abroad on "parole."

The British Government wars not with peaceful citizens and unarmed men. It fights only against the State. All such are protected in life and property and in the exercise of their religious observances, under mild British rule. For these classes conditions are unnecessary.

Such are the terms without evasion. If accepted by the display of the proposed signal, peace will continue at Bushire; if rejected, war on the expiration of the time named.

By order of the Sirdars General and Admiral Sahibs, Commanding the combined British Forces before Bushire, Political Agent with the Forces.

PROCLAMATION.

The Town and Out-works of Bushire, after a four hours' cannonade, having surrendered unconditionally to a combined Naval and Military Force assembled for storm before the place, were formally taken possession of, in the name of Her Majesty Queen "Victoria," yesterday afternoon. The British Colors were hoisted at the Residency Flagstaff in the town at 4-30 P M., the top-mast of His Majesty the Shah of Persia's Flagstaff having been felled in token of submission.

This occupation of Bushire, on the main land of the Persian territories, was announced officially this day, with a Salute of 21 guns from the Fleet, the ships being dressed in the usual form.

GOD SAVE THE QUEEN.

By order of the Major General Commanding the Persian Field Force,

(Signed) FELIX JONES,
Political Agent with the Persian Field Force, and Resident in the Persian Gulf.

British Residency, Bushire, 11th D.c. 18 6.

With reference to the above Proclamation, the town of Bushire is declared to be a Military post, under British rule, and, for the present, subject to the operations of Martial law. All parties, therefore, living under British protection, are warned of the bad consequences of trespassing upon the rights of individuals, or in aiding or abetting others in designs against the State.

2. The Port of Bushire is declared free from all duties until further notice.

3. Warlike stores of every description, coming under the denomination of contraband of war, will be seized and confiscated; as also wines, beers, spirituous liquors, which are pronounced unsaleable in the town or districts without especial license.

4. All other articles, whether for consumption or trade, may be imported or exported at will.

5. The traffic in Slaves is abolished. Newly imported Negroes of every age and sex will be seized and set free.

6. Parties desirous of settling here will be permitted, so long as they continue to live peaceably in recognisation of British law.

BREVET.

Major General Sir James Outram, K. C. B., of the Bombay Army, to have the local rank of Lieutenant General in the East Indies, while employed upon a particular service, dated 14th November 1856.

No. 25 of 1857.—The Right Hon'ble the Governor General of India in Council is pleased to direct that the following Notification from the Foreign Department be published in General Orders :—

No. 14, dated 5th January 1857.—The Right Hon'ble the Governor General of India in Council has much gratification in publishing, for general information, the Despatches which have been received by the Government of Bombay, announcing the unresisted occupation of Karrack on the 4th, and the surrender of Bushire on the 10th ultimo, after an ineffectual opposition.

The Right Hon'ble the Governor General in Council desires to express his unqualified approbation of this important service, and his gratitude to those by whose joint exertions it has been accomplished.

The perfect concert, and good-feeling, which have marked the action of the Military and Naval Forces; the intrepidity with which the attack both by sea and land was conducted; and the cheerfulness with which hardships, inseparable from the disembarkation of Troops on an Enemy's shore, have been endured—claim alike the admiration and the cordial acknowledgements of the Government of India.

The Right Hon'ble the Governor General in Council has much satisfaction in publicly recording his obligations to Major General Stalker, C. B., and to Rear Admiral Sir H. Leeke, K. H., R. N., for the skill and the energy which have guided their operations, and in tendering to them, as well as to the Officers and men under their Command, his warmest thanks for the complete success in which these operations have resulted.

To Commander Jones, Political Agent with the Field Ferce, whose local knowledge and experience were eminently useful to the Major General Commanding the Expeditionary Force, and who, after the occupation of the City, used his best exertions to re-assure the Town-people, to provide for the subsistence and comfort of the Troops, and to secure the public safety, the Right Hon'ble the Governor General in Council desires to give the assurance of his entire approbation.

While thus congratulating the Military and Naval Forces on the important result which has been achieved, the Right Hon'ble the Governor General in Council laments to know that it has been purchased with the sacrifice of valuable lives. He deplores the loss of Brigadier Stopford and Lieutenant-Colonel Malet, who nobly perished while leading their men to the attack, and of Lieutenants Utterson and Warren, who subsequently died of wounds received in the performance of their duty.

The Right Hon'ble the Governor General in Council is pleased to direct that a Royal Salute shall be fired from the Ramparts of Fort William, and at every principal Military Station, in honor of the signal success which has attended the first operations of the British Forces on the Coast of Persia.

By order of the Right Hon'ble the Governor General of India in Council,

G. F. EDMONSTONE,
Secy. to the Govt. of India.

From Major General F. STALKER, C. B., Commanding Expeditionary Field Force,

To H. L. ANDERSON, Esq., Secretary to Government, Political Department, Bombay.

Head Quarters, Field Force;

Bushire, 12th December 1856.

SIR,—I have the satisfaction of reporting to you, for the information of the Right Honorable the Governor in Council, that the British Flag has been hoisted on the walls of Bushire, which, as well as the Island of Karrack, is garrisoned by our Troops.

I have the honor at the same time to forward copy of my letter of this day's date to the Adjutant General, and I trust that the amount of duty of all kinds with which I am overwhelmed will plead my excuse for any deficiency of detail.

I have the honor to be, &c.,

(Signed) FOSTER STALKER, Major General, Commanding Expeditionary Field Force.

To the ADJUTANT GENERAL of the Army, Bombay.

Head Quarters, Field Force;

Bushire, 12th December 1856

SIR,—I have the honor to report, for the information of His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief, the complete success which, under the protection of Almighty God, has attended our Arms. The British Flag waives over the walls of Bushire. The place, infinitely stronger than I had any reason to believe from the information I had received, surrendered on the appearance of our Troops before it on the 10th instant. The previous day we had a smart affair in dislodging the enemy from a strong position they occupied in the old Dutch Fort of Reshire. The casualties on this occasion, though numerically small, were principally among the Officers, and, I regret to say, included Brigadier Stopford and Lieutenant Colonel Malet, 3rd Light Cavalry, killed; Captain Wood, Lieutenants Utterson and Warren, 20th Regiment, wounded, the two latter since dead, (Captain Wood, though severely wounded, is doing well). The lesson the enemy received on this occasion together with the bombarding of the works, the imposing appearance of the Troops in line, and of the Fleet, was doubtless the cause of their want of spirit in surrendering the strongly fortified town of Bushire, in which we have found 59 guns,* with large quantities of ammunition and warlike stores. The Governor of the place, and the Commander of the Troops, came out and gave up their swords. They and one of the principal officials are now in my Camp, and will be sent to Bombay. The garrison, to the number of 1,500 or 2,000 men (a large number having previously effected their escape, and very many others having been drowned in attempting to do so) grounded their arms in front of our line, and were next morning escorted by the Cavalry some distance into the country and set free. Every assistance and co-operation has been rendered by the Fleet; a heavy fire was opened in the early morning and kept up spiritedly for some hours, till the place surrendered. At Reshire also, the previous day, all the co-operation possible was rendered by the Fleet. And my very best thanks are due to Sir Henry Leeke, the Officers and Seamen, for their unwearied exertions in landing the Troops, which, owing to the absence of any other boats than those of the Fleet, was a work of much labor, occupying the greater part of three days and two nights. The Force landed at Hallila Bay, about 12 or 13 miles south of Bushire, without any serious opposition—a body of 300 or 400 men, who appeared, being scattered by the fire of the gun-boats. There being no carriage cattle, the Troops were landed without tents or baggage of any description—three days' rations being carried in the havresacks. The hardships which the men have been called upon to undergo have been endured most cheerfully, and I cannot say too much in their praise. Being still without our baggage, I have been unable as yet to obtain the Reports called for from the several Officers Commanding Brigades, Regiments, and Detachments; but I shall do myself the honor to enclose them for the information of His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief.

* Six others have since been discovered.

I ought to have mentioned that on approaching Bushire the enemy were observed to occupy in some force an entrenched position, with a strong Redoubt about a mile and a half from the walls, and commanding the wells from which the main supply of water for the town is derived. This position was precipitately abandoned on my line being formed. It also had sustained a bombardment from the Fleet.

I would beg especially to mention the unwearied exertions and valuable aid rendered to me, from the landing at Hallila Bay to the taking of Bushire, by my Assistant Adjutant General, Lieutenant Colonel Younghusband; Captain Wray, the Assistant Quarter-master General; Major Hill, Commanding Engineers; Captain Dunsterville, Assistant Commissary General; and Dr. Mackenzie, the Superintending Surgeon. Brigadier Stopford and Lieutenant Colonel Malet died leading on their men in the most gallant style. Brigadier Honner, Commanding 2nd Infantry Brigade; Lieutenant Colonel Shepheard, who succeeded to the Command of the 1st Infantry Brigade; Lieutenant Colonel Trevelyan, Commanding the Artillery Brigade; and Lieutenant Colonel Tapp, Commanding the Cavalry Brigade, have earned my warmest thanks for the manner in which their arduous duties have been carried; as also Captain Pottinger, Brigade Major of Artillery, whose exertions were conspicuous; and my best thanks are equally due to Major Sterling, Commanding H. M.'s 64th Regiment; to Captain Macleod, who succeeded to the Command of the 20th Regiment; to Lieutenant Colonel Ramsay, Commanding 2nd European L. I.; to Major Manson, Commanding 4th Rifles; to Captain Hough, Commanding 2nd Belooch Battalion; to Captain Forbes, who succeeded to the Command of the 3rd Light Cavalry; to Major Blake, Commanding 4th Troop H. A.; to Captain Hatch, Commanding No. 3 Light Field Battery; to Captain Gibbard, Commanding No. 5 Light Field Battery; and to Captain Dickinson, Commanding the Sappers and Miners.

I have also derived every possible assistance from my Aide-de-Camp, Captain Hunter; Major Ballard, Head of the Intelligence Department; Major Boyé, the Deputy Judge Advocate General; Captain Rigby, who has acted as my Persian Interpreter; Captain Finnimore, Commissary of Ordnance; Captain Collier, Deputy Assistant Adjutant General ; Captain Shewell, and Lieutenant Holland, Deputy Assistant Quarter-master General ; Major Barr, Paymaster ; and Lieutenant Willoughby, Sub-Assistant Commissary General.

Lord Dunkellin, of the Coldstream Guards ; Major Taylor, of the Persian Embassy ; and Mr. Johnstone, of the Indian Navy, also rendered most efficient service (having attached themselves to my personal Staff) ; and to Mr. Johnstone's knowledge of the country and its inhabitants, with the unwearied zeal he has exhibited, I am much indebted.

In fine, nothing could have surpassed the admirable spirit exhibited by the Officers and men of all ranks, and the utmost praise is due for their zeal, devotion, and gallantry.

I have the honor to be, &c.,

(Signed) F. STALKER, Major General,

Commanding Expeditionary Field Force.

Honorable Company's Steam Frigate "Assaye," at anchor off Bushire, 10th December 1856.

MY LORD,—It becomes my pleasing duty to report to your Lordship in Council, that after a bombardment, which commenced this morning at 8 o'clock between the Persian batteries and the Men-of-War of the Indian Navy, and lasted on both sides until nearly an hour after noon, that the town of Bushire has been taken, and the Flag of our Sovereign is now flying on the citadel.

It was determined that the disembarkation of the Troops should take place in Hallila Bay, about 10 miles south of the town. All was ready on the morning of the 7th instant, and the gun-boats in advance to cover the landing, when a number of the enemy were discovered in a date-grove about 200 yards to the left of the beach ; the boats opened fire, and after the exchange of a few shots, the enemy retired. Here the famous Chief, the son of Baucher Khan, was killed by a shell from one of the advanced boats, and, I trust, gave a check to, and prevented the approach of, a large number of Persian Troops, who would have very much harassed the Army while landing.

On the following day I paid a visit to General Stalker at the Camp, and on parting I promised him that I would keep close to the shore in this ship, and support the left of the Army, on its approach to the Fort of Reshire (about 4 miles from this place), where it was supposed, from the information we had received, the enemy, in number from 1,500 to 2,000, would receive our Troops, and make a powerful resistance. On my nearing the Fort, this information was confirmed, and we saw it perfectly full of Persian soldiers who were drawn up ready for the attack. At this moment, I was about 1,700 yards from them, when we commenced firing shell,—many dropping within the trenches and committing much slaughter, obliged the Persian Troops to fly, with the exception of about 800, who made a resolute stand, and were driven out by the Troops in one of the most brilliant and gallant charges I ever witnessed. Here the Troops halted for the night.

"Falkland," Sloop.
"Ajdaha," Steam Frigate.
"Berenice."
"Victoria," Steam Sloop.

I then pushed on for this roadstead, and at daylight this morning, seeing the Persian Army drawn up near the wells (their centre supported by a high fortified Tower and Redoubt), it was my duty to dislodge them ; and for this service I ordered the vessels named in the margin, under the command of Lieutenants Tronson, Worsley, Chitty, and Giles, and eight heavy-armed gun-boats under Lieutenant Stradling, to place their ships in position to attack it. This was done in a most gallant way and in the course of an hour I had the satisfaction to see the whole of the Persian Troops in full retreat to the town, but in perfect order and with great coolness, supported by their Artillery A boat, with a white flag, was now seen approaching the ship, and on one of the Chiefs arriving on board, a request was made by the Governor of the town for a delay of operations for twenty-four hours, to offer terms. This I instantly refused, in consequence of his having fired on one of our small steamers, bearing a flag of truce the day before. Half an hour was given him to get out of the way of our shot ; and the ships having been placed in line of battle, my Flag Ship in the centre, the action commenced, and continued on both sides for two hours, when, observing two batteries outside the town, one a kind of miniature Malakhoff, harassing the "Semiramis" and "Feroze," I directed our fire towards them, and in three hours they were perfectly silenced, and the guns dismounted. A Tower on the N. W. angle of the fort, and a masked battery below the Residency Flagstaff outside the walls, kept up a constant and steady fire upon the "Semiramis" and "Feroze." It was necessary to silence them also ; and seeing that both ships were much damaged by their steady aim, the foremost guns of this ship were ordered to be directed towards them, and in the course of an hour both batteries ceased firing.

I was now anxious to make an opening in the wall of the town, that the Troops might have nothing in their way, if General Stalker, on his arrival, determined upon carrying the place by assault Our fire was therefore directed to the S. W. angle, and the breach commenced by knocking down a part of the Tower and the embrasure, in which a gun was mounted, as well as the lower part of the wall. The fire from their batteries at this time gradually slackened, and at this moment the Flagstaff in the town was hauled down in token of submission, and the place surrendered.

The Army was by this time close to the town, and it was a source of the greatest pleasure to me to feel that we had cleared away every obstacle that presented itself on their onward march, the more so as they had lost so many gallant fellows the day before when storming the Fort of Reshire.

The ships of the Fleet have suffered considerably in their hulls, masts, and rigging, from the fire of the enemy's guns : the "Semiramis" and "Feroze" have some shot through them, but nothing to prevent all being ready for sea in a day or two. I am most happy to add, that no person has been touched, nor has any casualty occurred during the four hours and a half we were under fire; how this has happened is miraculous, for the grape shot, which fell at every instant around and abreast the gun-boats, and the round shot over and about our ships, was very severe, and proved that our enemy were more formidable than they were supposed to be even by those who had known the town years before, there being 59 guns mounted on the batteries.

It now becomes a pleasing part of my duty to bring to the notice of your Lordship in Council the very great assistance I have received from Commodore Ethersey (who met me off the Island of Kishm, and from his knowledge of this place gave me much valuable information), Captain Jenkins and Young, Commanders Macdonald (in charge of all the Transports) and Rennie, and Acting Commanders Foulerton and Adams, the latter the Captain of this ship, the Officers, Petty Officers, and seamen of the Fleet under my Command; nor can I ever forget their gallant conduct in this day's battle, or their cheerfulness and activity in carrying out my orders, and in moving their ships into position abreast of the batteries, and I am sure the Government will think with me that this was no easy task to perform, for most of the vessels drew from 15 to 16 feet water, and we had to take them at high water) some way through soft mud to get near enough to the Forts, and this under a heavy fire.

Where all have so ably and gallantly performed their duty, it is difficult to particularise individuals, but I desire to express my warm thanks to Captain Griffith Jenkins, the First Captain of this ship, for the very great assistance he has afforded me throughout the whole of the operations, and particularly during the action. He was the first Officer, assisted by Major Hill, of the Engineers, and Lieutenant Clarkson, the first Lieutenant of my Flag Ship, to enter the town and hoist the British flag.

I trust, my Lord, it will not be taking too much upon myself to express my admiration of the gallant conduct of General Stalker and his brave army, the more so as I have had the honor of being associated with them for many weeks, and have been an eye-witness of all their proceedings from the day of landing, as well as on their advance to the town. In doing so I offer the humble tribute of a British Admiral to the brave General, his Officers, and Soldiers, whose dashing conduct on the day of storming the Fort of Reshire can never be forgotten.

I cannot deny myself the satisfaction of bringing to the notice of your Lordship in Council the excellent manner in which the Commanders and Officers and Crews of the Peninsular and Oriental Company's ships, named in the margin, have conducted their ships during the time they have been with the Fleet. They are at all times ready for any hard work, and have rendered me very essential service, and I beg to express my sincere thanks to them collectively and individually.

To the Masters commanding the Merchant ships (named in the margin) and their Officers and crews, especially to the Commander of the "Result," Captain Cow, whose kind and considerate conduct in bringing off the wounded did him honor, I tender my best thanks for their active exertions. All did their duty, and vied with each other, day and night, which ship should do the most in landing the Troops, horses, and stores.

In conclusion, may I again request your Lordship's notice of the gallant Officers who have given me so much assistance and support during the time I have been fitting out the Persian Gulf Expedition;—by their exertions nearly 10,000 persons, with all their Camp equipage, provisions, guns, and stores, and 1,100 horses have been landed on the shores of Persia, without the slightest accident, and, with the exception of 5 horses, without a casualty of any sort; and by to-morrow evening the Troops will have their tents pitched, cooking things ready, and every arrangement to give them comfort and shelter from the cold weather and rains of the winter. The Indian Navy being a service of seniority, precludes promotion, and, unlike their brethren of the Army, they can gain nothing of advancement to a higher Rank, but if, in bringing to the notice of your Lordship in Council their good and meritorious conduct upon this as well as every other occasion, I have the good fortune to render a service to those who have so thoroughly done their duty, it will be a source of the greatest gratification to me.

I have the honor to be,

My Lord,

Your Lordship's humble and obedient servant,

(Signed) HENRY J. LEEKE,

Rear Admiral R. N., Commander-in-Chief I. N., and Commanding the Naval Force, Persian Gulf Expedition.

From Commander FELIX JONES, I. N., Political Agent with the Forces, and Resident in the Persian Gulf,

To H. L. ANDERSON, Esq., Secy. to Government, Bombay.

Residency in the Persian Gulf; Bushire, 13th Dec. 1856.

SIR,—My last despatch made known my retirement from Bushire. I now continue the report of my proceedings to the present date, in connection with the Expeditionary Force in this Gulf.

2. On the 29th November a detachment of the Fleet, as per margin, first hove in sight of Bushire, and dispelled the prevailing idea that the Force would not quit the shores of India. This illusion I had been able to maintain perfect to the last moment, though the object I had contemplated of an immediate descent on the Coast failed, from the Fleet being scattered in various parts of the Gulf. It was not indeed until the 6th instant that they were sufficiently collected to admit of direct operations being commenced; but, in the mean time, the Island of Karrack was occupied and formed into a Military depôt, as reported in my despatch to Major General Stalker, under date 4th instant.

3. The day subsequent to the arrival of the first ships the Governor of Bushire wrote to me officially on the subject of the display before the town; but, as I was then about proceeding to meet the General some miles off at sea, an answer to his inquiries was delayed, as shown in the accompanying letters. On the 3rd December, the Governor General's Proclamations were sent to him officially, with the sanction of the Major General Commanding the Force. To these there was no reply.

4. On the 6th instant the Fleet moved down to Hallila Bay, which Commodore Ethersey had pronounced the best suited for the debarkation of the Force, and no spot could have been better selected. Dispositions were made for landing the Force on the following morning, when it was effected in admirable order, though not unobserved by the enemy, small parties of whom were driven from their lurking places in the date groves by the fire of the gun-boats and well directed shot from the steam frigate "Ajdaha"*

* Commanded by Lieut. Worsley.

5. Shortly after noon the Force was enabled to advance from the beach, and take up an extended front before the enemy, seen at intervals watching our movements, a few miles in advance. Great difficulties, however, had to be contended with in landing the Cavalry horses and Artillery equipage, from a paucity of Native boats, which I had failed in procuring from the Arab Coasts, owing to the impracticability of dealing with the people in moments of emergency and need. These difficulties were, however, readily surmounted by the skill and activity of the Indian Naval Officers and men, whose exertions on this occasion merit the highest praise. These exertions were fully appreciated by their associates in arms, not less active in their endeavours to get at the enemy with the least possible delay.

6. Forty-eight hours sufficed to put the Troops in motion northward; the ships of war, led by the Admiral, advancing along the Coast to their support. This was on the morning of the 9th, and by noon the enemy were observed to be in some force in the village of Reshire. Here, amid the ruins of old houses, garden-walls, and steep ravines, they occupied a formidable position. But, notwithstanding their firmness, wall after wall was surmounted, and finally they were driven from their last defence (the old Fort of Reshire), bordering on the cliffs at the margin of the sea. This was carried at the point of the bayonet, the enemy then only flying in despair down the cliffs, where many met their death in their endeavours to escape through the ravines of the south. The nature of the ground, however, rendered pursuit difficult to the horse, though many were cut up in a chase of some distance. Details of this spirited affair will be given by the proper Officers. I shall therefore merely observe, that the enemy received at first a lesson he will not readily forget, for the tribe families of Dashti and Tungestoon comprising its ranks are regarded as the most brave as well as the most skilled in the defence of posts like Reshire, where regular Troops cannot work with full effect. Brigadier Stopford, C. B., met his death here, and other loss was experienced. The wounded were received into the ships the same evening, and provisions were thrown into the camp from seaward during the night.

7. It had been agreed upon that I should proceed in person to the town of Bushire in a small steamer with a flag of truce, bearing the accompanying copy of a Summons to surrender, with the terms offered to the garrison. While the above was enacting, I proceeded on this errand with the humane object also of receiving such of the merchants and towns-people as might be desirous of shelter in the Fleet. This was quite in accordance with the wishes of the Government of India in regard to the inhabitants of Bushire; and the Major General, the Admiral, and myself were induced to believe that my presence near them might tend to avert much bloodshed. In this, however, we were disappointed, for, on passing through the intricate channel leading to the town, two batteries, at a distance of 500 yards, opened upon the "Assyria," bearing the flag of truce, in defiance, of all usage of war. Deeming it might be a mistake, I caused the vessel to stop, but a second and a third shot passing close to us, I was compelled to retrace my steps, and, even then, two more guns were discharged. I could scarcely account for this conduct, having taken some pains to explain the meaning of a flag of truce, in the event of warfare, before quitting the town; but, while relating the circumstance to Rear Admiral Sir Henry Leeke, a flag of truce from the shore was reported, and the bearer (Mirza Ismail, Collector of Customs in the town), came off with a written apology from the Governor, who, with the Chief Officers of the garrison, were stated to have been outside of the walls examining into the condition of the exterior defences at the time: every regret was expressed, the act was attributed to the ignorance of an Artillery-man, with hopes that it would be overlooked. To this the Admiral and self replied, that so far as we were personally concerned, we were willing to credit the statements of the Governor and accept the apology, though the act itself, in whatever way originating, must stigmatise the Persian Government and its Officers in the eyes of all civilized States. Mirza Ismail returned with a Summons to the shore.

8. While this was going on, a note from the Major General Commanding announced his intentions of advancing on the town the following morning, and the Admiral disposed his Fleet in order of battle, for first dismantling the newly-erected outworks, and then moving with the view to breaching the south wall of the town. The following morning, as the tide served, the ships were in the positions assigned them. A second flag of truce had come off, begging twenty-four hours' delay, but this was promptly rejected, and at near 8 o'clock the signal was hoisted to engage. Shot and Shell were aimed at the Redoubt south of the town, but with little effect, owing to the great range, though eventually the enemy, assembled there to oppose the troops, were dislodged, and beat a retreat with their guns into the town. The ships, in the meantime, had moved upon the town, and such was the ardour displayed to get close in to the works, that every ship was laid aground at the turn of high water, and for four hours continued to cannonade the defences, which were active in replying the whole time. Many of their guns, however, were not of sufficient calibre to reach the ships, but the perseverance of the Persian gunners in firing from the more heavy pieces was admired by every one. Their shot told very often on the hulls of the "Victoria," "Falkland," "Semiramis," and "Feroze," which latter vessels, under Captain John Young and Commander James Rennie (if comparisons are admissible where all exerted themselves alike), had the posts of honor for the day. Details of the affair, it is unnecessary, for me to enter upon. It will suffice for me to report that some of the guns being silenced, on the approach of the Army under Major General Stalker, C. B., to breach the wall on the gate side before assault, the Persian Flagstaff was felled in token of submission. This was at noon. The Persian flag has since been recovered by myself, and presented as a joint trophy to the Chiefs conducting the combined operations in this Expedition, who, with every Officer and man in it, whether soldier or sailor, have certainly won for themselves an honorable name.

9. After surrender, some little hesitation was shown on the part of the Governor and garrison to come out of the town; an assuring note, coupled with the threat of an assault in half an hour, was, however, sent in by a freed captive; and on the expiration of the time that Officer was seen issuing with his suite from the gate. I moved forward with a party to receive and conduct him to Head Quarters, where, after tendering his sword, he met with a gracious reception from the Major General and Rear Admiral Commanding the Forces. Shortly afterwards, the Sirhang, or Lieutenant Colonel and Commandant, submitted, the entire garrison at the same time laying down their arms on my proceeding into the town with assurances of safety from the Major General Commanding in Chief. The British Colors were then hoisted at 4-30 P. M. on the Residency Flagstaff by Lieutenant Clarkson of the Indian Navy, the Troops under orders to garrison the town moving at sunset into the place.

10. Since the occupation I have been engaged with my Assistant, Lieutenant Disbrowe, in giving confidence to the towns-people, securing the magazines, granaries, and other public stores, endeavouring to re-open the bazars, and in adopting measures for the public safety, as well as in taking steps for obtaining supplies. Owing to the distrust naturally prevailing amongst suspicious people quite new to us, and generally ignorant as to our usages and institutions, we have some difficulty to contend with. Time, however, will aid to dispel fears, to restore confidence, and eventually, I hope, secure to us all we require. I must not conceal, however, that our chief local supplies of fresh meat, grain, &c., must be drawn from Busreh and Bagdad, and boats are not readily procurable. A large quantity of coal should therefore be stored both here and at Busreh, for the use of steamers, those of small size being best adapted for this service; they should not fail us, for, in any case to ensure cattle living, the voyage should be shortened as much as possible by their taking boats in tow.

11. No intelligence of any kind has come in from the interior; but I may be able to glean some in a few days. All is, however, quiet in the town and districts at the present time.

12. I beg to enclose copy of a Proclamation, with appended Articles, which forms the basis of our future administration in these tracts. These will doubtless require emendation as we progress in the government of a strange people, but they seem to me at present best adapted to work upon and have accordingly received the sanction of the Major General Commanding in Chief of the Force.

I have the honor to be, &c.,

1st Dec. 1856.

A. C.—A number of vessels, both steam and sailing, have arrived, and anchored abreast of Bushire; others, too, keep making their appearance. Never before have so many ships, pertaining to the British Government, visited these parts. I have deemed it, therefore, my duty to inquire from you on what errand, and to what Port, the said vessels are bound. If their destination be the Persian Gulf, I beg to be apprised of the object of their visit. I trust you will be pleased to acquaint me of the true cause of their coming.

TO MEERZA HASSAN ALLY KHAN DUREYA BEGGEE, Governor of Bushire.

Dated 3rd December 1856.

A. C.—I had the pleasure of receiving your Note of 2nd Rubee-ool-Sanee, 1st December, and understood its contents; but unfortunately being then proceeding to join the Sirdar General Sahib and having no Meerzas on board the strange vessel, I was compelled to defer the answer until the present moment, for which excuse me. I must now, however, inform you, that my functions in connection with Persia have ceased by order of my Government, and therefore it will remain for the Sirdar himself to reply to the purport of your Note.

I cannot close my own correspondence with you, without expressing how much I feel this separation. Trusting, however, it will not be of long duration, I am, &c.,

To all GOVERNORS and AUTHORITIES in the TOWNS and DISTRICTS bordering up the SHORES of the PERSIAN GULF.

Be it known to you that the Sirdar General Foster Stalker Sahib Bahadoor, decorated with the Order of the Bath, has been entrusted with the supreme Command of a powerful Fleet and Army sent by the exalted Government of Great Britain to these shores. The motives of his coming it is unnecessary for himself to explain, as the enclosed Proclamations from the Most Noble the Governor General of India in Council are sufficiently explicit and clear.

By order of the Sirdar General Sahib Bahadoor,

(Signed) FELIX JONES,

Political Agent with the Persian Expeditionary Force.

Dated from on board H. C. Steam Frigate "Assaye," bearing the Flag of Rear Admiral Sir Henry J. Leeke, Kt., K. H., in Bushire Roads, December 3rd, 1856.

To the GOVERNOR of the TOWN and DISTRICTS of BUSHIRE.

Anxious to save Bushire from the horrors of war, and to give to its non-combatants, women, and children ample time to escape from its walls, the Sirdar General Sahib and the Sirdar Admiral Sahib, Commanding the English combined Military and Naval Forces before the town, have, to the present time, refrained from bombarding it, otherwise the powerful ships of the British Government could have laid it in ashes in the short space of two hours. The dictates of humanity having therefore been complied with, they will no longer delay, unless the Governor, seeing the inutility of opposition, prudently surrender the town into their hands.

The Governor is given until to-morrow morning at sunrise, to consider his position, when, should he determine on surrender, the top-mast of the Persian Government Flagstaff at the Chetar Boorj must be struck as the signal of submission.

The Sirdar General Sahib and the Sirdar Admiral Sahib, Commanding, &c., offer the following conditions, in case of non-resistance and honorable capitulation :—

Private property of all descriptions, including dwelling-houses, will be scrupulously respected, but public property of every kind, with the contents of granaries, magazines, and public buildings, including arms, ammunition, and public treasure, must be transferred, with the official lists, into their hands.

The worship of Almighty God, according to the dictates of conscience, is tolerated by English law. All sects and denominations, therefore, will be free in the exercise of their religious rites, and will be protected against the least molestation.

The Troops forming the garrison, and all other armed retainers of the Persian Government, will be allowed to march out of the town gate with the full honors of war—that is, with drums beating, flags flying, &c., after which they will pile arms immediately under the wall, left and right of the gate, and deposit all Military equipments, before becoming prisoners of war. The superior Officers will then approach, and surrender their swords in token of submission. All captives of war, if not set free, will receive honorable treatment, clothing, and food, agreeably to the usages of civilized nations, which admit of the superior Officers being abroad on "parole."

The British Government wars not with peaceful citizens and unarmed men. It fights only against the State. All such are protected in life and property and in the exercise of their religious observances, under mild British rule. For these classes conditions are unnecessary.

Such are the terms without evasion. If accepted by the display of the proposed signal, peace will continue at Bushire; if rejected, war on the expiration of the time named.

By order of the Sirdars General and Admiral Sahibs, Commanding the combined British Forces before Bushire,

(Signed) FELIX JONES,

Political Agent with the Forces.

NOTICE is hereby given, that on Monday, the 12th January 1857, at the hour of eleven o'Clock in the forenoon, will be put up to Sale at the Exchange Rooms at Calcutta, and sold by Public Auction, for exportation by Sea, the under-mentioned quantity of Opium, the provision of 1855-56, subject to the following Conditions, viz. :—

Produce of Behar Agency Chests ..	2,540
Ditto of Benares ditto ditto ...	1,115
Total Chests ...	3,655

Conditions of Sale.

1. The Opium will be sold for exportation by Sea only, and no Certificate will be granted except to cover such export.

2. The Opium will be ordinarily offered for Sale at an upset price of Rupees 400 per Chest, and sold to the highest bidder above that price, except under the circumstances for which provision is made by Clause 12 of the Conditions of Sale.

3. The Sale shall commence at the hour of 11 A. M., and shall not be continued after the hour of 5 P. M., but if at that hour any of the lots advertized for Sale shall remain unsold, the Sale may, at the discretion of the Board of Revenue, be resumed on the next day following (not being Sunday or a public Holiday) at the hour of 11 A. M. and so on, until the whole of the remaining lots are disposed of, or if the quantity of 3,655 Chests shall not be sold on the day advertized, the Board may dispose of the lots which remain on hand at a future Sale.

4. Each lot to contain five chests.

5. A deposit in a Promissory Note, either for 25 per cent. even money of the amount for which each lot is knocked down or for Rupees 1,000 at the discretion of the Officer superintending the Sale, shall be made by the purchaser in the Sale Room ; and before the lot is registered in the Sale Book, and all such Promissory Notes shall be redeemed on the part of the purchasers at this Office by Sub-Treasurer's receipts, or by substitution of other public Securities of the Bengal Government on or before 4 o'clock of the afternoon of Saturday, the 17th January, or, on the other hand, failing such redemption by the time aforesaid, then the lot or lots for which no Sub-Treasurer's receipts or deposit of other public Securities as aforesaid shall have been delivered in, shall be re-sold at such time or times and under such conditions of re-sale as the Board of Revenue shall see fit ; and all losses and expenses whatsoever attending such re-sale shall be borne and paid by the defaulters, whilst any profit accruing from such re-sale shall be forfeited to Government.

6. The Promissory Notes taken on the day of Sale, under the last-mentioned Condition, if remaining unredeemed on the said 17th January, will be placed in the hands of the Attorney to the Hon'ble Company for realization in such manner as to him shall seem fit.

7. No tender of money, Sub-Treasurer's receipts or public Securities on account of Opium upon which the prescribed deposit may not have been made before 4 o'clock of the 17th January will be afterwards accepted.

8. The Opium now advertized for Sale shall be paid for within 15 clear days from the day of Sale, that is to say, no Treasury receipt will be accepted in payment after 4 P. M. of Tuesday, the 27th January 1857, and in case any lots of such Opium shall not be so paid for and adjusted, then the cash deposit of 25 per cent. even money of the amount for which each lot is knocked down, or Rupees 1,000 for each lot, or any public Securities that may have been deposited on account of such lots or chests, shall be forfeited, and the Opium be disposed of on account of Government at such time and in such manner as the Board of Revenue shall think fit, and the first purchaser shall further be required to make good any loss or difference of price between that obtained at the re-sale and the amount at which the Opium was first purchased, forfeiting all advantages that may arise from such re-sale.

9. Purchasers taking out Certificates or Orders for the delivery of Opium after making full payment as above prescribed, shall have the option of naming the number of lots of their purchase which they may desire to be included in each Certificate or Order, and it is to be clearly understood, that the Certificates or Orders so taken out shall be considered final, and not afterwards changeable for other Certificates or Orders authorizing the delivery of single lots or of a different number of lots or chests whether more or less, than the number of lots or chests originally required to be included in each Certificate or Order.

10. No Sub Treasurer's receipts or deposit of public Securities under the fifth of the present Conditions will be received in this Office except from the party recorded as the purchaser in the Sale Book or his authorized Agent. The receipt for deposit of public Securities will be granted only in the name of such purchaser, and the securities so deposited will be returned when payment in full has been made by the said purchaser or his order.

11. The Officer superintending the Sale on the part of the Board of Revenue is empowered to reject at his discretion the bid of any individual unless such individual shall, on demand, tender at the time a deposit either in Bank of Bengal Notes, Sub-Treasurer's receipts or other Government Securities equal to 25 per cent. even money of the amount so bid, or Rupees 1,000 for each lot.

12. With a view to prevent fictitious biddings designed to obstruct the Sale, it is hereby notified, that the Officer of Government superintending the Sale shall be competent at any time during the Sale to withdraw any unsold lot and immediately to put it up again for Sale at a maximum upset price, diminishing the same gradually until a bid is obtained ; and the first bonâ fide bidder for a lot after it has been offered for sale in the mode here described, shall be held and declared to be the purchaser of the said lot ; and the Officer of Government superintending the Sale shall also be competent to dispose in the same manner of as many of the subsequent lots as he may think proper, provided, always, that no lots shall be sold below the minimum price of 400 Rupees specified in the 2nd Clause of these Conditions.

13. The purchaser of any lot shall have the option of naming and purchasing in immediate succession, any number of lots of the same Agency. Opium to the extent of twenty-five lots and for the lots so purchased, the purchaser shall deposit for each lot 25 per cent. even money of the amount bid by him for the first lot, or Rupees 1,000 for each lot, and pay the same price per chest as that for which he purchased his first lot provided, always, that there remain a sufficient number of lots of that Opium to complete the said twenty-five, but not otherwise.

14 In the event of any dispute or difference touching or concerning any matter or question arising out of the Sale of the Opium included in this Notification, or adjustment of the account there of, the same shall and may be tried and decided in the Supreme Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal, and all and every Plea and Pleas to the jurisdiction of the said Supreme Court shall be waived.

No. 2—Report of the Examination of such Opium

16 The public are hereby informed, that in providing the investment of the Behar and Benares Opium for the year 1855-56, the same precautions have been taken as those which have been observed during past years, to have the drug procured and sent down in a pure state, to have only the prescribed quantity of leaves used in forming the Cakes, and to have the due proportion of Opium put into each Cake. An Account of the weight of the drug when packed at Behar and Benares, and a Statement of the average weight of the Chests indiscriminately taken for the purpose of comparison, from the despatches on arrival at Calcutta, may be seen on application at the Office of the Junior Secretary to the Board of Revenue ; and further that four chests of Behar and Benares Opium which have been reserved from the provision of the two preceding years, will be also shown to the purchasers at the Exchange Rooms on the day of Sale, to enable them to judge of the state of preservation in which the drug has kept.

17. Any further information respecting weight or quality of the Opium advertized for Sale that may be desired by parties connected with the Trade will, as heretofore, be furnished to them on application at the Office of the Board of Revenue, but in accordance with established usage ; under no circumstances will the Board entertain or recognize any claim to compensation for loss from any alleged deficiency of weight, abstraction of Opium, or adulteration of the drug which may be preferred on reference to Chests after the Sale and delivery of the Opium for shipment

18. The public are hereby informed that in addition to the quantity above-mentioned, the following quantities, more or less, of Behar and Benares Opium of 1855-56, will be brought to Sale in the year 1857, on or about the dates specified below The Board, however, reserve to themselves the right of altering these dates should circumstances render it expedient to do so. :—

If the Agents of the French Government shall not make the requisition for Opium within the time above-mentioned, the entire quantity of about 43,905 Chests of Behar and Benares, as above estimated, will be brought to Sale in the usual manner ; and if they shall make application for a quantity of Opium to be delivered to them out of the quantity advertized for Sale at each or any of the Twelve Sales above mentioned, but shall not pay for it within the prescribed period of payment, the Government of Bengal reserves to itself the right of disposing of the Opium which the French Authorities may so fail to pay for, either by increasing the quantity reserved at the Sale next ensuing the date of payment, or by selling it at a Sale to be held expressly for the purpose.

Article of the Convention above referred to.

Article 6th.—" With regard to the trade in Opium, it is agreed between the high contracting parties that at each of the periodical Sales of that article, there shall be reserved for the French Government, and delivered upon requisition duly made by the Agents of His Most Christian Majesty, or by the persons duly appointed by them, the number of Chests so applied for, provided that such supply shall not exceed Three hundred Chests in each year, and the price for the same shall be determined by the average rate at which Opium shall have been sold at every such periodical Sale, it being understood that if the quantity of Opium applied for at any one time shall not be taken on account of the French Government by the Agents of His Most Christian Majesty within the usual period of delivery, the quantity so applied for shall nevertheless be considered as so much on reduction of the Three hundred Chests herein before mentioned. The requisitions for Opium as aforesaid are to be addressed to the Governor General at Calcutta, with in thirty days after Notice of the intended Sales shall have been published in the Government Gazette."

Latitude..... 16° 7′ 00″ N.
Longitude..... 94° 27′ 00″ E.

1*st*.—Vessels, of 14 feet draft and upwards, should, on no account, attempt the passage to the Westward of Negrais Island

2*nd*.—Vessels coming from the Southward should bring Diamond Island to bear North-West then steer for it until the Fairway Buoy is visible, which is situated 1¼ mile North-East of the Island. Steer North North-East from this Buoy until Black Buoy bears East, then North-East by North.

3*rd*.—Vessels entering from the Westward, in Latitude North of Diamond Island, should bring it to bear South-East, steer in for it until the Fairway Buoy is made, then proceed as above directed for vessels entering from the Southward This passage, however, should be attempted by sailing vessels only in the North-East Monsoon.

4*th*.—Vessels unable from stress of weather to distinguish the different marks, should anchor under Diamond Island where good anchorage and smooth water is to be found.

Lieutenant Ward's Chart of the Bassein River is an excellent guide, and vessels provided with them scarcely need Pilots.

The following Buoys are now laid for the guidance of Commanders and Masters:—

A first class Red Buoy marks the Eastern limit of the Orestes Shoal.

A first class Black Buoy marks the extreme edge of the Shoal extending from Porian shore.

A first class Red Buoy, marked Fairway, in white letters, is placed 1¼ mile North-East of Diamond Island.

N. B.—The Shoal extending South of Negrais Island is now called the Orestes Shoal, and that extending from the Porian shore Westward the Porian.

THE Right Honorable the President and Members of the Committee for the Madras Exhibition of 1857 have the honor to announce, that Articles from all Countries will be admitted to the Madras Exhibition, to be held in the beginning of 1857, and be allowed to compete for Prizes; but, with a view to promote the good of this Country, it is hereby notified that Money Prizes, Medals, &c. will only be given for Articles capable of being applied in the Arts and Manufactures of India, or calculated to be of use to its people.

It will be necessary that each Local Committee attend to the following points:—Each Article sent for Exhibition must be (1) distinctly labelled, and the label must (2) set forth the district or locality from which the Article is sent; (3) the name of the Exhibitor; and (4) the price of the Article. Each Local Committee will also state in their Invoice List, how each article they send is to be disposed of at the close of the Exhibition, in the event of its not having been sold for the price put upon it by the Exhibitor.

3. The Sale shall commence at the hour of 11 A. M, and shall not be continued after the hour of 5 P. M., but if at that hour any of the lots advertized for Sale shall remain unsold, the Sale may, at the discretion of the Board of Revenue, be resumed on the next day following (not being Sunday or a public Holiday) at the hour of 11 A. M. and so on, until the whole of the remaining lots are disposed of, or if the quantity of 3,655 Chests shall not be sold on the day advertized, the Board may dispose of the lots which remain on hand at a future Sale.

4. Each lot to contain five chests.

5. A deposit in a Promissory Note, either for 25 per cent even money of the amount for which each lot is knocked down or for Rupees 1,000 at the discretion of the Officer superintending the Sale, shall be made by the purchaser in the Sale Room; and before the lot is registered in the Sale Book, and all such Promissory Notes shall be redeemed on the part of the purchasers at this Office by Sub-Treasurer's receipts, or by substitution of other public Securities of the Bengal Government on or before 4 o'clock of the afternoon of Saturday, the 17th January, or, on the other hand, failing such redemption by the time aforesaid, then the lot or lots for which no Sub-Treasurer's receipts or deposit of other public Securities as aforesaid shall have been delivered in, shall be re-sold at such time or times and under such conditions of re-sale as the Board of Revenue shall see fit; and all losses and expenses whatsoever attending such re-sale shall be borne and paid by the defaulters, whilst any profit accruing from such re-sale shall be forfeited to Government.

6. The Promissory Notes taken on the day of Sale, under the last-mentioned Condition, if remaining unredeemed on the said 17th January, will be placed in the hands of the Attorney to the Hon'ble Company for realization in such manner as to him shall seem fit.

7. No tender of money, Sub Treasurer's receipts or public Securities on account of Opium upon which the prescribed deposit may not have been made before 4 o'clock of the 17th January will be afterwards accepted.

9 Purchasers taking out Certificates or Orders for the delivery of Opium after making full payment as above prescribed, shall have the option of naming the number of lots of their purchase which they may desire to be included in each Certificate or Order, and it is to be clearly understood, that the Certificates or Orders so taken out shall be considered final, and not afterwards changeable for other Certificates or Orders authorizing the delivery of single lots or of a different number of lots or chests whether more or less, than the number of lots or chests originally required to be included in each Certificate or Order.

10. No Sub Treasurer's receipts or deposit of public Securities under the fifth of the present Conditions will be received in this Office except from the party recorded as the purchaser in the Sale Book or his authorized Agent The receipt for deposit of public Securities will be granted only in the name of such purchaser, and the securities so deposited will be returned when payment in full has been made by the said purchaser or his order.

No 2—Report of the Examination of such Opium

16 The public are hereby informed, that in providing the investment of the Behar and Benares Opium for the year 1855-56, the same precautions have been taken as those which have been observed during past years, to have the drug procured and sent down in a pure state, to have only the prescribed quantity of leaves used in forming the Cakes, and to have the due proportion of Opium put into each Cake. An Account of the weight of the drug when packed at Behar and Benares, and a Statement of the average weight of the Chests indiscriminately taken for the purpose of comparison, from the despatches on arrival at Calcutta, may be seen on application at the Office of the Junior Secretary to the Board of Revenue ; and further that four chests of Behar and Benares Opium which have been reserved from the provision of the two preceding years, will be also shown to the purchasers at the Exchange Rooms on the day of Sale, to enable them to judge of the state of preservation in which the drug has kept.

17. Any further information respecting weight or quality of the Opium advertized for Sale that may be desired by parties connected with the Trade will, as heretofore, be furnished to them on application at the Office of the Board of Revenue, but in accordance with established usage ; under no circumstances will the Board entertain or recognize any claim to compensation for loss from any alleged deficiency of weight, abstraction of Opium, or adulteration of the drug which may be preferred on reference to Chests after the Sale and delivery of the Opium for shipment

18. The public are hereby informed that in addition to the quantity above-mentioned, the following quantities, more or less, of Behar and Benares Opium of 1855-56, will be brought to Sale in the year 1857, on or about the dates specified below. Madras Exhibition of 1857.

NOTIFICATION.

THE Right Honorable the President and Members of the Committee for the Madras Exhibition of 1857 have the honor to announce, that Articles from all Countries will be admitted to the Madras Exhibition, to be held in the beginning of 1857, and be allowed to compete for Prizes; but, with a view to promote the good of this Country, it is hereby notified that Money Prizes, Medals, &c. will only be given for Articles capable of being applied in the Arts and Manufactures of India, or calculated to be of use to its people.

It will be necessary that each Local Committee attend to the following points:—Each Article sent for Exhibition must be (1) distinctly labelled, and the label must (2) set forth the district or locality from which the Article is sent; (3) the name of the Exhibitor; and (4) the price of the Article. Each Local Committee will also state in their Invoice List, how each article they send is to be disposed of at the close of the Exhibition, in the event of its not having been sold for the price put upon it by the Exhibitor.

The several Local Committees will consider themselves at liberty to add to their numbers such influential Natives of their District as they may consider likely to aid them in promoting the objects in view.

It would greatly facilitate the accurate performance of the duties of the General Committee if the Local Committees and the Exhibitors when addressing communications on the subject of the Exhibition would adhere to the official form of communication; or, in case of the non-official or private form being adopted, if they would so mark the letter, or such portions of it, in case of the letter being of a mixed nature, as may be intended to be private or non-official.

Geological Museum,

IN CONNEXION WITH THE

GEOLOGICAL SURVEY OF INDIA,

HASTINGS' STREET, CALCUTTA.

THE Government of India having recently sanctioned a considerable extension of the "Museum of Economic Geology for India," which had for some years existed under the careful Superintendence of Mr. Piddington in connexion with the Asiatic Society of Bengal, the attention of all who may be interested in the study of Geology, and of all who may desire the internal improvement of this country, is solicited to the objects of this Institution; and their aid in the promotion of these objects is requested.

In the year 1840, a Museum of Economic Geology for India was established, under the sanction of the Honorable the Court of Directors. Its objects and aim were clearly set forth in a brief statement drawn up by Mr. Piddington, and freely circulated at the time. In conjunction with the Asiatic Society of Bengal, and in their Rooms, it grew into some importance, and gradually became the depository of many good and valuable specimens, illustrative of the mineral wealth of this country. But simultaneously with its growth, the Science of Geology itself was rapidly attaining its present development. All cognate Sciences were spreading their domain, and the results of investigations in each were becoming more widely and more largely known. Since then, also the study of Mineralogy, of Geology, and of Chemistry, has been introduced as a part of the established course of Education, and the practical applications of these Sciences to Mining and to Engineering generally will soon be as regularly taught in this country as they have been for years past in Europe.

The extension of the Museum had become, therefore, essential, if it were to keep pace with the progress of knowledge, and to retain any of its value as a means and aid to instruction. With this view, the Right Hon'ble the Governor General in Council has given orders for the formation, on a much more extended scale than hitherto, of a general Geological Collection, with a special view to illustrate the geological structure, the mineral wealth, and the manufacturing resources of this Empire. A commodious house has been rented for the purpose at present, and it is intended that abundant accommodation shall be provided for the Museum in the new building for the University in Calcutta, when the Geological Collection will form a portion of the general Collections of Natural History to be connected with that establishment.

In the Museum now in progress of formation, every thing tending to illustrate the Geology of this country, in its widest sense, will find a place. The history of the Science, the progress of its investigations, the nature of its classifications, the phenomena with which it is concerned, the laws of those phenomena, will all be illustrated. The grand series of organisms, the remains of which occur in such abundance in various deposits, will be exhibited, and the whole Natural History of rocks traced out, so far as collections enable this to be done. By the aid of Drawings, such objects as cannot be procured will be made familiar to the Student, and by the use of Maps, the structure of countries, which it would be impossible for many to visit, will be made known.

While thus endeavouring to render the Student acquainted with the principles of the Science, the practical applications of these principles will, at the same time, be fully exhibited. Mining processes, mining products, and the principal metallurgical operations, will also be included, and the comparative excellence of each, so far as possible, made known. The building materials of the Country, and their applications, the localities where used, the durability, the facility of working, the strength, &c. of the stones, will all be examined into. The importance of Mineral Waters must not be overlooked, and the value of these will be determined by careful investigations.

Further, in a country so essentially agricultural as India, the character of the soils and sub-soils, their peculiar adaptation to peculiar crops, their composition, and, in dependence upon this, the easiest means of renewing or increasing their fertility; all these are important questions which at once connect themselves with the researches of the Geologist, inasmuch as the natural powers of any soil depend essentially on the source from which that soil has been derived, and therefore on the geological structure of the district.

To enable such enquiries to be effectively carried out, a small Laboratory is attached to the Museum, where such analyses and investigations as may be requisite will be carried on; and it is hoped that most valuable, because accurate and detailed, information may thus be acquired.

Moreover, careful summaries of all existing knowledge on the geological structure of the Country, will be compiled and arranged, so as to facilitate reference. Much has been done in investigating the geological structure of this Country, and very valuable papers have been given to the public, descriptive of various parts of India. But these facts are scattered through various periodicals, are often only incidentally noticed in travels, or can be found only in manuscript among the Records of Public Offices. Many of these are with difficulty intelligible, from the writers frequently calling similar objects by different names, or vice versâ. It is, therefore, necessary to obtain the key to the terms used before these can be compared. It will be an object with the Officers of the Geological Survey to remove this difficulty, and to bring into an accessible form every thing which has been published bearing on the geological structure, the mineral wealth, or the manufacturing industry (so far as this is concerned with mineral products) of this Empire.

The Museum of Geology has been placed in connexion with, and under the same superintendence as, the Geological Survey of India. By this means opportunities will be afforded of procuring a very perfect series of the rocks, fossils, and minerals of the districts visited by that Survey. But the aid of all is solicited in completing such local collections as may illustrate the structure of the several districts. Every one will be able to contribute something of value. Those permanently resident in any locality have infinitely greater advantages and facilities for procuring good illustrations of its mineral structure and products than any visitor could enjoy, and from such we confidently look for much that will prove of great interest and of great value. Every thing which can, in any way, tend to illustrate the rocks, the fossils, the minerals, or the practical applications of these will prove interesting.

Regarding the nature and properties of all specimens forwarded, the fullest information will be freely afforded, on application to the Curator of the Museum. Organic remains will be examined, and, so far as possible, carefully named for contributors, and every facility given for the investigation of any particular subject or any particular line of research connected with Geology.

The formation of a Library of reference, in connection with the Museum, has been sanctioned, and has already made considerable progress. Under proper restrictions, this will be accessible to all Students of Geology, and others interested in such enquiries.

Catalogues of the several departments of the Museum will be issued from time to time. Public Officers, and other persons in all parts of India, are requested to send contributions. All specimens, carefully packed, may be forwarded by the safest and most economical mode of conveyance, addressed to

THE MUSEUM OF GEOLOGY,
No. 1, HASTINGS' STREET,
Calcutta.

And it is requested that a communication stating fully the wishes of the donors may, at the same time, be forwarded by post to

THE DIRECTOR OF THE MUSEUM OF GEOLOGY,
No. 1, HASTINGS' STREET,
Calcutta.

Rules for Admission of Public, &c.

The Museum will be open daily, excepting Sundays, from 10 o'clock A. M. to 6 P. M.

ADMISSION FREE.

VISITORS are requested to enter their names, and number of party, in a Book provided for that purpose.

The attendants in the Museum are strictly forbidden to speak to, or interfere with visitors in any way, excepting for the protection of the Museum and its contents.

It is particularly requested, that any irregularity or want of civility may be reported at once to the Curator of the Museum.

The collections being exposed for public benefit, it is confidently hoped that the public will feel the importance of carefully preserving what conduces to their instruction and advantage, and will therefore aid the Officers of the Museum in the discharge of their duty.

Students of Geology, or persons desirous of information on any special point, are requested to apply to the Curator at the Museum on Tuesdays and Saturdays, between the hours of twelve and four. In particular cases, this aid will be afforded at any time; but as it is essential that the Officers in charge of the Museum should be able to devote much of their attention to the arrangement of the collections, to the examination of specimens, and to the general duties of their Office, it is hoped that the public will aid in these objects by not interrupting them, under ordinary circumstances, at other times than those fixed above.

Gentlemen interested in geological pursuits mines, &c., in special agricultural objects, or in the use of new or untried building materials, &c., who may desire detailed examination of any mineral substance, or definite information for a special object, are requested to apply by letter (post paid) addressed to the Director of the Museum of Geology, 1, Hastings' Street, Calcutta, stating as clearly as possible their wishes. All such communications will be attended to at the earliest possible opportunity, and in the order of their receipt.

Visitors and others are requested to contribute to the Collections every thing which may appear interesting, or locally peculiar.

The servants of the Museum are prohibited, under pain of instant dismissal, from asking for, or receiving, any gratuity whatever, and it is hoped that none may be offered.

The Museum will be open from the 1st day of January 1857.

(Signed) THOMAS OLDHAM,
Superintendent of Geological Survey.

Madras Exhibition of 1857.

NOTIFICATION.

THE Right Honorable the President and Members of the Committee for the Madras Exhibition of 1857 have the honor to announce, that Articles from all Countries will be admitted to the Madras Exhibition, to be held in the beginning of 1857, and be allowed to compete for Prizes; but, with a view to promote the good of this Country, it is hereby notified that Money Prizes, Medals, &c. will only be given for Articles capable of being applied in the Arts and Manufactures of India, or calculated to be of use to its people.

It will be necessary that each Local Committee attend to the following points:—Each Article sent for Exhibition must be (1) distinctly labelled, and the label must (2) set forth the district or locality from which the Article is sent; (3) the name of the Exhibitor; and (4) the price of the Article. Each Local Committee will also state in their Invoice List, how each article they send is to be disposed of at the close of the Exhibition, in the event of its not having been sold for the price put upon it by the Exhibitor.

The several Local Committees will consider themselves at liberty to add to their numbers such influential Natives of their District as they may consider likely to aid them in promoting the objects in view.

It would greatly facilitate the accurate performance of the duties of the General Committee if the Local Committees and the Exhibitors when addressing communications on the subject of the Exhibition would adhere to the official form of communication; or, in case of the non-official or private form being adopted, if they would so mark the letter, or such portions of it, in case of the letter being of a mixed nature, as may be intended to be private or non-official.

SAILING DIRECTIONS FOR ENTERING THE HARBOUR OF DALHOUSIE.

Latitude..... 16° 7′ 00″ N.
Longitude..... 94° 27′ 00″ E.

1*st.*—Vessels, of 14 feet draft and upwards should, on no account, attempt the passage to the Westward of Negrais Island.

2*nd.*—Vessels coming from the Southward should bring Diamond Island to bear North-West then steer for it until the Fairway Buoy is visible, which is situated 1¼ mile North-East of the Island. Steer North North-East from this Buoy until Black Buoy bears East, then North-East by North.

3*rd.*—Vessels entering from the Westward, in Latitude North of Diamond Island, should bring it to bear South-East, steer in for it until the Fairway Buoy is made, then proceed as above directed for vessels entering from the Southward This passage, however, should be attempted by sailing vessels only in the North-East Monsoon.

4*th.*—Vessels unable from stress of weather to distinguish the different marks, should anchor under Diamond Island where good anchorage and smooth water is to be found.

Lieutenant Ward's Chart of the Bassein River is an excellent guide, and vessels provided with them scarcely need Pilots.

The following Buoys are now laid for the guidance of Commanders and Masters:—

A first class Red Buoy marks the extreme South end of the Orestes Shoal.

A first class Red Buoy marks the Eastern limit of the Orestes Shoal.

A first class Black Buoy marks the extreme edge of the Shoal extending from Porian shore.

A first class Red Buoy, marked Fairway, in white letters, is placed 1¼ mile North-East of Diamond Island.

N. B.—The Shoal extending South of Negrais Island is now called the Orestes Shoal, and that extending from the Porian shore Westward the Porian.

All authorized public demands, including audited Bills for arrears of Salary and Bills of Exchange on the Public Treasuries,—these last being subject to a deduction at the rate of Five per Centum per annum for the period they may have to run,—will be received as Cash at par.

The Pay-masters of the Army under the several Presidencies are also authorized to transfer any demands which may be payable by them respectively to this Loan, and to grant Drafts for the amounts, in Bengal and Madras on the Accountant General, and in Bombay on the Military Paymaster General, which Drafts shall be received by those Officers in payment of Subscriptions to this Loan, on being tendered to them for that purpose.

The several public Officers, authorized to receive Subscriptions into this Loan, will grant acknowledgements, in the following form, for all sums received by them respectively :—

"I hereby acknowledge that A. "Accountant General's Office, }
"Registered as No. , of }

The several Officers authorized to receive Subscriptions will, on application from the holders of acknowledgements, transmit them (free of every expense whatever) to the Accountant General at Fort William, to be exchanged for Promissory Notes bearing Interest from the 28th of February or 31st of August next ensuing after the date of Subscription. The Interest accruing on the broken period of the half-year that may intervene between the date of Subscription and the 28th of February or 31st August next ensuing, as the case may be, will be paid up at the time of granting the acknowledgement.

Proprietors of Notes or Acknowledgements, who may desire to have the Interest payable at any other public Treasury than at the General Treasury of Calcutta, shall be entitled to receive it accordingly, provided they notify their wish to the Accountant General at Fort William, and transmit the Notes or Acknowledgements to him, to have an Order for the payment of Interest at the said Treasury written on the face of the Notes under the signature of the said Officer or that of his Assistant, and after such order shall, on the application of the proprietor, be inscribed on any Note, the Interest shall be payable only from the said Treasury, unless the proprietor shall present the Note with an application for the purpose of transferring the payment elsewhere to the Accountant General at Fort William.

The Promissory Notes of this Loan shall not be renewed, sub-divided, or consolidated, except by the Accountant General of Fort William. The practice and rules heretofore in use in regard to the renewal, sub-division, and consolidation of Promissory Notes will be adhered to.

For altering and enlarging the Receipt and Payment Departments of the Cheque Office.	1,252
Re-flooring the same, ...	744
Sundry repairs	200

A sum of about 10,000 Rupees is also due, as the last instalment for the recent additions to the Bank Premises, and a further sum of about 2,000 Rupees is due for Office Desks, Furniture, and Fittings

The new business undertaken by the Bank, consequent upon the abolition of the Government Agency, is daily increasing, and promises to yield a profitable return. The deposits of Public Securities, in the custody of the Bank, on 31st Ultimo, amounted to Rupees 3,13,37,138. The present monthly expense for Establishment for this new Department is Rupees 1,216.

A new system has been introduced in the Cheque Department, for testing the balances of the Constituents' Accounts, which has been attended with the most satisfactory results. A Trial Balance, prepared by the Auditors employed under the Sub-Committee, having shown that the Accounts up to the 31st December last were perfectly correct, with the exception of the difference of Rupees 19,803-2-2 previously reported.

The Directors have under their consideration the question of extending the operations of the Bank, by the establishment of BRANCH OFFICES at the principal Towns and Marts in the Upper Provinces and in the Punjab, a measure, which if it can be introduced with advantage to the interests of the Bank, would doubtless be attended with beneficial results to the Public.

It is also the intention of the Directors to introduce, as early as practicable, a new description of BANK NOTE, to be, if possible, inimitable, or such as will baffle any attempts at forgery or alteration. The most eminent Artists in England and Scotland have been applied to, for the best specimens of their skill in Engraving, and for Designs. The paper also will be of the latest and most improved manufacture. The Directors hope to produce a Note for issue during the current year, that will give general satisfaction.

The Directors now desire to advert to the Rate of Dividend declared. It has often happened that a period of unusual prosperity has been followed by one of great depression. The great falling off in the amount of the present, as compared with the unusually high preceding Dividends, is attributable to the very great influx of specie, causing the Bank's resources to be suddenly and considerably increased, simultaneous with which, the demand for Loans and Discounts decreased, and the rates of business consequently fell to the lowest possible figures, viz. 3 and 4 per cent. An improvement in business is now showing itself, and it is expected that the next division of profits will show an increase over those of the past half-year.

Published by order of the Directors,

J. B. PLUMB,
Secretary and Treasurer.

"Special law." 32. A "special law" is a law applicable to a particular subject.

"Local law." 33. A "local law" is a law applicable only to a particular part of British India.

"Illegal" 34. The word "illegal" is applicable to every thing which is an offence, or which is contrary to any direction of the law, or which furnishes ground for a civil action; and a person is said to be "legally bound to do" whatever it is illegal in him to omit.

"Injury." 35. The word "injury" denotes any harm whatever illegally caused to any person in body, mind, reputation, or property.

"Life" 36. The word "life" denotes the life of a human being, unless the contrary appears from the context.

"Death." 37. The word "death" denotes the death of a human being, unless the contrary appears from the context.

"Animal." 38. The word "animal" denotes any living creature, other than a human being.

"Vessel." 39. The word "vessel" denotes any thing made for the conveyance by water of human beings, or of property.

"Year" 40. Wherever the word "year" or the word "month" is used, it is to be understood that the year or the month is to be reckoned according to the British Calendar.

"Clause." 41. The word "Clause" denotes one of those portions of a Chapter of this Code which are distinguished by prefixed numeral figures.

"Herein before" "Herein-after." 42. The word "herein-before" and the word "herein-after" relate to matter contained within the same Clause in which these words occur.

"Oath." 43. The word "oath" includes a solemn affirmation substituted by law for an oath, and any declaration required or authorized by law to be made before a public servant or to be used for the purpose of proof, whether in a Court of Justice or not.

Definition not to be limited by the title of the Chapter containing it. 44. Nothing which falls within any definition of an offence shall be construed as not being an offence, because it does not fall within the title of the Chapter containing that definition.

"Good faith" 45. Nothing is said to be done or believed in good faith, which is done or believed without due care and attention.

Chapter III.

OF PUNISHMENTS.

Punishments. 1. The punishments to which offenders are liable under the provisions of this Code are,

First,—Death;

Secondly,—Transportation;*

Thirdly,—Imprisonment, which is of two descriptions, namely:

(1.) Rigorous, that is, with hard labor;

(2.) Simple.

Fourthly.—Banishment from the territories in the possession and under the Government of the East India Company;

Fifthly,—Forfeiture of property;

Sixthly,—Fine.

Commutation of sentence of death. 2. In every case in which sentence of death shall have been passed, the Government of India or the local Government of the place within which the offender shall have been sentenced may, without the consent of the offender, commute the punishment for any other punishment provided by this Code.

Commutation of sentence of transportation for life. 3. In every case in which sentence of transportation for life has been passed, the Government of India or the local Government of the place within which the offender has been sentenced may, without the consent of the offender, commute the punishment for imprisonment of either description which may extend to fourteen years, or for banishment from the territories in the possession and under the Government of the East India Company, which may be for life, or for any term.

Remission of punishment. 4. In every case the Government of India or the local Government of the place within which an offender has been sentenced may, at any time, remit the whole or any part of the punishment, without conditions, or upon any conditions to which the offender has agreed.

Sentence of imprisonment, rigorous or simple. 5. In every case in which it is provided that an offender shall be punished with imprisonment of either description, it shall be competent to the Court which sentences such offender to direct in the sentence that such imprisonment shall be wholly rigorous, or that such imprisonment shall be wholly simple, or that any part of such imprisonment shall be rigorous and the rest simple.

Sentence of forfeiture of property. 6. In every case in which an offender is sentenced to forfeiture of all property, the sentence renders that offender incapable of acquiring any property except for the benefit of the Government.

Illustration.

A, for waging war against the Government of India is sentenced to forfeiture of all his property. After the sentence A's father dies, leaving an estate which, but for the sentence of forfeiture, would become the property of A. The estate becomes the property of Government.

Amount of fine. 7. Where no sum is expressed to which a fine may extend, the amount of fine to which the offender is liable is unlimited.

Sentence of imprisonment in default of payment of fine. 8. In every case in which an offender is sentenced to a fine, it shall be competent to the Court which sentences such offender to direct by the sentence that, in default of payment of the fine the offender shall suffer imprisonment for a certain term, which imprisonment shall be in excess of any other imprisonment to which he may have been sentenced, or to which he may be liable under a commutation of a sentence.

* As to cases in which penal servitude must be substituted for transportation, see Act XXIV of 1855.

9. The term for which the Court directs the offender to be imprisoned, in default of payment of a fine, shall not exceed one-fourth of the term of imprisonment which is the maximum fixed for the offence, if the offence be punishable with imprisonment as well as fine.

Limit of term of imprisonment for default in payment of fine, when the offence is punishable with imprisonment, as well as fine.

10. The imprisonment which the Court imposes in default of payment of a fine may be of any description to which the offender might have been sentenced for the offence.

Description of imprisonment for such default.

11. If the offence be punishable with fine only, the term for which the Court directs the offender to be imprisoned, in default of payment of fine, shall not exceed the following scale, that is to say, for any term not exceeding two months when the amount of the fine shall not exceed fifty Rupees, and for any term not exceeding four months when the amount shall not exceed one hundred Rupees, and for any term not exceeding six months in any other case.

Term of imprisonment for default in payment of fine, when the offence is punishable with fine only.

12. The imprisonment which is imposed in default of payment of a fine shall terminate whenever that fine is either paid or levied by process of law.

Such imprisonment to terminate upon payment of the fine.

13. If, before the expiration of the term of imprisonment fixed in default of payment, such a proportion of the fine be paid or levied that the term of imprisonment suffered in default of payment is not less than proportional to the part of the fine still unpaid, the imprisonment shall terminate.

Termination of such imprisonment upon payment of proportional part of fine.

Illustration.

A is sentenced to a fine of one hundred Rupees, and to four months' imprisonment in default of payment. Here, if seventy-five Rupees of the fine be paid or levied before the expiration of one month of the imprisonment, A will be discharged as soon as the first month has expired. If seventy-five Rupees be paid or levied at the time of the expiration of the first month, or at any later time while A continues in imprisonment, A will be immediately discharged. If fifty Rupees of the fine be paid or levied before the expiration of two months of the imprisonment, A will be discharged as soon as the two months are completed. If fifty Rupees be paid or levied at the time of the expiration of those two months, or at any later time while A continues in imprisonment, A will be immediately discharged.

14. The fine, or any part thereof which remains unpaid, may be levied at any time within six years after the passing of the sentence, and if, under the sentence, the offender be liable to imprisonment for a longer period than six years, then at any time previous to the expiration of that period; and the death of the offender does not discharge from the liability any property which would, after his death, be legally liable for his debts.

Fine may be levied within 6 years or at any time during the term of imprisonment.

Death of offender not to discharge his property from liability.

15. Whenever any person, by doing any thing whereby he commits an offence falling under one penal provision of this Code, also commits an offence under another penal provision of this Code, the punishment shall not be cumulative, unless it be so expressly provided.

Punishment of offence falling under more than one penal provision of Code not to be cumulative unless expressly so provided

Illustration.

A strikes Z with violence knowing it to be likely that he may thereby break Z's arm, and does break Z's arm. Here A commits an assault. He also by the same act commits the offence of voluntarily causing grievous hurt. But A is not liable to punishment both for assault, and for voluntarily causing grievous hurt.

16. Where it is provided that punishment shall be cumulative, that provision does not authorize the combining, in any case, of the punishments provided by more than two penal provisions of this Code.

Provision for cumulative punishment does not authorise a combination of punishments.

17. Where anything which is an offence is made up of parts, any of which parts is itself an offence, the offender shall not be punished with the imprisonment for more than one of such his offences, unless it be so expressly provided.

Limit of punishment of offence which is made up of several offences.

Illustrations.

(a) A gives Z fifty strokes with a stick. Here A may have committed the offence of voluntarily causing hurt to Z by the whole beating, and also by each of the blows which make up the whole beating. If A were liable to punishment for every blow, he might be imprisoned for fifty years, one for each blow. But he is liable only to one punishment for the whole beating, that is to say, to imprisonment for a term not exceeding one year, if the hurt which he has voluntarily caused is not grievous; and for a term not exceeding ten years, if the hurt which he has voluntarily caused is grievous.

(b) But if, while A is beating Z, Y interferes, and A strikes Y, here, as the blow given to Y is no part of the act whereby A voluntarily causes hurt to Z, A is liable to one punishment for voluntarily causing hurt to Z, and to another for the blow given to Y.

18. In all cases in which judgment is given that a person is guilty of one of several offences specified in the judgment, but that it is doubtful of which of these offences he is guilty, the offender shall be punished for the offence for which the lowest punishment is provided if the same punishment is not provided for all.

Punishment of a person found guilty of one of several offences, (the judgment stating that it is doubtful of which.)

19. Whenever any person is convicted of an offence punishable under this Code with imprisonment of either description, the Court may, by its sentence, order that the offender shall be kept in solitary confinement for any portion or portions of the imprisonment to which he is sentenced, not exceeding six months in the whole or one month at a time, or three months in any one year.

Solitary confinement.

20. Whenever any person, convicted of any offence punishable under this Code with imprisonment of either description for a term of five years or upwards, shall have been previously convicted, whether before or after the passing of this Code, of any offence for which by the law then in force he was liable to imprisonment for a term of five years or upwards, he shall be subject to transportation for life or to double the amount of punishment to which he would otherwise have been liable; provided that he shall not in any case be liable to imprisonment for a term exceeding fourteen years.

Punishment of person convicted, after a previous conviction, of an offence punishable with five years' imprisonment.

Chapter IV.

GENERAL EXCEPTIONS.

1. Nothing is an offence which is done by a person who is or who by reason of a mistake of fact and not by reason of a mistake of law in good faith believes himself to be bound by law to do it.

Act done by a person bound, or by mistake of fact believing himself bound by law.

Illustrations.

(a) A, a soldier, fires on a mob by the order of his superior officer, in conformity with the commands of the law. A has committed no offence.

(b) A, an officer of a Court of Justice, being ordered by that Court to arrest Y, and, after due inquiry, believing Z to be Y, arrests Z. A has committed no offence.

Act of Judge when acting judicially.

2. Nothing is an offence which is done by a Judge when acting judicially in the exercise of any power which is, or which in good faith he believes to be given to him by law.

Act done by a person justified, or by mistake of fact believing himself justified by law.

3. Nothing is an offence which is done by any person who is justified by law, or who by reason of a mistake of fact and not by reason of a mistake of law, in good faith, believes himself to be justified by law in doing it.

Illustration.

A sees Z commit what appears to A to be a murder. A, in the exercise, to the best of his judgment, exerted in good faith, of the power which the law gives to all persons of apprehending murderers in the fact, seizes Z, in order to bring Z before the proper authorities. A has committed no offence, though it may turn out that Z was acting in self defence.

Accident in the doing of a lawful act.

4. Nothing is an offence which is done by accident or misfortune and without any criminal intention or knowledge in the doing of a lawful act in a lawful manner by lawful means and with proper care and caution.

Illustration.

A is at a work with a hatchet; the head flies off and kills a man who is standing by. Here, if there was no want of proper caution on the part of A, his act is excusable and not an offence.

Act likely to cause harm but done without a criminal intent and to prevent other harm.

5. Nothing is an offence merely by reason of its being done with the knowledge that it is likely to cause harm, if it be done without any criminal intention to cause harm, and in good faith for the purpose of preventing or avoiding other harm to person or property.

Explanation.—It is a question of fact in such a case whether the harm to be prevented or avoided was of such a nature and so imminent as to justify or excuse the risk of doing the act with the knowledge that it was likely to cause harm.

Illustrations

(a) A, the Captain of a Steam Vessel, suddenly and without any fault or negligence on his part, finds himself in such a position that, before he can stop his vessel, he must inevitably run down a boat B with 20 or 30 passengers on board, unless he changes the course of his vessel, and that, by changing his course, he must incur risk of running down a boat C with only 2 passengers on board, which he may possibly clear. Here, if A alters his course without any intention to run down the boat C and in good faith for the purpose of avoiding the danger to the passengers in the boat B, he is not guilty of an offence, though he may run down the boat C by doing an act which he knew was likely to cause that effect, if it be found as a matter of fact that the danger which he intended to avoid was such as to excuse him in running the risk of running down C.

(b) A in a great fire pulls down houses in order to prevent the conflagration from spreading. He does this with the intention and good faith of saving human life or property. Here, if it be found that the harm to be prevented was of such a nature and so imminent as to excuse A's act, A is not guilty of the offence.

Act done pursuant to the judgment or order of a Court of Justice.

6. Nothing which is done in pursuance of, or which is warranted by the judgment or order of a Court of Justice, if done whilst such judgment or order remains in force, is an offence, notwithstanding the Court may have had no jurisdiction to pass such judgment or order, provided the person doing the act, in good faith, believes that the Court had such jurisdiction.

Act of a child under 7 years of age.

7. Nothing is an offence which is done by a child under seven years of age.

Act of a child above 7 and under 12 years of age who has not sufficient maturity of understanding.

8. Nothing is an offence which is done by child above seven years of age and under twelve, who has not attained sufficient maturity of understanding to judge of the nature and consequences of his conduct on that occasion.

Act of a person of unsound mind.

9. Nothing is an offence which is done by a person who, at the time of doing it, by reason of unsoundness of mind, is incapable of knowing the nature of the act, or that he is doing what is either wrong, or contrary to law.

Act of a person incapable of judgment by reason of intoxication caused against his will.

10. Nothing is an offence which is done by a person who, at the time of doing it, is, by reason of intoxication, incapable of knowing the nature of the act, or that he is doing what is either wrong, or contrary to law; provided that the thing which intoxicated him was administered to him without his knowledge or against his will.

A particular intent when part of an offence may be presumed when the offender is intoxicated, unless he has been made so against his will.

11. In cases where an act done is not an offence unless done with a particular knowledge or intent, the same presumption of knowledge or intent shall be made against a person doing the act in a state of intoxication, as would have been made if he had not been intoxicated, unless the thing which intoxicated him was administered to him without his knowledge or against his will.

Act not intended and not known to be likely to cause death or grievous hurt done by consent

12. Nothing which is not intended to cause death, or grievous hurt, and which is not known by the doer to be likely to cause death, or grievous hurt, is an offence by reason of any harm which it may cause, or be intended by the doer to cause, to any person above eighteen years of age, who has given consent, whether express or implied, to suffer that harm; or by reason of any harm which it may be known by the doer to be likely to cause to any such person who has consented to take the risk of that harm.

Illustration.

A and Z agree to fence with each other for amusement. This agreement implies the consent of each to suffer any harm which, in the course of such fencing, may be caused without foul play; and if A, while playing fairly, hurts Z, A commits no offence.

Act not intended to cause death done by consent in good faith for the benefit of a person.

13. Nothing, which is not intended to cause death, is an offence by reason of any harm which it may cause, or be intended by the doer to cause, or be known by the doer to be likely to cause, to any person for whose benefit it is done in good faith, and who has given a consent, whether express or implied, to suffer that harm, or to take the risk of that harm.

Illustration.

A, a surgeon, knowing that a particular operation is likely to cause the death of Z, who suffers under a painful complaint, but not intending to cause Z's death, and intending, in good faith, Z's benefit, performs that operation on Z, with Z's consent. A has committed no offence.

Act done in good faith for the benefit of a child or person of unsound mind by or by consent of guardian.

14. Nothing which is done in good faith for the benefit of a person under twelve years of age, or of unsound mind, by or by consent of the guardian or other person having lawful charge of that person, is an offence by reason of any harm which it may cause, or be intended by the doer to cause, or be known by the doer to be likely to cause, to that person: Provided—

Provisoes.

First. That this exception shall not extend to the intentional causing of death, or to the attempting to cause death:

Secondly. That this exception shall not extend to the doing of any thing which the person doing it knows to be likely to cause death, for any purpose other than the preventing of death or grievous hurt; or the curing of any grievous disease or infirmity.

Thirdly. That this exception shall not extend to the voluntary causing of grievous hurt, or to the attempting to cause grievous hurt, unless it be for the purpose of preventing death or grievous hurt, or the curing of any grievous disease or infirmity.

Fourthly. That this exception shall not extend to the abetment of any offence, to the committing of which offence it would not extend.

Illustrations.

(a) A, a parent, whips his child moderately, for the child's benefit. A is within the exception, and therefore has committed no offence.

(b) A, in good faith, for his daughter's benefit, intentionally kills her to prevent her from falling into the hands of Pindarries. A is not within the exception, and is therefore guilty of an offence.

(c) A, in good faith, for his child's benefit without his child's consent, has his child cut for the stone by a surgeon, knowing it to be likely that the operation will cause the child's death, but not intending to cause the child's death. A is within the exception, inasmuch as his object was the cure of the child.

15. A consent is not such a consent as is intended by Clauses 12, 13, and 14 of this Chapter, or any other Clause of this Code, if the consent is given by a person under fear of injury or under a misconception of fact, and if the person doing the act knows, or has reason to believe, that the consent was given in consequence of such fear or misconception—Or Consent known to be given under fear or misconception.

If the consent is given by a person who is under seven years of age, or who, from immaturity of understanding, unsoundness of mind, or intoxication, is unable to understand the nature and consequence of that to which he gives his consent.

Consent of a child or person of unsound mind.

16. The exceptions in Clauses 12, 13, and 14, of this Chapter, do not extend to acts which are offences independently of any harm which they may cause, or be intended to cause, or be known to be likely to cause, to the person giving the consent, or on whose behalf the consent is given.

Acts which are offences independently of harm caused to the person consenting, are not within the exceptions in Clauses 12, 13, and 14.

Illustration.

Causing miscarriage (unless caused in good faith for the purpose of saving the life of the woman) is an offence independently of harm which it may cause or be intended to cause to the woman. Therefore it is not an offence "by reason of such harm;" and the consent of the woman or of her guardian to the causing of such miscarriage does not justify the act.

17. Nothing is an offence by reason of any harm which it may cause to a person for whose benefit it is done in good faith, even without that person's consent, if the circumstances are such that it is impossible for that person to signify consent, or if that person is incapable of giving consent, and has no guardian or other person in lawful charge of him from whom it is possible to obtain consent in time for the thing to be done with benefit. Provided—

Act done in good faith for the benefit of a person without consent.

Provisoes.

First. That this exception shall not extend to the intentional causing of death, or attempting to cause death.

Secondly. That this exception shall not extend to the doing of any thing which the person doing it knows to be likely to cause death, for any purpose other than the preventing of death or grievous hurt, or the curing of any grievous disease or infirmity.

Thirdly. That this exception shall not extend to the voluntary causing of hurt, or to the attempting to cause hurt, for any purpose other than the preventing of death or hurt.

Fourthly. That this exception shall not extend to the abetment of any offence, to the committing of which offence it would not extend.

Illustrations.

(a.) Z is thrown from his horse, and is insensible. A a surgeon, finds that Z requires to be trepanned. A, not intending Z's death, but in good faith, for Z's benefit, performs the trepan before Z recovers his power of judging for himself. A has committed no offence.

(b) Z is carried off by a tiger. A fires at the tiger knowing it to be likely that the shot may kill Z, but not intending to kill Z, and in good faith intending Z's benefit. A's ball gives Z a mortal wound. A has committed no offence.

(c) A, a surgeon, sees a child suffer an accident which is likely to prove fatal unless an operation be immediately performed. There is not time to apply to the child's guardian. A performs the operation in spite of the entreaties of the child, intending, in good faith, the child's benefit. A has committed no offence.

(d) A is in a house which is on fire, with Z, a child. People below hold out a blanket. A drops the child from the house-top, knowing it to be likely that the fall may kill the child, but not intending to kill the child, and intending, in good faith, the child's benefit. Here, even if the child is killed by the fall, A has committed no offence.

Explanation.—Mere pecuniary benefit is not benefit within the meaning of Clauses 13, 14, and 17.

18. No communication made in good faith is an offence by reason of any harm to the person to whom it is made.

Communication made in good faith.

Illustration.

A, a surgeon, in good faith, communicates to a patient his opinion that he cannot live. The patient dies in consequence of the shock. A has committed no offence, though he knew it to be likely that the communication might cause the patient's death.

19. Excepting murder and offences against the State punishable with death, nothing is an offence which is done by a person who is compelled to do it by threats, which, at the time of doing it, reasonably cause the apprehension that instant death to that person will otherwise be the consequence; provided the person doing the act did not of his own accord, or from a reasonable apprehension of harm to himself short of instant death, place himself in the situation by which he became subject to such constraint.

Act to which a person is compelled by threats.

Explanation 1.—A person who, of his own accord, or by reason of a threat of being beaten, joins a gang of dacoits, or a crew of pirates, or the like, knowing their character, is not entitled to the benefit of this exception, on the ground of his having been compelled by his associates to do any thing that is an offence by law.

Explanation 2.—A person who embarks ignorantly in a piratical vessel, being compelled by the crew, by threat of instant death, to join in an act of piracy, is entitled to the benefit of the exception.

Explanation 3.—So also is a person seized by a gang of dacoits, and forced, by threat of instant death, to do a thing which is an offence by law; for example, a smith compelled to take his tools and to force the door of a house for the dacoits to enter and plunder it.

Act causing slight harm

20. Nothing is an offence by reason that it causes, or that it is intended to cause, or that it is known to be likely to cause, any harm, if that harm is so slight that no person of ordinary sense and temper would complain of such harm.

Of the Right of Private Defence

Act done in private defence.

21. Nothing is an offence which is done in the exercise of the right of private defence.

Right of private defence.

22. Every person has a right, subject to the restrictions contained in Clause 24, to defend:

First His own body, and the body of any other person, against an assault.

Secondly. The property, whether movable or immoveable, of himself or of any other person, against any act which is an offence falling under the definition of theft, robbery, mischief, or criminal trespass, or which is an attempt to commit theft, robbery, mischief, or criminal trespass

Right of private defence against the act of a person of unsound mind, &c.

23. When an act which would otherwise be a certain offence, is not that offence by reason of the youth, the want of maturity of understanding, the unsoundness of mind, or the intoxication of the person doing that act, or by reason of any misconception on the part of that person, every person has the same right of private defence against that act which he would have if the act were that offence.

Illustrations.

(a) Z, under the influence of madness, attempts to kill A Z is guilty of no offence But A has the same right of private defence which he would have if Z were sane.

(b) A enters by night a house which he is legally entitled to enter. Z, in good faith, taking A for a house breaker, attacks A Here Z, by attacking A under this misconception, commits no offence. But A has the same right of private defence against Z, which he would have if Z were acting under no misconception.

Acts against which there is no right of private defence.

24. There is no right of private defence against an act which does not reasonably cause the apprehension of death or of grievous hurt, if done, or attempted to be done, by a public servant acting in good faith under colour of his office, though that act may not be strictly justifiable by law.

There is no right of private defence against an act which does not reasonably cause the apprehension of death or of grievous hurt, if done, or attempted to be done, by the direction of a public servant acting in good faith under colour of his office, though that direction may not be strictly justifiable by law.

There is no right of private defence in cases in which there is time to have recourse to the protection of the public authorities.

Extent to which the right may be exercised

The right of private defence in no case extends to the inflicting of more harm than it is necessary to inflict for the purpose of defence.

Explanation 1.—A person is not deprived of the right of private defence against an act done, or attempted to be done, by a public servant, as such, unless he knows, or has reason to believe, that the person doing the act is such public servant.

Explanation 2.—A person is not deprived of the right of private defence against an act done, or attempted to be done, by the direction of a public servant, unless he knows, or has reason to believe, that the person doing the act is acting by such direction, or unless such person states the authority under which he acts, or, if he has authority in writing, unless he produces such authority.

When the right of private defence of the body extends to causing death.

25. The right of private defence of the body extends, under the restrictions mentioned in the last preceding Clause, to the voluntary causing of death or of any other harm to the assailant, if the assault which occasions the exercise of the right be of any of the descriptions hereinafter enumerated, namely.

First Such an assault as may reasonably cause the apprehension that death will otherwise be the consequence of such assault.

Secondly. Such an assault as may reasonably cause the apprehension that grievous hurt will otherwise be the consequence of such assault.

Thirdly. An assault with the intention of committing rape.

Fourthly. An assault with the intention of gratifying unnatural lust.

Fifthly. An assault with the intention of kidnapping.

Sixthly. An assault with the intention of wrongfully confining a person, under circumstances which may reasonably cause him to apprehend that he will be unable to have recourse to the public authorities for his release.

When such right extends to causing any harm other than death.

26. If the assault be not of any of the descriptions enumerated in the last preceding Clause, the right of private defence of the body does not extend to the voluntary causing of death to the assailant, but does extend, under the restrictions mentioned in Clause 24, to the voluntary causing to the assailant of any harm other than death

Commencement and continuance of the right of private defence of the body.

27. The right of private defence of the body commences as soon as a reasonable apprehension of danger to the body commences, though no assault may have been committed; and it continues as long as such apprehension of danger to the body continues.

When the right of private defence of property extends to causing death.

28. The right of private defence of property extends, under the restrictions mentioned in Clause 24, to the voluntary causing of death or of any other harm to the wrongdoer, if the offence, the committing of which, or the attempting to commit which, occasions the exercise of the right, be an offence of any of the descriptions hereinafter enumerated, namely:

First. Robbery.

Secondly. House-breaking by night, or lurking house-trespass by night.

Thirdly. Mischief by fire committed on any building, tent, or vessel, which building, tent, or vessel is used as a human dwelling, or as a place for the custody of property.

Fourthly. Theft, mischief, or house trespass, under such circumstances as may reasonably cause apprehension that death or grievous hurt will be the consequence, if such right of private defence is not exercised.

When such right extends to causing any harm other than death.

29. If the offence, the committing of which, or the attempting to commit which, occasions the exercise of the right of private defence, be theft, mischief, or criminal trespass, not of any of the descriptions enumerated in the last preceding Clause, that right does not extend to the voluntary causing of death, but does extend, subject to the restrictions mentioned in Clause 24, to the voluntary causing to the wrong-doer of any harm other than death.

Commencement and continuance of the right of private defence of property.

30. The right of private defence of property commences when a reasonable apprehension of danger to the property commences.

The right of private defence of property against theft or robbery continues till either the assistance of the public authorities can be obtained, or the property has been recovered.

The right of private defence of property against criminal trespass or mischief continues as long as the offender continues in the commission of criminal trespass or mischief, or as long as a reasonable ground of apprehension of danger to the property continues.

The right of private defence of property against house-breaking by night, or lurking house-trespass by night, continues as long as the house-trespass, which has been begun by such house-breaking or lurking house-trespass, continues.

Right of private defence against a deadly assault when there is risk of harm to an innocent person.

31. If, in exercise of the right of private defence against an assault which reasonably causes the apprehension of death, the defender be so situated that he cannot effectually exercise that right without risk of harm to an innocent person, his right of private defence extends to the running of that risk.

Illustration.

A is attacked by a mob who attempt to murder him. He cannot effectually exercise his right of private defence without firing on the mob, and he cannot fire without risk of harming young children who are mingled with the mob. A commits no offence if by so firing he harms any of the children.

Chapter V.

OF PRINCIPALS AND ABETTORS.

Principal.

1. A person is a principal in an offence who, either singly or jointly with any other person, actually commits that offence, or who abets* the commission thereof, and is present when the act abetted is committed, and is capable of taking a part therein.

Illustrations.

(a) A and B waylay Z and murder him to death by beating him, each of them giving him several blows. A and B are principals in the murder, for they both join in actually committing it.

(b) A, being in the presence of B and Z, instigates B to murder Z. B, in consequence of such instigation, murders Z in A's presence. Here, as A is present when the murder is committed and abets by instigation that murder, A and B are principals in the murder.

(c) A and B conspire to murder Z. A, in pursuance of that conspiracy, stabs Z and thereby murders him in B's presence. Here, as B abets by conspiracy the murder committed in his presence both B and A are principals.

(d) A and B agree to murder Z. A binds Z to a tree, and B then in A's presence stabs him with a sword. Here A abets by aid the murder of Z, and as that murder is committed in his presence, both A and B are principals.

(e) A abets B to give false evidence in a Court of Justice. B, in consequence of A's instigation gives false evidence. Here, notwithstanding A may be present in Court when the false evidence is given, he is not a principal, but only an abettor, inasmuch as he was not capable of taking a part in B's act of giving evidence.

Explanation 1.—When the act is committed in consequence of the abetment, it is not necessary, in order to render the abettor liable, that the person committing the act should be capable by law of committing an offence, or that he should commit the act with the same guilty intention or knowledge as that of the abettor, or with any guilty knowledge or intention.

Illustrations.

(a) A, having such an intention as would render the killing of Z murder if A committed the act himself, instigates B, a madman, to commit that act. B, in consequence of such instigation, kills Z in A's presence. Here, A abets the offence of murder (see Clause 4); and as the act abetted was committed by B in his presence, A is a principal in the murder, though B was not guilty of any offence.

(b) A, a prisoner confined in a cell in Jail, instigates B, a prisoner who is outside the cell to murder Z, the Jailor. B commits the offence in consequence of the instigation. Here, if A was not capable of taking part in the act in consequence of his confinement, he is not a principal, but only an abettor.

Explanation 2.—Where there are several principals, in the commission of a criminal act, they may be guilty of different offences by means of that act.

Illustration.

A attacks Z under such circumstances of grave provocation that his killing of Z would be only culpable homicide. B, having ill-will towards Z and not having been subject to the provocation assists A in killing Z. Here, though A and B are both principals in causing Z's death, B is guilty of murder, and A is guilty only of culpable homicide.

Principal by doing one of several acts constituting an offence.

2. When an offence is committed by means of several acts, whoever voluntarily co-operates in the commission of that offence by actually doing any one of those acts either singly or jointly with any other person, or by abetting such act and being present when it is done, and capable of taking a part therein, is a principal in the offence.

Illustrations.

(a) A and B agree to murder Z by severally and at different times giving him small doses of poison. A and B administer the poison according to the agreement. Z dies from the effects of the several doses of poison so administered to him. Here A and B voluntarily co-operate in the commission of murder, and as each of them does an act by which the death is caused, they are both principals, though their acts are separate.

(b) A and B are joint Jailors, and as such, have the charge of Z, a prisoner, alternately for six hours at a time. A and B, intending to cause Z's death, knowingly co-operate in causing that effect by illegally omitting, each during the time of his attendance, to furnish Z with food. Z dies of hunger. Both A and B are principals in the murder of Z.

(c) A, a Jailor, has the charge of Z, a prisoner. A, intending to cause Z's death, illegally omits to supply Z with food; in consequence of which Z is much reduced in strength, but the starvation is not sufficient to cause his death. A is dismissed from his office, and B succeeds him. B, without collusion or co-operation with A, illegally omits to supply Z with food, knowing that he is likely thereby to cause Z's death. Z dies of hunger. B is guilty of murder; but as A did not co-operate with B, A is guilty only of an attempt to commit murder.

Explanation 1.—A person is said to be present within the meaning of the Clauses 1 and 2 of this Chapter who is near enough to render assistance to the person who does the act.

Explanation 2.—When the causing of a particular effect is necessary to constitute an offence, a person may be a principal in the commission of the offence, although not present when the effect is caused.

Illustrations.

(a) A lays poison for the purpose of poisoning Z. Z takes the poison and dies in consequence in the absence of A. A is a principal in the murder of Z, notwithstanding he was not present when the poison was taken, or the murder was consummated by Z's death.

* As to what amounts to abetment of an offence—see Clause 4 and Explanations.

(b) A instigates B to lay poison with the intention of poisoning Z, and is present when B lays it with that intent. Z in the absence of A and B, takes the poison and dies in consequence. A and B are both principals in the murder of Z, though A was both absent when the effect was caused.

Abetment.

3. A person abets the doing of a thing, who,

First.—Instigates any person to do that thing, or

Secondly.—Engages in any conspiracy for the doing of that thing, if an act or illegal omission takes place in pursuance of that conspiracy, and in order to the doing of that thing, or Thirdly.—Intentionally aids, by any act or illegal omission, the doing of that thing.

Explanation 1.—A person is said to instigate the doing of a thing who, by wilful misrepresentation or by wilful concealment of a material fact which he is bound to disclose, or otherwise, voluntarily causes or procures, or attempts to cause or procure, that thing to be done.

Illustration.

A, a public officer, is authorized by a warrant from a Court of Justice to apprehend Z. B, knowing that fact and also that C is not Z, wilfully represents to A that C is Z, and thereby intentionally causes A to apprehend C. Here B abets by instigation the apprehension of C.

Explanation 2.—Whoever, prior to or at the time of the commission of an act, does any thing in order to facilitate the commission of that act, and thereby facilitates the commission thereof, is said to aid the doing of that act.

Abettor.

4. A person is said to abet an offence who abets either the commission of an offence, or the commission of an act which would be an offence, if committed by a person capable by law of committing an offence with the intention or knowledge of the abettor.

Explanation 1.—A person may be guilty of abetting an offence by abetting the illegal omission of an act, by a person legally bound to do the act, although he may not himself be legally bound to do that act.

Illustration.

A instigates B to take a horse out of Z's possession, knowing that the horse belongs to Z and intending that B shall steal the horse. Here A abets the offence of theft, for he with the intention and knowledge which is necessary to constitute the taking a theft, abets that taking.

Explanation 2.—A person may be guilty of abetting an offence, although the act abetted be not committed; or the effect necessary to constitute the offence be not caused. In such case he will be punishable under Clauses 12 and 13 of this Chapter.

Explanation 3.—It is not necessary that the person abetted should be capable by law of committing an offence, or that he should have the same guilty intention or knowledge as that of the abettor, or any guilty intention or knowledge.

Illustration.

A, with a guilty intention, abets a child or a lunatic to commit an act which would be an offence, if committed by a person capable by law of committing an offence, and having the same intention as A. Here A, whether the act be committed or not, is guilty of abetting an offence. If the act be committed, he is punishable under Clause 5 of this Chapter; if the act be not committed, he is punishable under Clause 12 or 13 of this Chapter.

Punishment of abetment if the act abetted is committed in consequence, and where no express provision is made for its punishment.

5. Whoever abets any offence shall, if the act abetted is committed in consequence of the abetment, and no express provision is made by this Code for the punishment of such abetment, be punished with the punishment provided for the offence, although he may not be a principal.

Illustrations.

(a) A offers a bribe to B, a public servant. B accepts the bribe. A has abetted the offence defined under Clause 1 Chapter IX.

(b) A instigates B to give false evidence. B, in consequence of the instigation, commits that offence. A is guilty of abetting that offence, and is liable to the same punishment as B.

(c) A and B conspire to poison Z. A, in pursuance of the conspiracy, procures the poison and delivers it to B in order that he may administer it to Z. B, in pursuance of the conspiracy, administers the poison to Z in A's absence and thereby causes Z's death. Here B is guilty of murder. A is guilty of abetting that offence by conspiracy, and is liable to the punishment for murder.

Explanation 1.—It is not necessary that the person committing the act should be capable by law of committing an offence, or that he should commit the act with the same intention or knowledge as that of the abettor, or that by committing the act he should be guilty of any offence.

Illustrations.

(a) A, with the intention of murdering Z, instigates B, a child under seven years of age, to do an act which causes Z's death. B, in consequence of the abetment, does the act in the absence of A and thereby causes Z's death. Here, though B was not capable by law of committing an offence, A is liable to be punished in the same manner as if B had been capable by law of committing an offence, and had committed murder, and he is therefore subject to the punishment of death. If, in such a case, B does the act in the presence of A, A is a principal.

(b) A, with the intention of causing Z's property to be taken, fraudulently instigates B, a child under seven years of age, to take that property in a way which, in a grown-up person, would be the offence of theft. B takes the property in consequence. B has committed no offence, but A is liable to the same punishment as if B had committed theft.

(c) A instigates B to set fire to a dwelling house. B, in consequence of the unsoundness of his mind, being incapable of knowing the nature of the act, or that he is doing what is wrong or contrary to law, sets fire to the house in consequence of A's instigation. B has committed no offence, but A is guilty of abetting the offence of setting fire to a dwelling house, and is liable to the punishment provided for that offence.

(d) A, intending to cause a theft to be committed, instigates B to take property belonging to Z out of Z's possession. A induces B to believe that the property belongs to A. B takes the property out of Z's possession, in good faith believing it to be A's property. B, acting under this misconception, does not take fraudulently, and therefore does not commit theft. But A is guilty of abetting theft, and is liable to the same punishment as if B had committed theft.

Explanation 2.—The abetment of an offence being an offence, the abetment of such an abetment is also an offence.

Illustration.

A instigates B to instigate C to murder Z. B accordingly instigates C to murder Z, and C commits that offence in consequence of B's instigation. B is liable to be punished for his offence with the punishment for murder, and as A instigated B to commit the offence, A is also liable to the same punishment.

Explanation 3.—An act or offence is said to be committed in consequence of abetment, when it is committed in consequence of the instigation, or in pursuance of the conspiracy, or with the aid which constitutes the abetment.

Explanation 4.—It is not necessary to the commission of the offence of abetment by conspiracy that the abettor should concert the offence with the person who commits it. It is sufficient if he engage in the conspiracy in pursuance of which the offence is committed.

Illustration.

A concerts with B a plan for poisoning Z. It is agreed that A shall administer the poison. B then explains the plan to C, mentioning that a third person is to administer the poison, but without mentioning A's name. C agrees to procure the poison and procures and delivers it to B for the purpose of its being used in the manner explained. A administers the poison; Z dies in consequence. Here, though A and C have not conspired together, yet C has been engaged in the conspiracy in pursuance of which Z has been murdered. C has therefore committed the offence defined in this Clause and is liable to the punishment for murder.

6. Whoever abets the commission of an offence shall, if the person abetted does the act with a different intention or knowledge from that of the abettor, be punished with the punishment provided for the offence which would have been committed if the act had been done with the intention or knowledge of the abettor and with no other.

Punishment of abetment if the person abetted does the act with a different intention from that of the abettor.

7. When an act is abetted and a different act is done, the abettor is liable for the act done, in the same manner and to the same extent as if he had directly abetted it; provided the act done was a natural and probable consequence of the abetment, and was committed under the influence of the instigation, or with the aid or in pursuance of the conspiracy which constituted the abetment.

Liability of abettor when one act is abetted and a different act is done.

Proviso.

Illustrations.

(a) A instigates a child to put poison into the food of Z and gives him poison for that purpose. The child, in consequence of the instigation, by mistake puts the poison into the food of Y, which is by the side of that of Z. Here, if the child was acting under the influence of A's instigation and the act done was under the circumstances a probable consequence of the abetment, A is liable in the same manner and to the same extent as if he had instigated the child to put the poison into the food of Y.

(b) A instigates B to burn Z's house. B sets fire to the house and at the same time commits theft of property there. A, though guilty of abetting the burning of the house, is not guilty of abetting the theft; for the theft was a distinct act and not a probable consequence of the burning.

(c) A instigates B and C to break into an inhabited house at midnight for the purpose of robbery, and provides them with arms for that purpose. B and C break into the house, and being resisted by Z, one of the inmates, murder Z. Here, if that murder was the probable consequence of the abetment A is liable to the punishment provided for murder.

8. If the act for which the abettor is liable under the last preceding Clause is committed in addition to the act abetted and constitutes a distinct offence, the abettor is liable to cumulative punishment.

Abettor when liable to cumulative punishment for act abetted and for act done.

Illustration.

A instigates B to resist by force a distress made by a public servant. B, in consequence, resists that distress. In offering the resistance, B voluntarily causes grievous hurt to the officer executing the distress. As B has committed both the offence of resisting the distress and the offence of voluntarily causing grievous hurt, B is liable to cumulative punishment for these offences; and if A knew that B was likely voluntarily to cause grievous hurt in resisting the distress, A will also be liable to cumulative punishment.

9. When an act is abetted with the intention on the part of the abettor of causing a particular effect, or with the knowledge that it is likely to cause that effect, and the act being done in consequence of the abetment, causes a different effect from that intended, or known by the abettor to be likely to be caused by the act abetted, the abettor is liable for the effect caused, in the same manner and to the same extent as if he had abetted the act with the intention of causing that effect, or with the knowledge that it was likely to cause that effect, provided the effect caused was a natural and probable consequence of the act abetted.

Liability of abettor for an effect caused by the act abetted different from that intended by the abettor.

Illustration.

A instigates B to cause grievous hurt to Z. B, in consequence of the instigation causes grievous hurt to Z. Z dies in consequence. Here, if death was the probable consequence of the grievous hurt abetted, A is liable to be punished with the punishment provided for murder.

10. If the effect for which the abettor is liable under the last preceding Clause is caused in addition to the effect which the abettor intended to cause, and the causing of such effects constitutes separate offences, the abettor is liable to cumulative punishment.

Abettor liable to cumulative punishment for the effect intended and for the effect caused if separate offences.

11. If any person in abetting an offence also commits an offence under any Clause contained in any other Chapter of this Code, the punishment shall be cumulative.

Cumulative punishment when a person, in abetting an offence, commits another offence.

Illustration.

A, by putting B in fear of death, instigates B to commit mischief. Here A is liable both to the punishment provided for abetting B to commit mischief and to the punishment for criminally putting B in fear of death.

12. Whoever abets the commission of an offence punishable with death or transportation for life, shall, if that offence be not committed in consequence of the abetment, and no express provision is made by this Code for the punishment of such abetment, be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to seven years, and shall also be liable to fine; and if any act be done in consequence of the abetment, which causes harm to any person, shall be liable to imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to fourteen years, and shall also be liable to fine.

Abetment of an offence punishable with death or transportation for life if the offence be not committed in consequence of the abetment.

If an act which causes harm be done in consequence of the abetment.

Illustration.

A instigates B to murder Z. The offence is not committed. If B had murdered Z he would have been subject to the punishment of death or transportation for life. Therefore A is liable to imprisonment for a term which may extend to seven years and also to a fine; and if any harm be done Z in consequence of the abetment, he will be liable to imprisonment for a term which may extend to fourteen years, and to fine.

13. Whoever abets an offence punishable with imprisonment shall, if that offence be not committed in consequence of the abetment, and no express provision is made by this Code for the punishment of such abetment, be punished with imprisonment of any description provided for that offence, for a term which may extend to one-fourth part of the longest term provided for that offence, or with such fine as is provided for that offence, or both; and if the abettor or the person abetted is a public servant, whose duty it is to prevent the commission of such offence, the abettor shall be punished with imprisonment of any description provided for that offence, for a term which may extend to one-half of the longest term provided for that offence, or with such fine as is provided for the offence, or both.

(b) A instigates B to give false evidence. Here, if B does not give false evidence, A has nevertheless committed the offence defined in this Clause, and is punishable accordingly.

(c) A, a Police officer, whose duty it is to prevent robbery, abets the commission of robbery. Here, though the robbery be not committed, A is liable to one-half of the longest term of imprisonment provided for that offence, and also to fine.

(d) B abets the commission of robbery by A, a Police officer, whose duty it is to prevent that offence. Here, though the robbery be not committed, B is liable to one-half of the longest term of imprisonment provided for the offence of robbery, and also to fine.

14 Whoever abets the commission of an offence, by the public generally, or by any number or class of persons exceeding ten, shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to three years, or with fine, or with both.

Abetting the commission of an offence by the public or by more than 10 persons.

A affixes in a public place a placard, instigating a sect consisting of more than ten members to meet at a certain time and place, for the purpose of attacking the members of an adverse sect, while engaged in a procession. A has committed the offence defined in this Clause.

15. Whoever voluntarily conceals, by any act or illegal omission, the existence of a design to commit an offence punishable with death or transportation for life, or makes any representation which he knows to be false respecting such design, shall, if that offence be committed, be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to seven years; or, if the offence be not committed, with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to three years: and in either case shall also be liable to fine.

16. Whoever, being a public servant, conceals, by any act or illegal omission, the existence of a design to commit any offence the commission of which it is his duty, as such public servant, to prevent, or makes any representation which he knows to be false respecting such design, shall, if the offence be committed, be punished with imprisonment of any description provided for the offence, for a term which may extend to one-half of the longest term of such imprisonment, or with such fine as is provided for that offence, or with both; or, if the offence be punishable with death or transportation for life, with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to ten years; or, if the offence be not committed, shall be punished with imprisonment of any description provided for the offence for a term which may extend to one-fourth part of the longest term of such imprisonment, or with such fine as is provided for the offence, or with both.

Here A has by an illegal omission concealed the existence of B's design, and is liable to punishment according to the provision of this Clause.

17. Whoever conceals, by any act or illegal omission, the existence of a design to commit an offence punishable with imprisonment, or makes any representation which he knows to be false respecting such design, shall, if the offence be committed, be punished with imprisonment of the description provided for the offence for a term which may extend to one-fourth, and if the offence be not committed, to one-eighth of the longest term of such imprisonment, or with such fine as is provided for the offence, or with both.

Chapter XVI.

OF OFFENCES AFFECTING THE HUMAN BODY.

OF OFFENCES AFFECTING LIFE.

1. WHOEVER causes death by doing an act with the intention of causing death, or with the intention of causing such bodily injury as likely to cause death, or with the knowledge that he is likely by such act to cause death, commits the offence of culpable homicide.

Culpable homicide.

Illustrations.

(a) A lays sticks and turf over a pit, with the intention of thereby causing death or with the knowledge that death is likely to be thereby caused. Z, believing the ground to be firm, treads on it, falls in, and is killed. A has committed the offence of culpable homicide.

(b) A, with the intention or knowledge aforesaid, relates agitating tidings to Z, who is in a critical stage of a dangerous illness. Z dies in consequence A has committed the offence of culpable homicide.

(c) A with the intention or knowledge aforesaid, threatens to cause the instant death of Z, unless Z jumps out of a window. Z jumps out of the window in consequence of the threat and thereby kills himself. A has committed the offence of culpable homicide.

(d) A is hired to guide Z through a jungle. In the midst of the jungle, A, no circumstance having occurred to release him from his legal obligation to guide Z through the jungle, leaves Z in the jungle with the knowledge that Z is likely to be lost in the jungle and starved to death in consequence. Z is lost in the jungle and starved to death in consequence. A has committed the offence of culpable homicide.

(e) A knows Z to be behind a bush. B does not know it. A, intending to cause, or knowing it to be likely to cause Z's death, induces B to fire at the bush. B fires and kills Z. Here B may be guilty of no offence; but A has committed the offence of culpable homicide.

Explanation 1. A person who causes bodily injury to another who is labouring under a disorder, disease, or bodily infirmity, and thereby accelerates the death of that other, shall be deemed to have caused his death.

Explanation 2. Where death is caused by bodily injury, the person who causes such bodily injury shall be deemed to have caused the death, although by resorting to proper remedies and skilful treatment the death might have been prevented.

Explanation 3. The causing of the death of a child in the mother's womb is not homicide. But it may amount to culpable homicide to cause the death of a living child if any part of that child has been brought forth, though the child may not have breathed or been completely born.

2. Except in the cases hereinafter excepted, culpable homicide is murder if the act by which the death is caused is done with the intention of causing death, or—

Murder

2*ndly*. If it is done with the intention of causing such bodily injury as the offender knows to be likely to cause the death of the person to whom the harm is caused, or—

3*rdly*. If it is done with the intention of causing bodily injury to any person and the bodily harm intended to be inflicted is sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death, or—

4*thly*. If the person committing the act knows that it is so imminently dangerous that it must in all probability cause death or such bodily injury as is likely to cause death, and commits such act without any excuse for incurring the risk of causing death or such injury as aforesaid and under circumstances which indicate a depraved mind regardless of human life.

Illustrations.

(a) A shoots Z with the intention of killing him. Z dies in consequence. A commits murder

(b) A, knowing that Z is labouring under such a disease that a blow on a particular part of his body is likely to cause his death, strikes him on that particular part of his body with intention of causing bodily injury. Z dies in consequence of the blow. A is guilty of murder, although the blow might not have been sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause the death of a person in a sound state of health. But if A, not knowing that Z is labouring under any disease, gives him such a blow as would not in the ordinary course of nature kill a person in a sound state of health, here A, although he may intend to cause bodily injury, is not guilty of murder if he did not intend to cause death.

(c) A gives Z sword-cuts and club-wounds sufficient to cause the death of a man in the ordinary course of nature. Z dies in consequence. Here if A intended to cause that degree of bodily injury to Z which he inflicted, A is guilty of murder, although it may not be proved that A intended to cause Z's death.

(d) A without any excuse fires a loaded cannon into a crowd of persons and kills one of them, A is guilty of murder although he may not have had a premeditated design to kill any particular individual.

Exception 1. Culpable homicide is not murder if the offender, whilst deprived of the power of self-control by the excitement of fear or anger caused by grave and sudden provocation, causes the death of the person who gave the provocation, or causes the death of any other person by mistake or accident in doing an act caused by such fear or anger.

When culpable homicide is not murder.

The above exception is subject to the following provisoes.

First. That the provocation is not sought or voluntarily provoked by the offender as an excuse for killing or doing harm to any person.

Secondly. That the provocation is not given by any thing done in obedience to the law or by a public servant in the lawful exercise of the powers of such public servant.

Thirdly. That the provocation is not given by any thing done in the lawful exercise of the right of private defence.

Explanation. Whether the provocation was grave enough or the passion of fear or anger sudden enough to prevent the offence from amounting to murder is a question of fact.

Illustrations.

(a) A, under the influence of passion excited by a provocation given by Z, intentionally kills Y, Z's child. This is murder, inasmuch as the provocation was not given by the child and the death of the child was not caused by accident or misfortune in doing an act caused by the provocation.

(b) Y gives grave and sudden provocation to A. A, on this provocation, fires a pistol at Y, neither intending or knowing himself to be likely to kill Z, who is near him, but out of sight. A kills Z. Here A has not committed murder but merely culpable homicide.

(c) A is lawfully arrested by Z, a bailiff. A is excited to sudden and violent passion by the arrest, and voluntarily kills Z. This is murder, inasmuch as the provocation was given by a thing done by a public servant in obedience to the law.

(d) A appears as a witness before Z, a Magistrate. Z says that he does not believe a word of A's deposition and that A has perjured himself. A is moved to sudden passion by these words and kills Z. This is murder.

(e) A attempts to pull Z's nose, Z, in the exercise of the right of private defence, lays hold of A to prevent him from doing so. A is moved to sudden and violent passion in consequence, and kills Z. This is murder, inasmuch as the provocation was given by a thing done in the exercise of the right of private defence.

(f) Z strikes B. B is by this provocation excited to violent rage. A, a by-stander, intending to take advantage of B's rage, and to cause him to kill Z, puts a knife into B's hand for that purpose. B kills Z with the knife. Here B may have committed only culpable homicide, but A is guilty of murder.

Exception 2. Culpable homicide is not murder if the offender in the exercise of the right of private defence of person or property exceeds the power given to him by law and causes the death of the person against whom he is exercising such right of defence without premeditation, and without any intention of doing more harm than is necessary for the purpose of such defence.

Illustration

Z attempts to horsewhip A, not in such a manner as to cause grievous hurt to A. A draws out a pistol. Z persists in the assault. A believing in good faith that he can by no other means prevent himself from being horse-whipped, shoots Z dead. A has not committed murder, but only culpable homicide.

Exception 3. Culpable homicide is not murder if the offender, being a public servant, acting for the advancement of public justice, exceeds the powers given to him by law and causes death by doing an act which he in good faith believes to be necessary for the due discharge of his duty as such public servant and without ill-will towards the person whose death is caused.

Exception 4. Culpable homicide is not murder if it is committed without premeditation in a sudden fight in the heat of passion upon a sudden quarrel and without the offender's having taken undue advantage or acted in a cruel or unusual manner.

Explanation. It is immaterial in such cases which party offers the provocation or commits the first assault.

Exception 5. Culpable homicide is not murder when the person whose death is caused, being above the age of eighteen years, suffers death or takes the risk of death with his own consent.

Explanation 1. A consent is not within the meaning of this exception if it is given by a person under fear of injury, or under a misconception of fact, and if the offender knows or has reason to believe that the consent is given in consequence of such fear or misconception.

Explanation 2. Culpable homicide committed by a person who voluntarily puts himself to death is within this exception.

Illustrations.

(a) A, by instigation, voluntarily causes Z, a person under eighteen years of age, to commit suicide. Here, on account of Z's youth, he was incapable of giving consent to his own death; A has therefore abetted murder.

(b) A, by intentionally deceiving Z, who is laboring under a painful disease, and inducing him to believe that his disease is incurable, when A knows that it is not so, voluntarily causes Z to commit suicide. Here, on account of the deception practised by A, the offence cannot be culpable homicide by consent. A has therefore abetted murder.

(c) A by instigation voluntarily causes Z, a person above eighteen years of age, to put himself to death. A has abetted culpable homicide, but not murder.

Culpable homicide by causing the death of a person other than the person whose death was intended.

3. If a person, by doing any thing which he intends or knows to be likely to cause death, commits culpable homicide by causing the death of any person whose death he neither intends nor knows himself to be likely to cause, the culpable homicide committed by the offender is of the description of which it would have been if he had caused the death of the person whose death he intended or knew himself to be likely to cause.

Punishment for murder.

4. Whoever commits murder shall be punished with death, or transportation for life, and shall also be liable to fine.

6. Abetment of suicide of child or insane person.

7. If any person under eighteen years of age, any insane person, any delirious person, any idiot, or any person in a state of intoxication commits suicide, whoever abets the commission of such suicide shall be punished with death or transportation for life or imprisonment for a term not exceeding fourteen years, and shall also be liable to fine.

Illustrations.

(a) A shoots at Z with intention to kill him, under such circumstances that, if death ensued, A would be guilty of murder. A is liable to punishment under this Clause

(b) A intending to murder Z by means of a spring gun, purchases such a gun; A has not yet committed the offence defined in this Clause. A sets the gun loaded in Z's path, and leaves it there. A has committed the offence defined in this Clause

(c) A intending to murder Z by poison purchases poison and mixes the same with food which remains in A's keeping; A has not yet committed the offence in this Clause. A places the food on Z's table or delivers it to Z's servants to place it on Z's table A has committed the offence defined in this Clause.

Attempt to commit culpable homicide.

10. Whoever attempts to commit culpable homicide and does any act with such intention or knowledge and under such circumstances that if he by that act or omission caused death, he would be guilty of culpable homicide not amounting to murder, shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to three years, or with fine, or both; and if hurt is caused to any person by such act, shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to seven years, or with fine, or both.

Illustrations.

(a) A, on grave and sudden provocation, fires a pistol at Z, under such circumstances that if he thereby caused death he would be guilty of culpable homicide not amounting to murder. A has committed the offence defined in this Clause.

(b) A pursues a thief and fires at him under such circumstances that if he killed the thief he would commit culpable homicide in defence. A has committed the offence defined in this Clause.

Consent given through fear of injury

A consent is not within the meaning of this Clause if it is given by a person under fear of injury or under a misconception of fact, and if the person committing the offence knows or has reason to believe that the consent was given in consequence of such fear or misconception.

OF CRIMINAL FORCE AND ASSAULT

52. A person is said to use force to another if he causes motion, change of motion, or cessation of motion to that other, or if he causes to any substance such motion, or change of motion, or cessation of motion as brings that substance into contact with any part of that other's body, or with any thing which that other is wearing or carrying or with anything so situated that such contact affects that other's sense of feeling: provided that the person causing the motion, or change of motion, or cessation of motion, causes that motion, change of motion, or cessation of motion in one of the three ways hereinafter described.

Force.

First.—By his own bodily power.

Secondly.—By disposing any substance in such a manner that the motion or change or cessation of motion takes place without any further act on his part, or on the part of any other person.

Thirdly. By inducing any animal to move, to change its motion, or to cease to move.

53. Whoever intentionally uses force to any person, without that person's consent, in order to the committing of any offence, or intending by the use of such force to cause, or knowing it to be likely that by the use of such force he will cause injury, fear, or annoyance to the person to whom the force is used, is said to use criminal force to that other.

Illustrations.

(a) Z is sitting in a moored boat on a river. A unfastens the moorings, and thus intentionally causes the boat to drift down the stream. Here A intentionally causes motion to Z, and he does this by disposing substances in such a manner that the motion is produced without any other act on any person's part. A has therefore intentionally used force to Z; and if he has done so without Z's consent, in order to the committing of any offence, or intending or knowing it to be likely that this use of force may cause injury, fear, or annoyance to Z, A has used criminal force to Z.

(b) Z is riding in a chariot. A lashes Z's horses, and thereby causes them to quicken their pace. Here A has caused change of motion to Z by inducing animals to change their motion. A has therefore used force to Z, and if A has done this without Z's consent, intending or knowing it to be likely that he may thereby injure, frighten, or annoy Z, A has committed criminal force to Z.

(c) Z is riding in a palanquin. A, intending to rob Z, seizes the pole, and stops the palanquin. Here A has caused cessation of motion to Z, and he has done this by his own bodily power. A has therefore used force to Z; and as A has acted thus intentionally, without Z's consent, in order to the commission of an offence, A has used criminal force to Z.

(d) A intentionally pushes against Z in the street. Here A has by his own bodily power moved his own person so as to bring it into contact with Z: he has therefore intentionally used force to Z; and if he has done so without Z's consent, intending or knowing it to be likely that he may thereby injure, frighten, or annoy Z, he has used criminal force to Z.

(e) A throws a stone intending or knowing it to be likely that the stone will be thus brought into contact with Z, or with Z's clothes, or with something carried by Z, or that it will strike water, and dash up the water against Z's clothes, or something carried by Z. Here, if the throwing of the stone produce the effect of causing any substance to come into contact with Z or Z's clothes, A has used force to Z; and if he did so without Z's consent, intending thereby to injure, frighten, or annoy Z, he has used criminal force to Z.

(f) A intentionally pulls up a woman's veil. Here A intentionally uses force to her; and if he does so without her consent, intending or knowing it to be likely that he may thereby injure, frighten, or annoy her, he has used criminal force to her.

(g) Z is bathing. A pours into the bath water which he knows to be boiling. Here A intentionally by his own bodily power causes such motion in the boiling water as brings that water into contact with Z, or with other water so situated hat such contact must affect Z's sense of feeling: A has therefore intentionally used force to Z; and if he has done this without Z's consent, intending or knowing it to be likely that he may thereby cause injury, fear, or annoyance to Z, A has used criminal force.

(b) A incites a dog to spring upon Z, without Z's consent. Here, if A intends to cause injury, fear, or annoyance to Z he uses criminal force to Z.

Assault.

54. Whoever makes any gesture, or any preparation, intending or knowing it to be likely that by such gesture or preparation he may cause any person present to apprehend that he who makes that gesture or preparation is about to use force to that other and thereby to affect that other's sense of feeling by bringing any substance into contact with any part of that other's body or any thing which that other is wearing, carrying, or using, is said to commit an assault.

Explanation. Mere words do not amount to an assault. But the words which a person uses may give to his gestures or preparations such a meaning as may make those gestures or preparations amount to an assault.

Illustrations.

(a) A shakes his fist at Z, intending or knowing it to be likely that he may thereby cause Z to believe that A is about to strike Z. A has committed an assault.

(b) A begins to unloose the muzzle of a ferocious dog, intending or knowing it to be likely that he may thereby cause Z to believe that he is about to cause the dog to attack Z. A has committed an assault upon Z.

(c) A takes up a stick, saying to Z, "I will give you a beating." Here, though the words used by A could in no case amount to an assault, and though the mere gesture unaccompanied by any other circumstances, might not amount to an assault, the gesture explained by the words may amount to an assault.

(c) A drives Z's sheep before him, with the intention of fraudulently taking them out of Z's possession, without Z's consent. As soon as any sheep begins to move in the direction in which A intended that it should move, A has committed theft.

(d) A meets a bullock carrying a box of treasure. He drives the bullock in a certain direction, in order that he may fraudulently take the treasure. As soon as the bullock begins to move, A has committed theft on the treasure.

(e) A being Z's servant and intrusted by Z with the care of Z's plate, fraudulently runs away with the plate, without Z's consent. Here, the plate, till carried off by A, was still in Z's possession, though it was also in A's possession. A has therefore committed theft.

(f) Z, going on a journey, entrusts his plate to A, the keeper of a warehouse, till Z shall return. A carries the plate to a goldsmith and sells it. Here, the plate was not in Z's possession. It could not therefore be taken out of Z's possession, and A has not committed theft, though he may have committed criminal breach of trust.

(g) A finds a ring belonging to Z on a table in the house which Z occupies. Here, the ring is in Z's possession, and if A fraudulently removes it, A commits theft.

(h) A finds a ring lying on the high-road, not in the possession of any person. A by taking it commits no theft, though he may commit criminal misappropriation of property.

(i) A sees a ring belonging to Z lying on a table in Z's house. Not venturing to misappropriate the ring immediately for fear of search and detection, A hides the ring in a place where it is highly improbable that it will ever be found by Z, with the intention of taking the ring from the hiding place, and selling it when the loss is forgotten. Here A, at the time of first moving the ring, commits theft.

(j) A delivers his watch to Z, a jeweller, to be regulated. Z carries it to his shop. A, not owing to the jeweller any debt for which the jeweller might lawfully detain the watch as a security, enters the shop openly, takes his watch by force out of Z's hand, and carries it away. Here A, though he may have committed criminal trespass, and assault, has not committed theft, inasmuch as what he did was not done fraudulently.

(k) If A owes money to Z for repairing the watch, and if Z retains the watch lawfully as a security for the debt, and A takes the watch out of Z's possession, with the intention of keeping Z out of the money due to him, he commits theft, inasmuch as he takes it fraudulently.

(l) Again if A, having pawned his watch to Z, takes it out of Z's possession without Z's consent, not having paid what he had borrowed on the watch, he commits theft though the watch is his own property, inasmuch as he takes it fraudulently.

(m) A takes an article belonging to Z out of Z's possession, without Z's consent, with the intention of keeping it until he obtains money from Z as a reward for its restoration. Here, A takes fraudulently; A has therefore committed theft.

(n) A, being exasperated at a passage in a book which is lying on the counter of Z, a bookseller, snatches it up, and tears it to pieces. A has not committed theft, as he has not acted fraudulently, though he may have committed criminal trespass and mischief.

(o) A, being on friendly terms with Z, goes into Z's library in Z's absence, and takes away a book without Z's express consent for the purpose merely of reading it, and with the intention of returning it. Here, it is probable that A may have conceived that he had Z's implied consent to use Z's book. If this was A's impression, A has not committed theft.

(p) A asks charity from Z's wife. She gives A money, food, and clothes which A knows to belong to Z her husband. Here, it is probable that A may conceive that Z's wife is authorized to give away alms. If this was A's impression, A has not committed theft.

(q) A is the paramour of Z's wife. She gives A valuable property which A knows to belong to her husband Z, and to be such property as she has not authority from Z to give. If A takes the property, he commits theft.

(r) A in good faith believing property belonging to Z to be A's own property, takes that property out of B's possession. Here, as A does not take fraudulently, he does not commit theft.

2. Whoever commits theft shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to three years, or with fine, or both.

3. Theft after preparation made for causing death or hurt in order to the committing of the theft.

Illustrations.

(a) A commits theft on property in Z's possession; and, while committing this theft, he has a loaded pistol under his garment, having provided this pistol for the purpose of hurting or terrifying Z in case Z should resist. A has committed the offence defined in this Clause.

(b) A picks Z's pocket, having posted several of his companions near him, in order that they may restrain Z, if Z should perceive what is passing and should resist, or should attempt to apprehend A. A has committed the offence defined in this Clause.

OF EXTORTION.

5. Whoever intentionally puts any person in fear of any injury to that person, or to any other, and thereby fraudulently induces the person so put in fear to deliver to any person any property or valuable security or any thing signed or sealed which may be converted into a valuable security, commits "extortion."

Extortion.

Illustrations.

(a) A threatens to publish a defamatory libel concerning Z, unless Z gives him money. He thus induces Z to give him money. A has committed extortion.

(b) A threatens Z that he will keep Z's child in wrongful confinement, unless Z will sign and deliver to A a promissory note binding Z to pay certain monies to A. Z signs and delivers the note. A has committed extortion.

(c) A threatens to send club-men to plough up Z's field, unless Z will sign and deliver to B a bond binding Z under a penalty to deliver certain produce to B. Z signs and delivers the bond. A has committed extortion.

(d) A by putting Z in fear of grievous hurt fraudulently induces Z to sign or affix his seal to a blank paper and deliver it to A. Z signs and delivers the paper to A. Here, as the paper so signed may be converted into a valuable security, A has committed extortion.

6. Whoever commits extortion, shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to three years, or with fine, or both.

OF ROBBERY AND DACOITY

Robbery.

12. In all robbery there is either theft or extortion.

When theft is robbery.

Theft is "robbery", if, in order to the committing of the theft, or in committing the theft, or in carrying away or attempting to carry away property obtained by theft, the offender, for that end, voluntarily causes or attempts to cause to any person death or hurt or wrongful restraint or fear of instant death or of instant hurt, or of instant wrongful restraint.

When extortion is robbery.

Extortion is "robbery", if the offender, at the time of committing the extortion, is in the presence of the person put in fear, and commits the extortion by putting that person in fear of instant death, of instant hurt, or of instant wrongful restraint to that person, or to some other person present at the time of committing the extortion, and, by so putting in fear, induces the person so put in fear then and there to deliver up any property.

Illustrations.

(a) A holds Z down, and fraudulently takes Z's money and jewels from Z's clothes, without Z's consent. Here, A has committed theft, and, in order to the committing of that theft, has voluntarily caused wrongful restraint to Z. A has therefore committed robbery.

(b) A meets Z on the high road, shews a pistol, and demands Z's purse. Z surrenders his purse. Here, A has extorted the purse from Z by putting him in fear of instant hurt, and being at the time of committing the extortion in his presence. A has therefore committed robbery.

(c) A meets Z, and Z's child, on the high road. A takes the child, and threatens to fling it down a precipice, unless Z delivers his purse. Z delivers his purse. Here A has extorted the purse from Z, by causing Z to be in fear of instant hurt to the child who is there present. A has therefore committed robbery on Z.

(d) A obtains property from Z by saying—"your child is in the hands of my gang, and will be put to death unless you send us ten thousand Rupees." This is extortion, and punishable as such; but it is not robbery.

Dacoity.

13. When five or more persons, conjointly, commit or attempt to commit a robbery, or where the whole number of persons conjointly committing or attempting to commit a robbery, and persons present and aiding such commission or attempt, amount to five or more, every person so committing, attempting, or aiding, is said to commit "Dacoity."

Punishment for robbery.

14. Whoever commits robbery shall be punished with rigorous imprisonment for a term which may extend to fourteen years, and shall also be liable to fine.

Attempt to commit robbery.

15. Whoever attempts to commit robbery shall be punished with rigorous imprisonment for a term which may extend to seven years, and shall also be liable to fine.

Voluntarily causing hurt in committing robbery.

16. If any person, in committing or in attempting to commit robbery voluntarily causes hurt, such person, and any other person jointly concerned in committing or attempting to commit such robbery, shall be punished with transportation for life, or with rigorous imprisonment for a term which may extend to fourteen years, and shall also be liable to fine.

Punishment dacoity.

17. Whoever commits dacoity shall be punished with transportation for life, or with rigorous imprisonment for a term which may extend to fourteen years and shall not be less than seven years, and shall also be liable to fine.

Dacoity with murder.

18. If any one of five or more persons, who are conjointly committing dacoity, commits murder in so committing dacoity, every one of those persons shall be punished with death, or transportation for life, or rigorous imprisonment for a term which may extend to fourteen years, and shall also be liable to fine.

Robbery or dacoity with attempt to cause death or grievous hurt.

19. If, at the time of committing robbery or dacoity, the offender uses any deadly weapon or causes grievous hurt to any person, or attempts to cause death or grievous hurt to any person, the imprisonment with which such offender shall be punished shall not be less than seven years.

Attempt to commit robbery or dacoity when armed with deadly weapon.

20. If, at the time of attempting to commit robbery or dacoity, the offender is armed with any deadly weapon, the imprisonment with which such offender shall be punished shall not be less than five years.

21. Whoever makes any preparation for committing dacoity, shall be punished with rigorous imprisonment for a term which may extend to fourteen years, and shall also be liable to fine.

24. Whoever is one of five or more persons assembled for the purpose of committing dacoity, shall be punished with rigorous imprisonment for a term which may extend to seven years, and shall also be liable to fine.

25. Whoever fraudulently misappropriates or converts to his own use any moveable property, shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to two years, or with fine, or with both.

Fraudulent misappropriation of property.

Illustrations.

(a) A takes property belonging to Z out of Z's possession, in good faith believing, at the time when he takes it, that the property belongs to himself. A is not guilty of theft; but if A, after discovering his mistake, fraudulently appropriates the property to his own use, he is guilty of an offence under this Clause.

(b) A, being on friendly terms with Z, goes into Z's library in Z's absence, and takes away a book without Z's express consent. Here, if A was under the impression that he had Z's implied consent to take the book for the purpose of reading it, A has not committed theft. But if A afterwards sells the book for his own benefit, he is guilty of an offence under this Clause.

(c) A and B being joint owners of a horse, A takes the horse out of B's possession, intending to use it. Here, as A has a right to use the horse, he does not fraudulently misappropriate it. But if A sells the horse and appropriates the whole proceeds to his own use, he is guilty of an offence under this Clause.

Explanation 1. A fraudulent misappropriation for a time only is a misappropriation within the meaning of this Clause.

Illustration.

A finds a Government paper belonging to Z, bearing a blank endorsement. A, knowing that the paper belongs to Z, pledges it with a banker as a security for a loan, intending at a future time to restore it to Z. A has committed an offence under this Clause.

Explanation 2. A person who finds property not in the possession of any other person and takes such property for the purpose of protecting it for, or of restoring it to, the owner, does not take or misappropriate it fraudulently, and is not guilty of an offence; but he is guilty of the offence above defined, if he appropriates it to his own use, when he knows or has the means of discovering the owner, or before he has used reasonable means to discover and give notice to the owner, and has kept the property a reasonable time to enable the owner to claim it.

What are reasonable means or what is a reasonable time in such a case is a question of fact.

It is not necessary that the finder should know who is the owner of the property, or that any particular person is the owner of it: it is sufficient if, at the time of appropriating it, he does not believe it to be his own property, or in good faith believes that the real owner cannot be found.

Illustrations.

(a) A finds a Rupee on the high road, not knowing to whom the Rupee belongs. A picks up the Rupee. Here A has not committed the offence defined in this Clause.

(b) A finds a letter on the road, containing a bank note. From the direction and contents of the letter he learns to whom the note belongs. He appropriates the note. He is guilty of an offence under this Clause.

(c) A finds a cheque payable to bearer. He can form no conjecture as to the person who has lost the cheque. But the name of the person who has drawn the cheque appears. A knows that this person can direct him to the person in whose favor the cheque was drawn. A appropriates the cheque without attempting to discover the owner. He is guilty of an offence under this Clause.

(d) A sees Z drop his purse with money in it. A picks up the purse with the intention of restoring it to Z, but afterwards appropriates it to his own use. A has committed an offence under this Clause.

(e) A finds a purse with money, not knowing to whom it belongs; he afterwards discovers that it belongs to Z, and appropriates it to his own use. A is guilty of an offence under this Clause.

(f) A finds a valuable ring, not knowing to whom it belongs. A sells it immediately without attempting to discover the owner. A is guilty of an offence under this Clause.

26. Whoever fraudulently misappropriates or converts to his own use property, knowing that such property was in the possession of a deceased person at the time of that person's decease, and has not since been in the possession of any person legally entitled to such possession, shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to three years, and shall also be liable to fine.

Fraudulent misappropriation of property possessed by a deceased person at the time of his death.

Illustration.

Z dies in possession of furniture and money. His servant A, before the money comes into the possession of any person entitled to such possession, fraudulently misappropriates it. A has committed the offence defined in this Clause.

OF CRIMINAL BREACH OF TRUST.

27. Whoever, being in any manner entrusted with property or with any dominion over property, fraudulently converts or appropriates that property to his own use, or knowingly and dishonestly uses or disposes of that property, in violation of any direction of law prescribing the mode in which such trust is to be discharged, or of any legal contract, express or implied, which he has made touching the discharge of such trust, or wilfully suffers any other person so to do, commits "criminal breach of trust."

Criminal breach of trust.

Illustrations.

(a) A, being executor to the will of a deceased person, fraudulently disobeys the law which directs him to divide the effects according to the will, and appropriates them to his own use. A has committed criminal breach of trust.

(b) A is a warehouse keeper. Z going on a journey, entrusts his furniture to A, under a contract that it shall be returned on payment of a stipulated sum for warehouse room. A fraudulently sells the goods. A has committed criminal breach of trust.

(c) A, residing in Calcutta, is agent for Z, residing at Delhi. There is an express or implied contract between A and Z that all sums remitted by Z to A shall be invested by A according to Z's direction. Z remits a lac of Rupees to A, with directions to A to invest the same in Company's paper. A fraudulently disobeys the directions, and employs the money in his own business. A has committed criminal breach of trust.

(d) But if A, in the last illustration, not fraudulently, but in good faith, believing that it will be more for Z's advantage to hold shares in the Bank of Bengal, disobeys Z's directions, and buys shares in the Bank of Bengal for Z, instead of buying Company's paper, here, though Z should suffer loss, and should be entitled to bring a Civil action against A on account of that loss, yet A, not having acted fraudulently, has not committed criminal breach of trust.

(e) A, a revenue officer, is entrusted with public money, and is either directed by law, or bound by a contract, express or implied, with the Government, to pay into a certain treasury all the public money which he holds. A fraudulently appropriates the money. A has committed criminal breach of trust.

28. Whoever commits criminal breach of trust shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to three years, or with fine, or with both.

OF THE RECEIVING OF STOLEN PROPERTY.

Stolen property.

31. Property the possession whereof has been transferred by theft, or by extortion, or by robbery, or by fraudulent misappropriation of property, or by criminal breach of trust, is designated as "stolen property." But if such property subsequently comes into the possession of a person legally entitled to the possession thereof, it then ceases to be stolen property.

32. Whoever fraudulently receives or retains any stolen property, knowing or having reason to believe the same to be stolen property, shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to seven years, or with fine, or with both.

Cheating.

36. Whoever, by deceiving any person, fraudulently induces the person so deceived to deliver any property to any person, or to consent that any person shall retain any property, or to make, alter, or destroy the whole or any part of any document or any thing which is signed or sealed and which may be converted into a document, or by any false pretence unlawfully and intentionally induces the person deceived to do or omit to do anything which that person would not do or omit if he were not so deceived and which causes or is likely to cause damage or injury to that person, is said to "cheat."

(h) A intentionally deceives Z into a belief that A has performed A's part of a contract made with Z, which he has not performed, and thereby fraudulently induces Z to pay money. A cheats.

knows that it was not made, or at a time at which he knows that it was not made ; or

Secondly.—Who, without lawful authority, by cancellation or otherwise, alters a document in any material part thereof after it has been executed either by himself or by any other person whether such person be living or dead at the time ; or

Thirdly. Who voluntarily causes any person to sign, seal, execute, or alter a document knowing that such person by reason of unsoundness of mind or intoxication cannot, or that by reason of deception practised upon him, he does not know the contents of the document or the nature of the alteration.

Illustrations.

(a) A has a letter of credit upon B for Rupees 10.000 written by Z. A in order to defraud B adds a cypher to the 10,000 and makes the sum 100,000 intending that it may be believed by B that Z so wrote the letter. A has committed forgery.

(b) A without Z's authority affixes Z's seal to a document purporting to be a conveyance of an estate from Z to A with the intention of selling the estate to B and thereby of obtaining from B the purchase money. A has committed forgery.

(c) A picks up a cheque on a Banker signed by B payable to bearer, but without any sum having been inserted in the cheque. A fraudulently fills up the cheque by inserting the sum of ten thousand Rupees. A commits forgery.

(d) A leaves with B, his agent, a cheque on a Banker signed by A without inserting the sum payable, and authorizes B to fill up the cheque by inserting a sum not exceeding ten thousand Rupees for the purpose of making certain payments. B fraudulently fills up the cheque by inserting the sum of twenty thousand Rupees. B commits forgery.

(e) A draws a Bill of Exchange on himself in the name of B without B's authority, intending to discount it as a genuine Bill with a Banker and intending to take up the Bill on its maturity. Here, as A draws the Bill with intent to deceive the Banker by leading him to suppose that he had the security of B and thereby to discount the Bill, A is guilty of forgery.

(f) Z's will contains these words—"I direct that all my remaining property be equally divided between A, B, and C." A scratches out B's name, intending that it my be believed that the whole was left to himself and C. A has committed forgery.

(g) A endorses a Government Promissory Note and makes it payable to Z or his order by writing on the Bill the words "Pay to Z or his order" and signing the endorsement. B erases the words "Pay to Z, or his order" and thereby converts the special endorsement into a blank endorsement. B commits forgery.

(h) A sells and conveys an estate to Z. A afterwards, in order to defraud Z of his estate, executes a conveyance of the same estate to B dated six months earlier than the date of the conveyance to Z, intending it to be believed that he had conveyed the estate to B before he conveyed it to Z. A has committed forgery.

(i) Z dictates his will to A. A intentionally writes down a different legatee from the legatee named by Z, and by representing to Z that he has prepared the will according to his instructions, induces Z to sign the will. A has committed forgery.

(j) A having engaged to write Z's will according to Z's direction, and being directed by Z to write that Z leaves the residuum of his property equally between I, K, and L, intentionally omits the name of K, and by inducing Z to believe that the will was drawn according to his instruction, causes Z to execute it, intending that it may be believed that the document is made according to Z's direction. A has committed forgery.

A is guilty of forgery ; and if B draws the Bill upon the paper pursuant to A's intention, B is also guilty of forgery.

(c) A picks up a Bill of Exchange payable to the order of a different person of the same name. A endorses the Bill in his own name, intending to cause it to be believed that it was endorsed by the person to whose order it was payable : here A has committed forgery.

(d) A purchases an estate sold under execution of a decree against B. B after the seizure of the estate, in collusion with Z, executes a lease of the estate to Z at a nominal rent and for a long period and dates the lease six months prior to the seizure with intent to defraud A and to cause it to be believed that the lease was granted before the seizure. B, though he executes the lease in his own name, commits forgery, by antedating it.

(e) A, a trader in anticipation of insolvency, lodges effects with B for A's benefit and with intent to defraud his creditors, and in order to give a colour to the transaction, writes a Promissory Note binding himself to pay to B a sum for value received, and antedates the note, intending that it may be believed to have been made before A was on the point of insolvency. Here, as A made a false document in order to induce Z to part with property, A has committed forgery.

(b) A without B's authority writes a letter and signs in B's name certifying to A's character, intending thereby to obtain employment under Z. BAREILLY COLLECTORATE ;
The 19th June 1855.

Calcutta Collectorate Notice.

1. WHEREAS, under the Orders of Government, No. 503, of the 4th April 1855, communicated to this Office by the Commissioner of the Nuddea Division, Rule 3rd of the Canal Demurrage Rules, of the 22nd August 1853, having been modified, the modified Rule is hereby published for the information of the public :—

MODIFIED RULE.

2. "Boats undergoing repair in the Docks "adjoining the Circular Canal, or in such places "adjoining the Eastern Canal, as may be appointed by the Collector, shall, while so undergoing "repair, be charged at the rate of one-sixteenth of "the demurrage prescribed in Rule 2nd."

3. To prevent any misconstruction of the modified Rule, it is hereby explained, that in the case of a Boat of 1,000 maunds, the owner would pay Rupees 5 for admission into the Canal and be allowed nine days, within which it must pass out, or pay demurrage at the rate of Rupees 2-8 per diem. In the event of the Boat requiring repair, and BILLS at par on the Public Treasuries of the resort being had to the Dock for that purpose, the charge will be, under the present Rule, 10 Annas per diem, or Rupees 6¼ for 10 days, but under the modification now sanctioned, it would be 2½ Annas per diem or Rupees 1-9 for the 10 days.

4. The local Officer in charge of the Docks will grant Admission Tickets to the Docks from the 1st August 1855. The Tickets will be numbered in the Collector's Office. The first-half will be cut off and given to the owner of the vessel entering the Dock, and the second-half or counterpart, with the Canal Ticket held by him, will be returned to the Collector's Office, where it will remain in deposit until the owner wishes to take his Boat out of the Dock. On the day before that date, he will apply to the local Officer, who will obtain the return of the Canal Ticket, and having noted on its reverse the date of exit from the Dock, will return it to the owner or manager, taking back the first-half of the Dock Ticket from him and sending it to this Office.

Calcutta Collectorate Not

1. WHEREAS, under the Orders of Government, No. 505, of the 4th April 1855, communicated to this Office by the Commissioner of the Nuddea Division, Rule 3rd of the Canal Demurrage Rules, of the 22nd August 1853, having been modified, the modified Rule is hereby published for the information of the public :—

MODIFIED RULE.

2. "Boats undergoing repair in the Docks "adjoining the Circular Canal, or in such places "adjoining the Eastern Canal, as may be appointed by the Collector, shall, while so undergoing "repair, be charged at the rate of one-sixteenth of "the demurrage prescribed in Rule 2nd."

3. To prevent any misconstruction of the modified Rule, it is hereby explained, that in the case of a Boat of 1,000 maunds, the owner would pay Rupees 3 for admission into the Canal and be allowed nine days, within which it must pass out, or pay demurrage at the rate of Rupees 2-8 per diem. In the event of the Boat requiring repair, and resort being had to the Dock for that purpose, the charge will be, under the present Rule, 10 Annas per diem, or Rupees 6¼ for 10 days, but under the modification now sanctioned, it would be 2½ Annas per diem or Rupees 1-9 for the 10 days.

4. The local Officer in charge of the Docks will grant Admission Tickets to the Docks from the 1st August 1855. The Tickets will be numbered in the Collector's Office. The first-half will be cut off and given to the owner of the vessel entering the Dock, and the second-half or counterpart, with the Canal Ticket held by him, will be returned to the Collector's Office, where it will remain in deposit until the owner wishes to take his Boat out of the Dock. On the day before that date, he will apply to the local Officer, who will obtain the return of the Canal Ticket, and having noted on its reverse the date of exit from the Dock, will return it to the owner or manager, taking back the first-half of the Dock Ticket from him and sending it to this Office.

Notifications, Appointments, &c.

No. 884.

Fort William, Home Department,

The 13th July 1855.

Notification.—It has been brought to the notice of the Government that public Officers and Servants of the Hon'ble East India Company, both Civil and Military, are in the habit of reporting their departure from the Presidency to the Offices of Audit and to other Departments, and of making other communications to such Offices and Departments by means of letters upon which the postage is not paid. And it has been also represented that such unpaid letters are usually received and opened by the Officers and Departments to whom they are addressed, and that the postage due thereon is paid to the Post Office and charged in contingent bills. And lastly, it has been stated, that Officers reporting their departure from their Presidency or from India, though not on duty or in charge of any Office, are in the habit of affixing their names and official designations to letters for the purpose of passing them through the Post Office free of charge; and that covers so signed are occasionally accepted and treated by the Post Office Authorities as on the Public Service.

The Hon'ble the President in Council being of opinion that these practices are objectionable, and that it is not necessary for the Public Service that Officers and Servants of the East India Company should report their departure from India or from their Presidency, on leave or otherwise, except to the Secretary to Government in the Department to which they belong; and being further of opinion that the postage on such letters should be paid by the persons sending them; directs that, in future, Officers and other public servants proceeding on leave, if they desire to report their departure to any Officer or Department (except a Secretary to Government) and have occasion to send such reports through the Post Office, shall either prepay the postage due thereon, or send them to an Agent by whom they can be delivered free of charge to the Office to which they are addressed.

No public Officer is authorized to send covers on the Public Service by Post without payment of postage unless he is at the time on active duty and in charge of the Office by virtue of which the privilege is enjoyed. All letters superscribed as "on the Public Service only" must, even though the postage thereon be not paid, be received and opened by the Officer to whom they are addressed; but if any such unpaid or partially paid letter is superscribed, and addressed to any Officer, except a Secretary to Government, be found, when opened, to be a report of departure, or otherwise to relate to the private affairs of the sender, the postage will be debited to him, and he will be further liable to be dealt with under Section 47, Act No. XVII. of 1854.

His Honor in Council further directs, that unpaid or insufficiently paid letters addressed to any such Officer or Department and not superscribed "on the Public Service only" be refused, or, if opened, that it be at the risk and cost of the opener.

No. 1337.

Notification.—The 20th July 1855.—The following Rules are, with the approval of the Government of India, published for general information :—

Provisional Rules for Grants in aid of Education in the Lower Provinces of the Presidency of Bengal, according to the Despatch of the Hon'ble the Court of Directors, No. 49, dated the 19th July 1854.

1. The local Government, at its discretion and upon such conditions as may seem fit in each case, (reference being had to the requirements of each district as compared with others, and to the funds at the disposal of Government,) will grant aid, in money, books or otherwise, to any school in which a good secular education is given through the medium either of English or the Vernacular tongue to males or females, or both, and which is under adequate local management.

2. In respect of any such school for which application for aid is made, full information must be supplied on the following points :—

1*st.*—The pecuniary resources, permanent and temporary, on which the school depends for support.

2*nd.*—The average annual expenditure on the school.

3*rd.*—The average number of pupils instructed, the ages of the pupils, and the average duration of their attendance at the school.

4*th.*—The persons responsible for the management and permanence of the school, and the time for which they will continue to be responsible.

5*th.*—The nature and course of instruction imparted.

6*th.*—The number, names and salaries of the Masters and Mistresses, and subjects taught by each.

7*th.*—The books in use in the several classes of the school.

8*th.*—The nature and amount of aid sought, and the purpose to which it is to be applied.

3. Any school to which aid may be given shall be at all times open to inspection and examination, together with all its accounts, books and other records, by any officer appointed by the local Government for the purpose. Such inspection and examination shall have no reference to religious instruction, but only to secular education.

4. The Government will not in any manner interfere with the actual management of a school thus aided, but will seek, upon the frequent reports of its Inspectors, to judge from results, whether a good secular education is practically imparted, or not; and it will withdraw its aid from any school which may be for any considerable period unfavorably reported upon in this respect.

5. In giving grants in aid, the Government will observe the following general principles. Grants in aid will be given to those schools only (with the exception of Normal schools) at which some fee, however small, is required from the scholars; and, wherever it is possible to do so, they will be appropriated to specific objects, according to the peculiar wants of each school and district.

6. No grant will in any case exceed in amount the sum expended on the Institution from private sources, and the Government will always endeavour so to give its aid that the effect shall not be the substitution of public for private expenditure, but the increase and improvement of Education.

7. It is to be distinctly understood that grants in aid will be awarded only on the principle of perfect religious neutrality, and that no preference will be given to any school on the ground that any particular religious doctrines are taught or not taught therein.

I. Subject to the exceptions and with the qualifications hereinafter mentioned, whoever has been in possession, mediate or immediate, as proprietor of any moveable property, for the space of six years without interruption, shall acquire a title by prescription both at law and in equity to such moveable property; provided that, if any other title to such property be proved, such possession shall have been adverse thereto; and that nothing herein contained shall be construed to affect any rights arising from the possession of moveable property now recognized by law.

IV. Subject to the exceptions and with the qualifications hereinafter mentioned, whoever has enjoyed, mediately or immediately, any benefit, liberty, or privilege derived out of the immoveable property of another, or affecting such immoveable property or any right of ownership over the same for the space of 12 years without interruption, shall acquire by prescription both at law and in equity a right to the enjoyment of such benefit, liberty, or privilege as against the owner of such immoveable property, unless such benefit, liberty, or privilege shall have been enjoyed by some consent or agreement expressly given or made for that purpose by some deed or writing.

Possession when to be deemed adverse to other title

VII. Clause 1.—If the possession on which a title by prescription is claimed was acquired by the dispossession of any person claiming under another title or any person through whom he derives such title; or in opposition to another title which had then accrued but on which possession had not been taken, or having been taken had been previously interrupted; such possession shall, in either case, be deemed to have been adverse to such other title from the time at which it actually commenced.

Under what circumstances the possession shall not be deemed adverse to others.

Clause 2.—If the possession on which a title by prescription is claimed was acquired before the title that may be proved in opposition thereto first accrued, such possession shall not be deemed to have been adverse to the parties claiming under such other title, except from the time at which such other title accrued; and if the person claiming in right of such title, or any person through whom he claims, having any estate or interest in reversion or remainder, shall have become entitled to the same in possession by reason of any forfeiture or breach of condition, but shall have waived his right to recover thereupon, the possession on which a title by prescription is claimed shall not be deemed to have become adverse to him, or to any person claiming through him, until the determination of the previous estate or interest otherwise than by such forfeiture.

Dispossession of a party holding a limited lease or other tenure shall not be deemed adverse to the proprietor.

Clause 3.—If the possession on which a title by prescription to any immoveable property is claimed has been acquired by the dispossession of any person in possession of such property by virtue of any lease, or other intermediate tenure of limited duration which is liable to be forfeited or cancelled for non-payment of rent, or the breach of any condition, such possession shall not be deemed to have been adverse to the person entitled to the property subject to such lease or intermediate tenure, except from the time when such lease or intermediate tenure shall have determined by effluxion of time, or by forfeiture or cancellation in due course of law, as the case may be.

Clause 4.—If the possession on which a title by prescription is claimed shall have been acquired by the dispossession of any person entitled to the possession of any immoveable property by virtue of any Putnee or other dependent tenure which, by any law or usage, is liable to be sold for arrears of rent due from it by order of a Civil Court or Revenue Officer of the East India Company, freed from the sub-tenures or other incumbrances created by the defaulting proprietor thereof; such possession shall not be deemed to have been adverse to the purchaser at any such sale of such Putnee Talook or other saleable tenure, except from the time of the confirmation of the title of such purchaser.

When acquired by means of concealed fraud.

VIII. If the possession upon which a title by prescription is claimed has been first acquired by means of a fraud, it shall not be deemed adverse to any person whose title would be extinguished by such prescription until the time at which such fraud shall, or with reasonable diligence might, have been first known by him, or by any party through whom he claims, unless such title by prescription shall be claimed by a bonâ fide purchaser for valuable consideration, or by some person through such purchaser.

When acquired by a bonâ fide purchaser for value from trustee &c.

IX. Possession acquired by a bonâ fide purchaser for valuable consideration from a trustee or from a depositary, pawnee, or mortgagee shall be deemed adverse to the beneficial owner under the trust, depositor, pawner, or mortgagor from the time of the acquisition by purchase.

Title by prescription when acquired by mortgagors, pawners, &c.

X. Amendment of specification.

XXIX. If the said Supreme Court, at the hearing of any such application as last aforesaid, shall think that the petitioner has included in his petition or specification a description of an invention, or of a portion of an invention, whereof he was not the true and first inventor, or that such specification is in any particular defective or insufficient, but that such error, defect, or insufficiency has not been fraudulently intended, the Court may adjudge the said exclusive privilege to have been acquired and to be valid save as to the part thereof affected by such error, defect, or insufficiency, and may, upon such terms as shall appear reasonable, order the specification to be amended in any of the said particulars; and thereupon the petitioner, his executors, administrators, or assigns, shall, within the time limited by the said Court for the purpose, file a new specification as to such particulars, which specification shall be subject to all the provisions hereinbefore contained concerning specifications filed under this Act.

Entry in registry book of judgment, &c. declaring privilege invalid.

XXX. Whenever it shall be adjudged by the said Supreme Court at Fort William that such exclusive privilege, as to the whole or any part thereof, has not been acquired and is invalid, the said Secretary to the Government of India shall, upon the production of the judgment or order, cause an entry thereof to be made in the said book, and shall cause a reference to such entry to be made in the margin of the entry of the specification contained in such book as hereinbefore provided.

Particulars to be delivered.

XXXI. In any action for the infringement of such exclusive privilege, the Plaintiff shall deliver with his plaint particulars of the breaches complained of in the said action, and the Defendant, in pleading thereto, shall deliver with his pleas particulars of the grounds (if any) upon which he means to contend that the Plaintiff is not entitled to an exclusive privilege in the invention. In like manner, upon any application to the Supreme Court of Judicature at Fort William under Section XXIV. of this Act, or upon any issue directed thereon, the applicant shall deliver particulars of the objections on which he means to rely. At the trial of any such action or issue no evidence shall be allowed to be given in support of any alleged infringement or of any objection impeaching the validity of such inclusive privilege which shall not be contained in the particulars delivered as aforesaid. If it be alleged that the invention was publicly known or used prior to the date of the petition for leave to file such specification, the places where, and the manner in which, the invention was so publicly known or used, shall be stated in such particulars. Provided always that it shall be lawful for any Court in which the action or proceeding is pending, or in which the issue shall be tried, to allow such Plaintiff or Defendant respectively to amend the particulars delivered as aforesaid upon such terms as shall seem fit.

Service of proceedings.

XXXII. A book shall be kept for the purpose in the office of the Master of the Supreme Court of Judicature at Fort William (such book to be open to inspection without fee) wherein every person filing a specification under this Act shall cause to be mentioned, under a number in such book corresponding with the number of the specification in the registry book to be kept at the office of the Secretary to the Government of India, some place, within the local limits of the jurisdiction of the said Court, where service of any rule or proceedings for the purpose of cancelling or revoking his exclusive privilege may be made. All persons from time to time being proprietors or having shares or interests in such exclusive privilege, shall cause to be entered in such book, under such number as aforesaid, their names, together with the name of some place within the said local limits for the service of such proceedings as aforesaid. All such rules and proceedings as aforesaid shall be deemed sufficiently served on any such person if a copy thereof be left at the place entered in such book, or (if any other place be substituted for the same by entry in the said book) at the place last substituted, by delivering the same to any person resident at, or in charge of such place; and if any proprietor or other person as aforesaid shall neglect to make or cause to be made such entry, then the fixing up of a copy of any such rule or proceeding as aforesaid in the verandah of the said Supreme Court shall be deemed sufficient service thereof.

Nothing in this Act to affect Prerogative of Crown.

XXXIII. Nothing herein contained shall extend to abridge or affect the Prerogative of the Crown in relation to the granting or withholding the grant of any Letters Patent for inventions or otherwise, or to affect or interfere with any Letters Patent for an invention heretofore granted or hereafter to be granted by the Crown.

No. 4585.

Marine Court.

At a Marine Court assembled on Friday, the 13th day of July, One thousand Eight-hundred and Fifty-five, under Act XXIV. of 1845, Mr. Master Pilot Robert Frederick Barlow was tried on the following Charge:—

CHARGE.

Mr. Master Pilot Robert Frederick Barlow placed under arrest by order of the Superintendent of Marine on the following Charge:—

Unskilful performance of his duty, when in Pilotage Charge of the inward-bound American Ship Lightfoot, in consequence of which that Vessel struck in crossing from the Gasper to Thornhill's Channel, sprung a leak, shortly afterwards sunk near Saugor Anchoring Buoy, and became a total wreck.

(Signed) J. SUTHERLAND,
Officiating Secretary.

FORT WILLIAM;
Marine Superintendent's Office,
The 7th July 1855.

FINDING.

The Court having maturely weighed and considered the evidence brought forward in support of the Prosecution, together with that adduced on the Defence, is of opinion that the Defendant, Mr. Master Pilot R. F. Barlow, is Not Guilty of the Charge preferred against him, and do therefore fully acquit him of all and every part thereof.

(Signed) H. PIDDINGTON,
President.

The 18th July 1855.

(Signed) THOMAS HILL,
Judge Advocate.

MINUTE BY THE COURT.

The Court begs respectfully to suggest to the Authorities the necessity of having some standing instructions given to all Government Steamers, regarding the amount of claim which will be made on Vessels in distress, when they proceed to their assistance.

(Signed) H. PIDDINGTON,
President.

2*nd*. The Proceedings having been submitted to Government, the Hon'ble the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal has been pleased to confirm the Finding of the Court in the following letter from Mr. Secretary Grey, No. 259, of the 26th instant:—

No. 259.

FROM
GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL,

TO THE SUPERINTENDENT OF MARINE.

Dated Fort William, the 26th July 1855.

SIR,

Marine. I am directed to acknowledge the receipt of your letter, No. 4404, dated the 21st instant, submitting the Proceedings of a Marine Court, convened for the trial of Master Pilot Mr. R. F. Barlow, charged with unskilful performance of his duty, when in Pilotage Charge of the inward-bound-Ship Lightfoot, in consequence of which that vessel became a total wreck; and I am to inform you in reply, that the Lieutenant-Governor confirms and approves of the Finding of the Court, under which Mr. Barlow has been acquitted of all blame in the loss of the Lightfoot.

2. With respect to the Minute referred to in para. 3 of your letter, the Lieutenant-Governor presumes that the Court were not aware of the instructions* which have been already given by Government regarding claims to salvage on account of assistance rendered by Government Steamers. The measures which you have taken to make these instructions generally known, the Lieutenant-Governor thinks are sufficient, and it seems strange indeed that an order of so much interest to the Naval and Mercantile Communities should not have been previously known to any of the Merchants or Commanders of Vessels or Pilots who were serving on the Court, nor yet even to the Officer of the Master Attendant's Department, who was officiating as Judge Advocate.

* To Superintendent of Marine, No. 245, dated 5th April 1853; No. 108, dated 26th March 1855.

3. The original papers which accompanied your letter are returned herewith.

I have, &c.,
(Signed) W. GREY,
Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

3*rd*. The Master Attendant has accordingly been requested to release Mr. Master Pilot Robert Frederick Barlow from arrest, and to allow him to return to his duty.

By order of the Superintendent of Marine,
JAS. SUTHERLAND,
Officiating Secretary.

FORT WILLIAM,
The 30th July 1855.

I. Subject to the exceptions and with the qualifications hereinafter mentioned, whoever has been in possession, mediate or immediate, as proprietor of any moveable property, for the space of six years without interruption, shall acquire a title by prescription both at law and in equity to such moveable property; provided that, if any other title to such property be proved, such possession shall have been adverse thereto; and that nothing herein contained shall be construed to affect any rights arising from the possession of moveable property now recognized by law.

II. Subject to the exceptions and with the qualifications hereinafter mentioned, whoever has been in possession, mediate or immediate, of any immoveable property or hereditary office, as proprietor, for the space of 12 years without interruption, shall acquire a title by prescription both at law and in equity to such immoveable property or office; provided that, if any other title to such property or office be proved, such possession shall have been adverse thereto.

Title by prescription to occupancy how acquired.

III. When the proprietor of any land, with the knowledge that any person claims a right to occupy such land as tenant in perpetuity, either at a fixed rent, or at a rent assessable according to fixed rules, has permitted that person so to occupy such land for the space of 12 years without interruption, such person, subject to the exceptions and with the qualifications hereinafter contained, shall acquire, as against such proprietor, and all persons claiming through him, a title by prescription to the perpetual occupancy of such land, at a fixed rent, or at a rent assessable according to fixed rules, as the case may be, subject to all the conditions incident to the tenure so claimed by him by any law or usage having the force of law;

Proviso.

Title by prescription to easements how acquired.

IV. Subject to the exceptions and with the qualifications hereinafter mentioned, whoever has enjoyed mediately or immediately, any benefit, liberty, or privilege derived out of the immoveable property of another, or affecting such immoveable property or any right of ownership over the same for the space of 12 years without interruption, shall acquire by prescription both at law and in equity a right to the enjoyment of such benefit, liberty, or privilege as against the owner of such immoveable property, unless such benefit, liberty, or privilege shall have been enjoyed by some consent or agreement expressly given or made for that purpose by some deed or writing.

Right to easements, &c., how extinguished.

V. If the perpetual right to any such benefit, liberty, or privilege as in the last preceding Section mentioned, whether acquired by prescription or otherwise, shall have been disused for 12 years, the same shall be extinguished.

Possession when to be deemed adverse to other title.

VII. Clause 1.—If the possession on which a title by prescription is claimed was acquired by the dispossession of any person claiming under another title or any person through whom he derives such title; or in opposition to another title which had then accrued but on which possession had not been taken, or having been taken had been previously interrupted; such possession shall, in either case, be deemed to have been adverse to such other title from the time at which it actually commenced.

Under what circumstances the possession shall not be deemed adverse to others.

Clause 2.—If the possession on which a title by prescription is claimed was acquired before the title that may be proved in opposition thereto first accrued, such possession shall not be deemed to have been adverse to the parties claiming under such other title, except from the time at which such other title accrued; and if the person claiming in right of such title, or any person through whom he claims, having any estate or interest in reversion or remainder, shall have become entitled to the same in possession by reason of any forfeiture or breach of condition, but shall have waived his right to recover thereupon, the possession on which a title by prescription is claimed shall not be deemed to have become adverse to him, or to any person claiming through him, until the determination of the previous estate or interest otherwise than by such forfeiture.

Dispossession of a party holding a limited lease or other tenure shall not be deemed adverse to the proprietor.

Clause 3.—If the possession on which a title by prescription to any immoveable property is claimed has been acquired by the dispossession of any person in possession of such property by virtue of any lease, or other intermediate tenure of limited duration which is liable to be forfeited or cancelled for non-payment of rent, or the breach of any condition, such possession shall not be deemed to have been adverse to the person entitled to the property subject to such lease or intermediate tenure, except from the time when such lease or intermediate tenure shall have determined by effluxion of time, or by forfeiture or cancellation in due course of law, as the case may be.

Under what circumstances the possession shall not be held adverse to a purchaser of a tenure sold for arrears of rent.

Clause 4.—If the possession on which a title by prescription is claimed shall have been acquired by the dispossession of any person entitled to the possession of any immoveable property by virtue of any Putnee or other dependent tenure which, by any law or usage, is liable to be sold for arrears of rent due from it by order of a Civil Court or Revenue Officer of the East India Company, freed from the sub-tenures or other incumbrances created by the defaulting proprietor thereof; such possession shall not be deemed to have been adverse to the purchaser at any such sale of such Putnee Talook or other saleable tenure, except from the time of the confirmation of the title of such purchaser.

When acquired by means of concealed fraud.

VIII. If the possession upon which a title by prescription is claimed has been first acquired by means of a fraud, it shall not be deemed adverse to any person whose title would be extinguished by such prescription until the time at which such fraud shall, or with reasonable diligence might, have been first known by him, or by any party through whom he claims, unless such title by prescription shall be claimed by a bonâ fide purchaser for valuable consideration, or by some person through such purchaser.

When acquired by a bonâ fide purchaser for value from trustee &c.

IX. Possession acquired by a bonâ fide purchaser for valuable consideration from a trustee or from a depositary, pawnee, or mortgagee shall be deemed adverse to the beneficial owner under the trust, depositor, pawner, or mortgagor from the time of the acquisition by purchase.

Title by prescription when acquired by mortgagors, pawners, &c.

X. A title by prescription shall be acquired by possession by or through a depositary, pawnee, or mortgagee against the depositor, pawner, or mortgagor, if such possession shall have continued without interruption for 30 years in the case of moveable property and 60 years in the case of immoveable property, unless in the meantime an acknowledgment of the title of the depositor, pawner, or mortgagor, or of his right of redemption, shall have been given to him, or some person claiming his interest, in writing signed by the depositary, pawnee, or mortgagee, or some person claiming through him; in which case prescription shall not take effect until possession shall have been had without interruption for 30 or 60 years, as the property may be moveable or immoveable, from the date of such acknowledgment in writing.

That the said invention was not, at the time of presenting the petition for leave to file the specification, a new invention as to the public use and exercise thereof, or

That the said invention is not useful to the public, or

That the petitioner was not the true and first inventor thereof, or

That the specification filed does not particularly describe and ascertain the nature of the invention or in what manner the same is to be performed, or Application by Advocate General on breach of special condition.

XXV. It shall be lawful for the Advocate General of the East India Company at the Presidency of Fort William, by order of the Governor General in Council, to apply to the said Supreme Court of Judicature at Fort William for a rule calling upon the petitioner, his executors, administrators, or assigns, to show cause why the question of the breach of any special condition upon which the leave to file a specification has been granted, of any other question of fact on which the revocation of the exclusive privilege by the Governor General in Council under the power hereinbefore reserved, may, in the judgment of the said Governor General in Council, depend, should not be tried in the form of an issue directed by the said Court; and the Court, unless the breach or other matter of fact be admitted, may thereupon direct such issue to be tried, and certify the result of such trial to the Governor General in Council. The costs of such trial of any proceedings in the said Court under the provisions of this Act shall be in the discretion of the Court.

Service of proceedings on all persons interested.

XXVI. Notice of any rule obtained or proceeding taken under the two last preceding Sections, shall be served on all persons appearing to be proprietors or to have shares or interests in the exclusive privilege under the provisions of Section XXXII. of this Act, and it shall not be necessary to serve such notice on any other persons.

Supreme Court at Fort William may direct any issue for trial to other Courts.

XXVII. The said Supreme Court, if it thinks fit, may direct an issue for the trial of any question of fact arising upon such application to any other Court, whether of Her Majesty or of the East India Company, and such issue shall be tried accordingly, and the result of the trial shall be certified by the Court before which the same was tried, to the said Supreme Court of Judicature at Fort William.

Judgment.

XXVIII. If it shall appear to the said Supreme Court at the hearing of any application under the provisions of Section XXIV. of this Act that, by reason of any of the objections therein mentioned, the said exclusive privilege or any portion thereof has not been acquired, the Court shall adjudge the same or such portion thereof (as the case may be) to be invalid, and shall make such order as to the costs of, and consequent upon such application as it may think just.

Costs.

Amendment of specification.

XXIX. If the said Supreme Court, at the hearing of any such application as last aforesaid, shall think that the petitioner has included in his petition or specification a description of an invention, or of a portion of an invention, whereof he was not the true and first inventor, or that such specification is in any particular defective or insufficient, but that such error, defect, or insufficiency has not been fraudulently intended, the Court may adjudge the said exclusive privilege to have been acquired and to be valid save as to the part thereof affected by such error, defect, or insufficiency, and may, upon such terms as shall appear reasonable, order the specification to be amended in any of the said particulars; and thereupon the petitioner, his executors, administrators, or assigns, shall, within the time limited by the said Court for the purpose, file a new specification as to such particulars, which specification shall be subject to all the provisions hereinbefore contained concerning specifications filed under this Act.

Entry in registry book of judgment, &c. declaring privilege invalid.

XXX. Whenever it shall be adjudged by the said Supreme Court at Fort William that such exclusive privilege, as to the whole or any part thereof, has not been acquired and is invalid, the said Secretary to the Government of India shall, upon the production of the judgment or order, cause an entry thereof to be made in the said book, and shall cause a reference to such entry to be made in the margin of the entry of the specification contained in such book as hereinbefore provided.

Particulars to be delivered.

XXXI. In any action for the infringement of such exclusive privilege, the Plaintiff shall deliver with his plaint particulars of the breaches complained of in the said action, and the Defendant, in pleading thereto, shall deliver with his pleas particulars of the grounds (if any) upon which he means to contend that the Plaintiff is not entitled to an exclusive privilege in the invention. In like manner, upon any application to the Supreme Court of Judicature at Fort William under Section XXIV. of this Act, or upon any issue directed thereon, the applicant shall deliver particulars of the objections on which he means to rely. At the trial of any such action or issue no evidence shall be allowed to be given in support of any alleged infringement or of any objection impeaching the validity of such inclusive privilege which shall not be contained in the particulars delivered as aforesaid. If it be alleged that the invention was publicly known or used prior to the date of the petition for leave to file such specification, the places where, and the manner in which, the invention was so publicly known or used, shall be stated in such particulars. Provided always that it shall be lawful for any Court in which the action or proceeding is pending, or in which the issue shall be tried, to allow such Plaintiff or Defendant respectively to amend the particulars delivered as aforesaid upon such terms as shall seem fit.

Service of proceedings.

XXXII. A book shall be kept for the purpose in the office of the Master of the Supreme Court of Judicature at Fort William (such book to be open to inspection without fee) wherein every person filing a specification under this Act shall cause to be mentioned, under a number in such book corresponding with the number of the specification in the registry book to be kept at the office of the Secretary to the Government of India, some place, within the local limits of the jurisdiction of the said Court, where service of any rule or proceedings for the purpose of cancelling or revoking his exclusive privilege may be made. All persons from time to time being proprietors or having shares or interests in such exclusive privilege, shall cause to be entered in such book, under such number as aforesaid, their names, together with the name of some place within the said local limits for the service of such proceedings as aforesaid. All such rules and proceedings as aforesaid shall be deemed sufficiently served on any such person if a copy thereof be left at the place entered in such book, or (if any other place be substituted for the same by entry in the said book) at the place last substituted, by delivering the same to any person resident at, or in charge of such place; and if any proprietor or other person as aforesaid shall neglect to make or cause to be made such entry, then the fixing up of a copy of any such rule or proceeding as aforesaid in the verandah of the said Supreme Court shall be deemed sufficient service thereof.

Nothing in this Act to affect Prerogative of Crown.

XXXIII. Nothing herein contained shall extend to abridge or affect the Prerogative of the Crown in relation to the granting or withholding the grant of any Letters Patent for inventions or otherwise, or to affect or interfere with any Letters Patent for an invention heretofore granted or hereafter to be granted by the Crown.

C. ALLEN, ESQ., in the Chair.

Read the following Report submitted by the Managers:—

"The Managers submit their proceedings for the past half-year for the consideration and sanction of the Meeting."

"Subject to the approval of the Subscribers at this Meeting they have admitted to the benefits of the Fund the following Families:—"

Mrs Walker, yearly,	£	300
Two children ,,	,,	200

"The widow and two children (daughters) of the late Mr. Richard Walker, who died at Cairo on the 23rd November last."

Mrs Magniac, yearly, £300,

"The widow of the late Mr. Lane Magniac (Annuitant of 21st June 1843), who died in England on the 5th of November last, admitted under the old Rules, the deceased having before retirement made up the prescribed sum of Rupees 25,000."

Mrs. Latter (formerly Sealy,) yearly,	£	400
Less, private income about	,,	213

"The widow of the late General Latter, formerly an incumbent, on full allowances, from the Fund, as the widow of Mr. John Nathaniel Sealy, a Subscriber, who died in 1815, has been re-admitted under the old Rules from the date of decease of her late husband, viz., 25th February 1855. This lady's original incumbency lasted only for a short period, viz., from the 1st November 1815 to the 10th May 1817, when she was married to Major the late General Latter, and ceased to be an incumbent. She is now re-admitted on the allowance noted on the margin.

"One of the two sons of the late Mr. G. F. "The Managers have, as directed by the last General Meeting, taken into consideration the paper on the state of the Fund submitted to that Meeting by Mr. Beadon, in which he proposed that an additional rate of ½ per cent. should be levied on the salaries of all Subscribers and a tax imposed on unequal marriages. They are of opinion that the Fund is in a progressive state, and that the imposition of the proposed cess and tax is at any rate for the present unnecessary."

Resolved unanimously that the admission by the Managers of the families above specified to the benefits of the Fund be confirmed.

The business of the Meeting being concluded, thanks were voted to the Chairman, and the Meeting separated.

I. Subject to the exceptions and with the qualifications hereinafter mentioned, whoever has been in possession, mediate or immediate, as proprietor of any moveable property, for the space of six years without interruption, shall acquire a title by prescription both at law and in equity to such moveable property; provided that, if any other title to such property be proved, such possession shall have been adverse thereto; and that nothing herein contained shall be construed to affect any rights arising from the possession of moveable property now recognized by law.

V. If the perpetual right to any such benefit, liberty, or privilege as in the last preceding Section mentioned, whether acquired by prescription or otherwise, shall have been disused for 12 years, the same shall be extinguished.

Possession when to be deemed adverse to other title

VII. Clause 1.—If the possession on which a title by prescription is claimed was acquired by the dispossession of any person claiming under another title or any person through whom he derives such title; or in opposition to another title which had then accrued but on which possession had not been taken, or having been taken had been previously interrupted; such possession shall, in either case, be deemed to have been adverse to such other title from the time at which it actually commenced.

Under what circumstances the possession shall not be deemed adverse to others.

Clause 2.—If the possession on which a title by prescription is claimed was acquired before the title that may be proved in opposition thereto first accrued, such possession shall not be deemed to have been adverse to the parties claiming under such other title, except from the time at which such other title accrued; and if the person claiming in right of such title, or any person through whom he claims, having any estate or interest in reversion or remainder, shall have become entitled to the same in possession by reason of any forfeiture or breach of condition, but shall have waived his right to recover thereupon, the possession on which a title by prescription is claimed shall not be deemed to have become adverse to him, or to any person claiming through him, until the determination of the previous estate or interest otherwise than by such forfeiture.

Dispossession of a party holding a limited lease or other tenure shall not be deemed adverse to the proprietor.

Clause 3.—If the possession on which a title by prescription to any immoveable property is claimed has been acquired by the dispossession of any person in possession of such property by virtue of any lease, or other intermediate tenure of limited duration which is liable to be forfeited or cancelled for non-payment of rent, or the breach of any condition, such possession shall not be deemed to have been adverse to the person entitled to the property subject to such lease or intermediate tenure, except from the time when such lease or intermediate tenure shall have determined by effluxion of time, or by forfeiture or cancellation in due course of law, as the case may be.

Under what circumstances the possession shall not be held adverse to a purchaser of a tenure sold for arrears of rent.

Clause 4.—If the possession on which a title by prescription is claimed shall have been acquired by the dispossession of any person entitled to the possession of any immoveable property by virtue of any Putnee or other dependent tenure which, by any law or usage, is liable to be sold for arrears of rent due from it by order of a Civil Court or Revenue Officer of the East India Company, freed from the sub-tenures or other incumbrances created by the defaulting proprietor thereof; such possession shall not be deemed to have been adverse to the purchaser at any such sale of such Putnee Talook or other saleable tenure, except from the time of the confirmation of the title of such purchaser.

When acquired by means of concealed fraud.

VIII. If the possession upon which a title by prescription is claimed has been first acquired by means of a fraud, it shall not be deemed adverse to any person whose title would be extinguished by such prescription until the time at which such fraud shall, or with reasonable diligence might, have been first known by him, or by any party through whom he claims, unless such title by prescription shall be claimed by a bonâ fide purchaser for valuable consideration, or by some person through such purchaser.

When acquired by a bonâ fide purchaser for value from trustee &c.

IX. Possession acquired by a bonâ fide purchaser for valuable consideration from a trustee or from a depositary, pawnee, or mortgagee shall be deemed adverse to the beneficial owner under the trust, depositor, pawner, or mortgagor from the time of the acquisition by purchase.

Title by prescription when acquired by mortgagors, pawners, &c.

X. A title by prescription shall be acquired by possession by or through a depositary, pawnee, or mortgagee against the depositor, pawner, or mortgagor, if such possession shall have continued without interruption for 30 years in the case of moveable property and 60 years in the case of immoveable property, unless in the meantime an acknowledgment of the title of the depositor, pawner, or mortgagor, or of his right of redemption, shall have been given to him, or some person claiming his interest, in writing signed by the depositary, pawnee, or mortgagee, or some person claiming through him; in which case prescription shall not take effect until possession shall have been had without interruption for 30 or 60 years, as the property may be moveable or immoveable, from the date of such acknowledgment in writing.

Periods of prescription how computed

XI. Clause 1.—In computing the periods of possession or enjoyment whereby a title or right by prescription may be acquired under Sections I, II, III, and IV of this Act, the time during which any person entitled to interrupt such possession or enjoyment shall have been under the disability of infancy; or unsoundness of mind; or, if a woman subject to the law of England, of coverture; or shall have been absent from the territories in the possession and under the Government of the East India Company and in some place beyond the Continent of India; shall be excluded from the computation. Provided that no longer time than 18 years shall be excluded from such computation on account of any such disability, and that no longer time than five years shall be excluded from such computation on the ground of absence, and that such absence shall have been continuous from the time when the title of such person accrued.

It shall be lawful for the Advocate General of the East India Company at the Presidency of Fort William, by order of the Governor General in Council, to apply to the said Supreme Court of Judicature at Fort William for a rule calling upon the petitioner, his executors, administrators, or assigns, to show cause why the question of the breach of any special condition upon which the leave to file a specification has been granted, of any other question of fact on which the revocation of the exclusive privilege by the Governor General in Council under the power hereinbefore reserved may, in the judgment of the said Governor General in Council, depend, should not be tried in the form of an issue directed by the said Court; and the Court, unless the breach or other matter of fact be admitted, may thereupon direct such issue to be tried, and certify the result of such trial to the Governor General in Council. XXIX. If the said Supreme Court, at the hearing of any such application as last aforesaid, shall think that the petitioner has included in his petition or specification a description of an invention, or of a portion of an invention, whereof he was not the true and first inventor, or that such specification is in any particular defective or insufficient, but that such error, defect, or insufficiency has not been fraudulently intended, the Court may adjudge the said exclusive privilege to have been acquired and to be valid save as to the part thereof affected by such error, defect, or insufficiency, and may, upon such terms as shall appear reasonable, order the specification to be amended in any of the said particulars; and thereupon the petitioner, his executors, administrators, or assigns, shall, within the time limited by the said Court for the purpose, file a new specification as to such particulars, which specification shall be subject to all the provisions hereinbefore contained concerning specifications filed under this Act.

Entry in registry book of judgment, &c. declaring privilege invalid.

Such Court may, in certain cases, stay execution of judgment.

III. The Court to which application is made to execute or enforce a judgment may, before making an order to stay execution, or for the restitution of property, or the discharge of the judgment debtor under this Act, require such security from, or impose such conditions upon, the judgment debtor, as it may deem reasonable.

Legislative Council.

The 4th August 1855.

THE following Bill was read a second time in the Legislative Council on the 4th August 1855, and referred to a Select Committee who are to report thereon after the 8th of October next:—

A Bill to provide for the better lighting of the Town of Calcutta.

WHEREAS a Company has been established for the purpose of supplying Gas to the Town of Calcutta, and it is expedient that the public streets should be lighted with Gas wherever pipes may be laid down for that purpose at the desire or with the concurrence of the Municipal Commissioners and the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, and also that the parts of the Town in which Gas pipes are not laid down should be better lighted with oil lamps than they are at present; and whereas it is expedient that, to provide means for these purposes, a lighting rate should be assessed on the occupiers of houses and buildings within the said Town, and that occupiers of houses paying more than a certain sum in monthly rent should no longer be compelled to keep up a lighted lamp at their own doors: It is enacted as follows:—

Preamble.

Portions of Acts repealed.

I. Section L of Act No. XII of 1852, and so much of Section LXV of Act No. X of 1852 as requires, or may be understood to require, that any portion of the proceeds of the assessment imposed by the last mentioned Act on the owners of houses, buildings, and grounds in the said Town shall be applied to lighting the streets, are repealed.

Commissioners to determine what streets shall be lighted with Gas.

II. The Commissioners for the improvement of the Town of Calcutta, with the sanction of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, shall determine in what roads, streets, lanes, and thoroughfares Gas lights are required, and upon main-pipes being laid down therein by the Gas Company, the public lamps shall be lighted with Gas; and it shall be the duty of the Commissioners to take care that the Gas lights are in such number, and so disposed, as to ensure the efficient lighting of the said roads, streets, lanes, and thoroughfares at the smallest possible expense.

And to provide sufficient oil lamps in other streets.

III. In those roads, streets, lanes, and parts of the Town in which Gas pipes may not be at first laid down, the Commissioners shall provide and maintain such a number of oil lamps as may be sufficient for the due lighting thereof. The number of those lamps shall not be less than the aggregate number of public lamps and gate-lamps of the kind prescribed by Section IV Act No. XII of 1852 hitherto existing in such roads, streets, lanes, and parts of the Town. Provided always that the Commissioners shall distribute the total number of lamps in such places and in such manner as they shall think best suited for the proper lighting of the whole.

Lighting rate to be assessed on occupiers.

IV. An assessment, to be called a lighting rate, shall be made, except as hereinafter otherwise provided, on the occupiers of all houses, buildings, and grounds in the said town, the gross monthly rental whereof shall exceed the sum of five Rupees. The assessment shall be at such rates as shall be sufficient to pay all the expenses of lighting the public roads, streets, and lanes of the said Town with Gas and with oil, and no more, and shall not exceed four per centum on the gross monthly rental in roads, streets, and lanes lighted with Gas, and two per centum on the gross monthly rental in roads, streets, and lanes lighted with oil.

Rates of assessment how fixed.

V. The rates of assessment shall be fixed from time to time by the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal on the report of the Commissioners for the improvement of the said Town, Provided always that the rate for roads, streets, and lanes, which at the time of this Act first coming into force, or at any future period, may be lighted with Gas, shall be double the rate for roads, streets, and lanes lighted with oil.

Assessment by whom made.

VI. The rates fixed by the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, as provided in the last preceding Section, shall be assessed on the rate-payers by the Justices of the Peace in and for the said Town of Calcutta; and all houses, buildings, and grounds liable to the rates shall be included in the assessment, whether they be occupied or unoccupied at the time when the assessment is made.

Assessment how to be made when occupier is owner.

VII. When the occupier of any house, building, or grounds is also the owner, the assessment shall be made on the gross monthly rental at which the same, in the estimation of the said Justices, might reasonably be expected to let.

In what cases assessment to be made on owner.

VIII. If the gross monthly rent of any house, building, or grounds be less than ten Rupees, or if any house or building be let by the owner in floors or apartments, or to tenants holding from week to week, or from month to month, the assessment shall be made upon the owner instead of the occupier or occupiers thereof.

Occupiers to pay rates only for the time of their occupation.

IX. Occupiers shall be liable to payment of rates only for the time of their occupation, and no rate shall be charged on any person on account of unoccupied houses or buildings for the time during which they may remain unoccupied.

Assessments when to be made.

X. The first assessment under this Act shall be made immediately upon the Act coming into force, or as soon after as may be practicable, and shall have effect from the date of the Act coming into force to the close of the current quarter of the official year. In like manner an assessment shall be made at the commencement of the next and every succeeding quarter, and shall be in force during that quarter.

Proviso for revision.

Provided that the assessment may be revised at any time within the quarter with respect to any particular holding, on sufficient cause shown to the satisfaction of the Justices, or with respect to any change of rate which may be prescribed either for the whole Town, or any part thereof, under the provisions of Section V of this Act.

Application to this Act of certain Sections of Act No. X of 1852

XI. Sections XXXIX to LIV, both inclusive, and Sections LVI to LXIV, both inclusive, of Act No. X of 1852, respecting the making of assessments, the collection of rates and taxes, the penalty for resistance to the Commissioners, and the liability of the Commissioners for acts performed by them, shall be applicable to the assessments to be made, the rates to be collected, and the acts to be performed by the Commissioners under this Act. Provided however that the rates assessed under this Act on the monthly rental of houses, buildings, and grounds, shall be due and payable from and after the end of each month, and may be collected by the Commissioners monthly or quarterly at their discretion. Provided also that the provisions of Sections LI and LIV, respecting the issue of process to owners and the distraint of their goods and chattels, shall be applicable also to process issued to occupiers and distraint of their goods and chattels, on account of any sum due from them as arrears of assessment made under this Act. Provided further that all goods and chattels which shall be found upon any premises rated under this Act, shall be liable to be distrained for any arrears of rates assessed in respect thereof, and if the arrear, or any portion thereof, be due from any person other than the owner of the said goods and chattels, such owner may recover any sum paid by or levied from him, on account of the arrear due from such other person, by suit against that person in the Calcutta Court of Small Causes, as for money paid in his behalf.

Proviso for monthly collection.

And for distraint of all goods and chattels found on the premises.

XII. This Act shall commence and have effect from and after a date to be fixed by the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, when the arrangements for lighting a portion of the said Town with Gas shall have been completed; and notice of such date, and of the rates to be assessed under Section V, shall be published in the Calcutta Gazette at least one month previously.

Legislative Council.

The 4th August 1855.

THE following Bill was read a second time in the Legislative Council on the 4th August 1855, and referred to a Select Committee who are to report thereon after the 8th of November next:—

A Bill to explain and amend Act No. XXXIII. of 1852.

WHEREAS doubts have arisen whether, when application is made to a Court to enforce or execute the judgment of another Court under the provisions of Act No. XXXIII of 1852, the Court to which the application is made has power to inquire into the validity of the judgment; and it is expedient to remove such doubts, and to prevent any such Court from inquiring into the validity of a judgment in respect of which it has no appellate jurisdiction, and to provide for a stay of execution when such Court thinks it reasonable that the validity of the judgment should be inquired into: It is enacted as follows:—

Preamble.

I. The Court to which application is made to enforce or execute a judgment of another Court under the provisions of Act No. XXXIII of 1852, shall not have power to inquire into the validity of such judgment, unless it appear, upon the face of such judgment, that the Court by which the judgment was given had no jurisdiction to pronounce the same.

Court to which application to enforce a judgment of another Court is made, not to inquire into the validity of the judgment.

Proviso.

II. When application is made to any Court to execute or enforce the judgment of another Court under the provisions of the said Act, the Court to which the application is made may, upon reasonable cause being shown, stay the execution of the judgment for a reasonable time, to enable the judgment debtor to apply to the Court by which the judgment was given, or to any Court having appellate jurisdiction in respect of the judgment or execution thereof, for an order to stay the execution, or for any other order relating to the judgment or the execution thereof, which such Court of first instance or Court of Appeal might have made if execution had been issued by the Court of first instance, or if application for execution had been made to such Court; and in case the property or person of the judgment debtor shall have been seized under an execution, the Court which issued the execution may order restitution of the property, or the discharge of the person of the debtor, in the mean time.

Such Court may, in certain cases, stay execution of judgment.

III. The Court to which application is made to execute or enforce a judgment may, before making an order to stay execution, or for the restitution of property, or the discharge of the judgment debtor under this Act, require such security from, or impose such conditions upon, the judgment debtor, as it may deem reasonable.

Court may in such cases take security &c. from judgment debtor.

IV. Any order of the Court in which the judgment was given, or of such Court of Appeal as aforesaid, shall be binding upon the Court to which the application for execution was made, and shall be a sufficient indemnity for all persons acting in execution of process issued by such last mentioned Court.

Order of Court pronouncing judgment to be binding upon Court enforcing the same &c.

V. No discharge of a defendant under the provisions of this Act shall prevent him from being re-taken in execution of the judgment.

Defendant discharged under this Act liable to be re-taken in execution of the judgment.

VI. This Act shall be read with, and taken as part of Act No. XXXIII of 1852.

Act to form part of Act XXXIII of 1852.

W. MORGAN,
Clerk of the Council.
